UNIVERSAL CUNIVERSAL OU_156114 YANAMI THE STATE OF THE

A BASIC PHONETIC READER

by

A. LLOYD JAMES, M.A.

Professor of Phonetics in the School of Oriental Studies University of London; Linguistic Adviser to the British Broadcasting Corporation

THOMAS NELSON AND SONS LTD

LONDON EDINBURGII PARIS MELBOURNE
TORONTO AND NEW YORK

All rights reserved

THOMAS NELSON & SONS LTD.

35-36 PATERNOSTER ROW, LONDON, E C 4; PARKSIDE WORKS, EDINBURGH, 25 RUE DLNIERT-ROCHEREAU, PARIS; 312 FLINDERS STREET, MELBOURNE; 91-93 WELLINGTON STREET WEST, TORONTO; 381-385 FOURTH AVENUE, NEW YORK.

First published 1937

For a list of books in Basic English please send a post card to the nearest Nelson office or to the Orthological Institute, 10 King's Parade, Cambridge, England.

CONTENTS

PAR	TI				PAGE
THE PRONUNCIATION OF BA	sic En	GLISH			、3
Examples of Open Sounds	3				16
Examples of Stopped Sou	NDS	•	•	•	28
PAR'	r II
Tom Thumb			•		34
CRUSOE GIVES HELP TO FRI	DAY	•			40
JERRY'S NEW YEAR .	•		•	•	5 0
FLORIZEL AND PERDITA		•	•		58
GULLIVER PUTS AN END TO	a Wa	R			66
THE WHISTLE	•				74
THE STRANGE BEHAVIOUR O	of Mr.	LEGRA	ND		80
KEAWE'S BOTTLE .			•		88
Höichi the Biwa-Player	•	•			98
Building the Ark .	•	•	•	•	106
PART	гШ
THE DISCOVERY OF THE EG	YPT'S	Gold			116
THE HOTEL			•		124

Vl	A BASIC PHONETIC REA	DER
Тнв	LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND WAR
тик	KRILOGG AGREEMENT

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS	AND	War			132
THE KELLOGG AGREEMENT	r.				138
THE SUN'S SYSTEM .			•		144
TRADE UNDER HENRY VI	Ι.		•		150
WEIGHT AND MASS .					156
THE STORY OF JUDAS		•			166
Money and Purchasing	Powe	R.	•	•	176
THE BASIC WORDS .					183
INTERNATIONAL WORDS					197

PART I

(43+2) B

It is the purpose of Basic English to provide a simple form of the English language in which it is possible to express, in a way that will be understood wherever the English language is used, most of the simple and ordinary things that ordinary people talk about on ordinary occasions. Basic English does not pretend to be the language that native-born English-speaking people generally use, and consequently many of the things said in their English must be said differently in Basic; but wherever the English language is used, Basic will be understood.

But though intellegibility is its primary purpose, the simplification required does not necessarily make it any the less natural; and even if its way of saying some things may sometimes seem a little strange, that is not a very serious matter. The American way of saying some things seems as odd to British people as the British way does to the American people. But you can be quite sure that both British and American will understand Basic, and that, after all, is something.

What we have so express is of much greater importance in the world than how we propose to express it. But if, when we say it, we pronounce it in such a way that nobody understands us, then we waste our time; if we have anything to say, we might as well learn not only the words necessary but also their pronunciation; otherwise we shall have to keep on writing down on paper what we have to tell people.

You may think English pronunciation is very difficult: perhaps it is. It all depends on what you mean by difficult. Those whose business it is to study these things tell us that every language is difficult to pronounce if it is not your native language; and we know that this is true. When you have been performing speech all your life in a certain way, making your tongue, your lips, your vocal cords, and all the rest of your speaking machinery perform their thousands of operations, each in its own way and all co-ordinated in one way, you find it very hard to make them perform in another way.

Just as Basic offers you a simple vocabulary, so it can offer you a simple pronunciation. There are, as anybody knows, very many pronunciations of English to be heard in the world today, and thanks to telephones, radio, and films, most of us are familiar with hundreds of these ways of speaking English, or "pronunciations" as we call them.

Millions of people all over the world listen daily and nightly to one or other of these pronunciations; as a rule they listen to several in the same programme, and are scarcely aware of the fact. We may like some and dislike others, but as a rule we do not pay much attention to the pronunciation so long as we can understand it; if we fail to understand it, then we get a little upset. But fortunately for us, people who use a pronunciation that is not easily understood, however freely they may make themselves a nuisance when they call us up on the telephone, are firmly excluded from making public appearances before microphones. Nobody willingly pays to hear something that he cannot understand, unless of course he wishes to create in the minds of his fellows the impression that he does understand it.

And so, if English is not your mother tongue, and you wish to learn to speak it, you must learn a pronunciation of it; you cannot speak a language without pronouncing it, or trying to pronounce it. If your effort is so bad that no natives understand you, then you are said to be trying—and failing—to pronounce it. If natives understand you, then you are pronouncing it. If they have no difficulty whatever in understanding you; if, in fact, they would readily take you-in the dark-to be a native like themselves, then you are said to be pronouncing it perfectly. The degrees of efficiency between this state of perfection and complete unintelligibility are numerous; fortunately, human beings are so intelligent that they can, in the last resort, make themselves understood, or make themselves understand, without words or pronunciation at all. Gestures, motions, pantomime, action, even a box on the ear or a revolver have been known to establish intelligibility where speech has for some reason or other failed.

There are many hundreds of millions of English-speaking natives in the world, and you will have to pronounce English very badly indeed not to be understood by at any rate some of these millions. No matter how badly you speak, there will doubtless be somewhere, somebody who will love you sufficiently to make it his, or her, business to understand, to try to understand, what you are trying to say, and to help you out. But you have no right to expect such delicate and painstaking attention from a bus conductor in Singapore, a telephone operator in Scarborough, a dentist in Madison, Wis., or a London policeman. And if it falls to your lot to address the Council of the League of Nations, to speak on the radio, or make a news item on the talking film in this English language, then remember that your chances of success, no matter in what direction you aim at success, will not be enhanced if the millions who may have to listen to you fail to understand you.

How then are you to pronounce Basic? You are to pronounce it so that it will be understood from Los Angeles to Singapore, from Cape Town to Quebec, from Balliol to Sing Sing, and from White House to Log Cabin—and vice versa. The King of England, President Roosevelt, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Mr. Lloyd George, Mr. Bernard Shaw, Mr. George Arliss, Mr. Paul Robeson, all speak English. No two of them speak it alike; but they are all understood over the geographical and social areas covered in the preceding paragraph. So are millions of other speakers, and the task before you cannot be as difficult as you suppose. It would be a very difficult thing to imitate any one of these distinguished speakers so perfectly that you would be mistaken for him on the radio: fortunately there is no need to carry linguistic ability to this extent. If you wish to know which of the people just mentioned talks the "best" English, then you are merely asking an idle question; if you are so stupidly conceited as to imagine that only the best English is good enough for you, then there is not much hope for you. Any educated native English-speaking man or woman, born in any part of the world where English is regularly spoken by educated people, is good enough for a learner whose mother tongue is not English. So keep your ears open, and remember all this talk about "educated" people, for it is the educated people who make the standard. A Durham collier, a Chicago newsboy, a Cockney navvy, or a Cape Town stevedore may all talk English, but their pronunciation may be much harder to learn than that of the people mentioned previously; and what is more, even if you do learn their pronunciation, it will not be particularly useful unless you propose to spend your life as a Durham collier, a Chicago newsboy, a Cockney navvy, or a Cape Town stevedore. If your life is to be lived in any of these environments, there may be a good reason for learning the suitable pronunciation, for any other pronunciation will be a handicap. If you aspire to higher things, then there is also an appropriate pronunciation. If you are going to sell books in Atlanta, don't use the pronunciation of people who sell motor-cars in Bond Street; and if you happen to learn English from an educated Yorkshireman, or Scotsman, or Welshman, or American, don't have an inferiority complex about it. If you happen to be a foreigner, they can all talk English much better than you are ever likely to do, and if you ever attain to anything approaching their achievement, you will have every reason to be proud of yourself.

So we set down in this book, with the help of a phonetic alphabet, a very simple form of English speech that, when pronounced according to instructions, will be understood as widely as you are ever likely to wish. This "phonetic representation," as it is called, is an average picture of all the main kinds of English pronunciation heard in the world today. It is not a picture of the author's English or of that of any of the distinguished speakers of English mentioned a little while ago; but it contains something of all their pronunciations.

The picture of the English language that you see on this page—the spelling, as we call it—is not a picture of what English sounds like today; it is rather the picture of what English speech used to sound like three or four hundred years ago. Putting a modern pronunciation on to an old spelling is rather difficult. It may be amusing. Ask anybody who is not very familiar with the rules to read aloud this sentence:

Though the rough cough ploughs me through

There is one translation of this into sound which is accepted throughout the English-speaking world; there are several hundreds of wrong ways. To help you to get a right way of pronouncing English we have put the modern picture of English pronunciation on one page, and the old picture on the opposite page, so that you can read which you like. In order to understand the modern picture, you must understand the features of which it is made up. And when you try to reproduce modern English speech from the picture, then you must imitate the features as closely as possible. The features are the sounds of English. In the phonetic picture each important English sound has a letter to itself. Some of these letters are usual letters, and they stand for the features they have stood for for many hundreds of years; these features will be the same in both pictures. Some features have to have new letters: vou will learn these in less than no time.

But don't run away with the idea that just because you know your letters you are bound to pronounce English well. It is quite as easy to pronounce phonetic letters badly as it is to pronounce ordinary letters badly. So try your best to imitate your teacher. If you are lucky enough to have a gramophone, then you may be able to hear a pronunciation, and hearing is much better for this business than seeing. Pronunciation is to be learnt only by listening, listening, and listening, before you try to imitate.

Here is a complete list of the Sounds of English with the phonetic letters used in this Reader to represent them. Some of the letters are very familiar to you; but some are strange. Vowel Sounds:

```
i:
           [ki:p] keep i give giv get get е have [hav] a: far [faːr] o off of a: for forr u put put n: do du:]
A come kaml
a: birth [bə::0] about [əlbaut] a boy [ə boi] after [a:ftər]
```

Note that a letter followed by: always stands for a longer sound than when not so followed. We have long vowels and short vowels in English. As a rule a long vowel sounds slightly different in quality from its short partner. Diphthongs, i.e. two vowel sounds in one syllable:

Consonants:

		r
p	page	[peidʒ].
b	back	[bak]
t	talk	[to:k]
d	damage	[damidz]
k	kick	[kik]
g	good	[gud]
ťζ	chalk	[t(o:k]
dʒ	jelly	[ˈldʒeli]
m	metal	[metl]
n	name	[neim]
ŋ	wrong	[ron]
í	land	[land]
г	rain	[rein]
θ	theory	[ˈθiəri]
ð	then	[ðen]
f	fact	faktl
v	every	[levri]
8	salt	[so:lt]
z	as	[az] 「
Š	short	[\o:rt]
2	measure	[meʒər]
3 h	hate	[heit]	N.B. hour is	[auər]
w	walk	[wo:k]
j	young	[jaŋ]
j	Joung	[1]]

Wherever the English language is spoken, these sounds will be heard. It does not follow that any one sound will be identically the same in pronunciation all over the world. The sound [a] is different in Yorkshire from what it is in London; the sound [l] heard often in America is different from that heard in Ireland; while [r] has so many sounds and so many silences that it requires a special paragraph all to itself.

If we take a word like rain, no matter where we turn in this great English-speaking world, we shall hear an [r] sound of one kind or another. It may be the majestic roll of the Scotsman, the pouting apology that is fashionable among superior young ladies in London, the curled-back variety so popular in America and South-Western England, or the throaty choke of Northumberland.

If we take a word like drink, or a word like operation, the same will be true: all over the English-speaking world there will be heard an [r] sound of one kind or another.

But if we take a word like far, or a word like north, then we shall notice a difference. Most of the native English-speaking people in the world will pronounce their own particular variety of the [r] sound in these words, but many millions, especially of those who live in England, will not pronounce any [r] at all.

This difference in the treatment of the [r] sound is one of the main causes of variation in English pronunciation throughout the world, and if you are learning English as a foreign language you had better make up your mind very soon what you are going to do about it. If your teacher is a native-born speaker of the English language, you must imitate him—or her. For your information you should know that in what is known as Standard British English [r] is pronounced only when a vowel sound follows, e.g. in rain, reason, very, stretch. The r is not pronounced in this kind of English in any other position, e.g. in far, forward, desire, care, start, garden.

If you wish to learn this kind of English, then you must go through the phonetic part of this book and cross out all the r's that are to be silent, for this phonetic picture has been made to suit the other kinds of English—American English, Canadian English, Irish English, Scottish English, and Welsh English, not to mention many other varieties of English to be heard up and down the world.

If English is your native language, then all you need do when you are reading the phonetic part is to treat the letter r in exactly the same way as you do when reading the ordinary spelling.

If you have the gramophone records that go with this book, you will find that they give the sort of pronunciation just described as Standard English: that is the pronunciation of the man who spoke the records. It is the pronunciation of many millions of English speakers, and there cannot be many educated English speakers in the world who have never heard a pronunciation of this kind. Never mind whether you like it or not; if you use it, you can be fairly certain of being understood. It is no better and no worse than many other kinds of English. If you want to learn one of the many excellent kinds of American English, then you must take as your model a good American speaker.

In addition to the phonetic letters, there is used an accent mark, a short vertical stroke standing above the line: !. Ordinary English spelling does not use a mark of this kind, with the result that it is difficult for foreigners, and indeed English speakers themselves sometimes, to know where the accent falls on many English words. Fortunately the rules about the position of the accent in Basic English are not difficult, because 513 of the 850 words are words of one syllable only. Of the remaining 337 words, 255 have the accent on the last syllable but one, whether they are words of two, three, or more syllables. So out of the list of 850 words there are only 82 that do not fall in with the general rule that in words of more than one syllable the accent in Basic falls upon the last syllable but one. The phonetic part of this book will help you to learn the exceptions: every time you meet with an exception, underline it, and learn it with its proper accent. You will soon see that most of these exceptions fall into certain groups.

Remember that this accent, or stress, as it is sometimes called, plays a very important part in English pronunciation; and if you get it right, you will be much more readily understood in the English-speaking world than if you get it wrong. When you see the sign, it is a signal to you that you must say the following syllable with more force than the other syllables; if you want to know how to do this, then you must listen to a gramophone record, or to your English teacher.

One of the most important things in English pronunciation is this "accent" or "stress," so make up your mind to get it right. When you learn a word, learn it properly, that is, learn it so that you will always say it with its accent on the right syllable. And when you learn sentences, or passages of prose or verse, look after these accents: imitate your teacher or the gramophone record.

If you are ambitious enough to wish to learn a really good pronunciation of English, then you must pay some attention to learning English speech-melodies or intonations, as they are called. These must be learnt from a teacher or a gramophone record.

- i: 'pli:z 'ki:p'ŏi:z 'stri:ts 'kli:n.

 ŏə 'mi:tiŋ 'si:md tə 'si: ŏə 'ni:d fə:r 'pi:s.

 hi: wil 'si: ŏə 'si:d bi'kam ə 'tri:.

 in ŏi: 'i:st ŏə 'si: 'si:mz tə bi: 'sli:piŋ.
- i hiz sistər wil giv him səm printin-ink.
 kwik, giv səm milk tə də pig—it iz il.
 hiz stik haz ə leik bit əv skin fikst in dir lend də mist wəz liftid bai ə stif lyınd.
- e 'jes, let əs 'send hiz 'frend səm 'help

 'dıs 'end əv öə 'bed iz öə 'hed.

 'get öə 'belz 'əf öə 'nek əv öat 'dres.

 ə 'bad 'eg iz ə 'test əv 'eniwany: 'sens əv 'smel.
- a 50 manidzər haz ə stamp ənd səm waks. hiz bad akt had ə sad lend. 50 man haz ə blak hat-band. 50 kat iz not əz fat əz 50 bad rat.

- Please keep these streets clean.
 The meeting seemed to see the need for peace.
 He will see the seed become a tree.
 In the east the sea seems to be sleeping.
- His sister will give him some printing-ink.
 Quick, give some milk to the pig—it is ill.
 His stick has a thick bit of skin fixed in the end.
 The mist was lifted by a stiff wind.
- Yes, let us send his friend some help.
 This end of the bed is the head.
 Get the bells off the neck of that dress.
 A bad egg is a dest of anyone's sense of smell.
- a The manager has a stamp and some wax.
 His bad act had a sad end.
 The man has a black hat-band.
 The cat is not as fat as the bad rat.
- a: We are far from the art of the past.

 They made a start for a far part of the dark harbour.

The last branches are in the farm-cart. His arm was cut with a sharp part of the hard glass.

- o o boks haz not o lok.

 so rod iz on so top ov so klok.

 so dog did not get so not of.

 o drop ov waks hoz gon on hiz soks.
- or to bound and kound or stourd bai to door.

 Iget juar shours and sou to to stour for smour fourks.

 To sgreat shoul had a foul from to swoul, put soil to smoul kounks on to stour.
- u hi: tuk ə lgud lluk ət öə lwumənz lfut.
 hi: lput öə lwul ən ə lhuk.
 löis lru:m iz lful əv lgud lbuks.
 lgiv öə lwul ə lpul ənd öə lwud ə lpus.
- u: du: ju: si: və mu:n frəm və ru:f?
 hu: sed və ru:t əv hiz nju: tu:v wəz lu:s?
 fru:t ənd su:p a:r tu: so:rts əv fu:d.
 və blu: bu:ts ənd su:z wər mu:vd v.iv mai əlpru:vl.
- a ə 'nat həz 'kam of və 'pamp. və 'spandz iz 'kavərd wiv 'blad frəm hiz 'kat 'θam. hiz 'gan sent vi: 'avər 'san 'of ət ə 'ran. 'samwan iz 'kamin wiv ə 'navər 'kap.
- e: ŏiː ˈəːrli ˈbəːrd gets ŏə ˈfəːrst ˈwəːrm.

 təːrniŋ ˈskəːrts ənd ˈʃəːrts həz biːn həːr ˈwəːrk fər ˈjiərz.

 Şə ˈkəːrvd ˈfoːrm əv ŏiː ˈəːrθ iz ˈɛˈvər ˈtəːrniŋ.
 - to weirst weirk for seirth peirsnz iz seiring weirdz ev veirs.

- The box has not a lock.

 The rod is on the top of the clock.

 The dog did not get the knot off.

 A drop of wax has gone on his socks.
- o: The boards and cord are stored by the door.
 Get your horse, and go to the store for more forks.
 The great ball had a fall from the wall.
 Put all the small corks on the floor.
- He took a good look at the woman's foot.
 He put the wool on a hook.
 This room is full of good books.
 Give the wool a pull and the wood a push.
- u: Do you see the moon from the roof?
 Who said the root of his new tooth was loose?
 Fruit and soup are two sorts of food.
 The blue boots and shoes were moved with my approval.
- A nut has come off the pump.
 The sponge is covered with blood from his cut thumb.
 His gun sent the other son off at a run.
 Someone is coming with another cup.
- er The early bird gets the first worm.

 Turning skirts and shirts has been her work for years.

The curved form of the earth is ever turning.

The worst work for certain persons is learning words of verse.

- ə ən əlmaunt; və kalər; ə bit əv batər.
- ou louver wi: lgou in 59 kould snou.

 Si: lould lgout went roulin louver 59 stours.

 Seer er lnou lould bounz in 59 koul-houl.
- ai mai lgaid lwent bai & lsaid əv öi: lais.
 hərr lbrait laiz hav ə lkaind lsmail.

 8 lfleimz meid ə lbrait llait in 8 lnait.
- au hau wil ai lget to lpaudor laut ov mai lmau0?

 to lkau end to lbraun lfaul er lnau lded.

 hiz haus iz ldaun in to lsau0 ev to ltaun.

 e llaud saund lkeim from to lklaudz.
- oi dzoinin de boiz wiz got de stoun inte de boilin oil. de point wez peintid wid poizn. den keim de noiz ev boiz voisiz.
- ia ai hav ən aildiə ai əm hiərin ə lbi: lniər mai lior. hiz lθiəri əv lfiər iz kliər tu levriwan lhiər.
- eə hweər iz veər səm eər?
 Və gə:rl in və skweər teiks keər əv hə:r heər.
- uə juər kruəl tə və puər.

- a An amount; the colour; a bit of butter.
- ei The great snake has a grey tail.

 The rain came through a space in the plates.

 He put on the brakes when the train came to a safe place.

Take some paste: they are playing at making a cake.

- ou Over we go in the cold snow.

 The old goat went rolling over the stones.

 There are no old bones in the coal-hole.
- ai My guide went by the side of the ice.
 Her bright eyes have a kind smile.
 The flames made a bright light in the night.
- The cow and the brown fowl are now dead.

 Ilis house is down in the south of the town.

 A loud sound came from the clouds.
- Joining the boys we got the stone into the boiling oil.
 The point was painted with poison.
 Then came the noise of boys' voices.
- ia I have an idea I am hearing a bee near my ear. His theory of fear is clear to everyone here.
- ea Where is there some air?
 The girl in the square takes care of her hair.
- ua You're cruel to the poor.

- aiə 'put ői: 'aiərn 'waiər on őə 'faiər.
 in hiz 'dizaiər fər 'kwaiət őə 'taiərd 'man went 'haiər.
- auə auər lflauərz hav öə lpauər əv lplizziŋ fər ən
- i: i |wil fi: |giv mi: |di:z |fri: |tikits ? |dis |tind |swi:t iz |mikst wi0 |bitər |si:dz, wi: wil |si: him in de |midl ev de |di:p |river. hi: |ki:ps |di:z |siks |fi:p in hiz |kli:n |fip. |dis |si:mz te bi: |printid in |gri:n |ink. hi: |z |ri:din de |si:krit e|gri:ment bitwi:n |him end |mi:. hi: |si:mz te |giv |din |ri:znz fer hiz |di:p e|pinjenz.
- e a | men havin | fat | neks | never hav | ffat | t sets. | get sem | wet | sand frem 80 | man wid 80 | red | handz.

ői: langri kat had őə hed əv ə lded rat.

- ซือ ded man had อ mas əv blak led in hiz lef
- a a: 50 |glass had o |darrk |band |marrkt in |blak |starrz.
 - və baskit əv aplz iz frəm farvərz bak gasrdr
 - ə blak kat wəz hanın frəm pə fair braints.
 - və darık man had ə flat parısl in hiz hand.
 - hapili marid man haz ə tsarns əv teikin ə parrt in öə harrməni əv öə famili.

- Put the iron wire on the fire. ลเ่อ In his desire for quiet the tired man went higher.
- Our flowers have the power of pleasing for an auə hour
- i: i Will she give me these free tickets? This tinned sweet is mixed with bitter seeds. We will see him in the middle of the deep river. He keeps these six sheep in his clean ship. This seems to be printed in green ink. He is reading the secret agreement between him and me. He seems to give thin reasons for his deep
 - opinions.
- Men who have fat necks never have flat chests. e a Get some wet sand from the man with the red hands.
 - The angry cat had the head of a dead rat. The dead man had a mass of black lead in his left hand.
- The glass had a dark band marked in black a a: stars.
 - The basket of apples is from father's back garden.
 - A black cat was hanging from the far branch. The dark man had a flat parcel in his hand.
 - A happily married man has the chance of taking a part in the harmony of the family.

- o or o to lworr waz da lkorz av lorl lsorrts av ljokin lstorriz.
 - öi: ofer ev smool profits in ketn end kerk wez stept.
 - δə İtərl İdərr wəz İərnəmentid wið ə İləŋ İkləθ.
 - hiz so: ə İstron İnot in və İkəzrd ən və İdəgz
 - ai got o'drop ev 'worter fer to 'horrs frem to 'torl 'botl on to 'ffor.
 - ŏə İklək ən öə İhəspitl İwazl iz İpəli\(\frac{1}{2}\) t wið ə səzrt əv İstran İsazlt.
 - on 50 'florr wez e 'notid 'korrd, e 'smorl 'koper 'pot, end e 'forrk ev 'polist 'horrn.
- o: A so 'normal 'lav av 'lo: and 'ordar iz a 'stron salpoirt in sa 'straktsar av 'gavarnment. 'andar hiz 'tan waz 'not a 'borl bat o 'smorl 'nat. do 'frant 'dorr waz 'sat 'lon bifoir 'san-ap. sa 'mani-ordarz far hiz 'smorl 'san 'kam fram
 - wan jan dorter iz de selpoirt end kamfert ev
 - ə rab wið ə raf spandz ənd worm wortər iz im portənt fər stron maslz.
- u u: |put vo |gud |su:p spu:nz in ə (gru:p. |Qru: vo |ru:f vo |mu:n wəz |lukiŋ intə vo |ru:m. |hu:|tuk vo |blu:|buk frəm vo |sku:l rum f o or The war was the cause of all sorts of shocking stories.

The offer of small profits in cotton and cork was stopped.

The tall door was ornamented with a long cloth. He saw a strong knot in the cord on the dog's collar.

I got a drop of water for the horse from the tall bottle on the floor.

The clock on the hospital wall is polished with a sort of strong salt.

On the floor was a knotted cord, a small copper pot, and a fork of polished horn.

o: A The normal love of law and order is a strong support in the structure of government.

Under his tongue was not a ball but a small nut.

The front door was shut long before sun-up.

The money-orders for his small son come from the north.

One young daughter is the support and comfort of all the others.

A rub with a rough sponge and warm water is important for strong muscles.

u u: Put the good soup spoons in a group.

Through the roof the moon was looking into the room.

Who took the blue book from the school room?

EXAMPLES OF OPEN SOUNDS

ei ai teil ei raitin et te l'rait l'reit.

ai em l'weitin te l'teik te l'nait l'trein.

te l'hwait l'seil wez l'neild l'tait te te l'rait l'reil.

te l'teil ev te l'sneik wez l'weivin frem l'said te l'said.

beer wez e waid smail on mai gaidz kaind feis.

EXAMPLES OF OPEN SOUNDS

The group went through the woods looking for you.

The woman put her wounded foot into the loose shoe.

Put the hook through the wood and give a pull. Loose wool is used in good cushions.

ei ai They are writing at the right rate.

I am waiting to take the night train.

The white sail was nailed tight to the right rail.

The tail of the snake was waving from side to side.

There was a wide smile on my guide's kind face.

- p b őə 'puər 'bəiz 'put öə 'broukn 'bətlz 'intə 'braun 'penpər 'bagz.
 hiərz ə 'bjuxtifuli 'printid 'buk wiö 'brait 'piktfərz.
- t d tirtsin əv delikət triks tə dəgz teiks taim.
 təldei hirl teik ə dəfərənt trein tə taun.
- k g | |gou ənd |get mai |blak |glavz ət və |klimərz və |kəfi |keik wəz |kwikli |kat bal və |gərrl in |grim.
- f v wir had auər 'fərrst 'vjur əv və 'faiər-faitin 'veslz.

 və 'frir 'vərrs əbaut 'fərls 'lav had ə 'vaiələnt
- s z őə sizz sən iz in hərr vəis ənd ə streindz

1 fekt on hiz frend.

čeər wəz ə sadn həiz əv steps in čə strit nd vəisiz saundin in čə haus.

- p b The poor boys put the broken bottles into brown paper bags.
 Here's a beautifully printed book with bright pictures.
- t d The teaching of delicate tricks to dogs takes time.

 Today he'll take a different train to town.
- k g Go and get my black gloves at the cleaner's.

 The coffee cake was quickly cut by the girl in green.
- f v We had our first view of the fire-fighting vessels.

 The free verse about false love had a violent effect on his friend.
- s z

 The sea's song is in her voice and a strange secret is in her smile.

 There was a sudden noise of steps in the street and voices sounding in the house.

95 • | Sis | Oik | Ored wil | not | gou | smu: Si Oru: So | kloO.

lori: əv dəm wər lgouin lnə:ro. lori: diz wid hiz loam in hiz lmauo. lori:din oru: də lmauo iz lnət lheldi.

this was loothin to ldzadz ltheindzin his lines.

this was loothin to ldzadz ltheindzin his lines.

dzoinin to ltheind loot ltheindz in his lilidzon.

to lbridz was leidid bai tis lasethin lbrasht.

η hiz waz traitin wið ða tron link.

tiztsin and tlazrnin azr tdifarant θinz.

h j w hi: wəz 'jaŋ in 'jiərz bət 'waiz in öə 'weiz əv 'wə:rdz.

'raund öə 'haus wəz ə 'hai 'jelou, 'wo:l 'ouvər 'hwit' wəz ə 'vju: əv öə 'wudz.

lr hiz left leg lrestin on və lou lreil, hiz wəz lraitin ə letər.
Ired led ən ə lən lrəd givz və lrait lait.

θ δ This thick thread will not go smoothly through the cloth.
Three of them were going north.
There he is with his thumb in his mouth.
Breathing through the mouth is not healthy.

ts d3 s
He was watching the judge changing his shoes.
The cheese is in the chest with the fish.
Joining the church made no change in his religion.
The bridge was shaded by the arching branch.

η He was writing with the wrong ink.

Teaching and learning are different things.

h j w He was young in years but wise in the ways of words.

Round the house was a high yellow wall over which was a view of the woods.

l r His left leg resting on the low rail, he was writing a letter.
Red lead on a long rod gives the right light.

PART II

(4842) D

Itom IOAM

'fa:r 'bak in δə 'pa:st, ŏeər wəz ə 'wudkatər hu wəz 'marid ənd had 'sevn 'sanz; ənd ŏi 'ouldist əv δə 'sevn wəz 'ounli 'ten 'jiərz 'ould. δə 'man ənd 'wumən wər 'veri 'puər, ənd ŏeər 'sanz wər ə 'greit 'trabl; bikoz 'nət 'wan əv öəm wəz 'ould inaf tə 'du: 'matʃ 'wə:rk. in əˈdiʃən, ŏə 'jangist wəz ə 'veri 'delikət boi, ənd did-'veri 'litl 'to:kin. hiz 'fa:ŏər ənd 'maŏər 'had ŏi: ai'diə öət hi: wəz 'fu:liʃ, bət ŏə 'fakt 'wəz öət hiz 'kwaiət 'tan wəz öə 'sain əv ə 'waiz 'hed. hi: wəz 'veri 'smə:l. ət hiz 'bə:rθ hi: wəz əbaut öə 'saiz əv ə 'manz 'θam, ənd 'təm 'θam wəz öə 'neim hwitʃ hiz 'fa:ŏə: ənd 'maŏər 'geiv him.

hwen ever enieig in so haus went ron, tom oam wez sed to biz so kozz, and hiz got so panisment. bet hiz had morr nolids and kwiker breinz son hiz braser. hiz kept hiz maue sat, bet hiz ierz wer oupn or so taim.

veri bad winter, hwen furd wez harrd te lget, end de man end wumen wer anleibl te kirp veer sanz eni longer. wan nait, hwen de ltur wer sitted in frant ev de faier, end veer sanz wer orl in bed, to wudkater sadli sed: "wi hav not inaf furd

TOM THUMB 1

Far back in the past, there was a Woodcutter who was married and had seven sons; and the oldest of the seven was only ten years old. The man and woman were very poor, and their sons were a great trouble; because not one of them was old enough to do much work. In addition, the youngest was a very delicate boy, and did very little talking. His father and mother had the idea that he was foolish, but the fact was that his quiet tongue was the sign of a wise head. He was very small. At his birth he was about the size of a man's thumb, and Tom Thumb was the name which his father and mother gave him.

Whenever anything in the house went wrong, Tom Thumb was said to be the cause, and he got the punishment. But he had more knowledge and quicker brains than his brothers. He kept his mouth shut, but his ears were open all the time.

There came a very bad winter, when food was hard to get, and the man and woman were unable to keep their sons any longer. One night, when the two were seated in front of the fire, and their sons were all in bed, the Woodcutter sadly said: "We have not fər Səm. Sei ər getin 'lin ənd 'il; ənd sə 'lint əv sə 'fjurtfər 'kirps mir əlweik ət 'nait, təlmorou wir wil 'teik səm 'farr intə sə 'wud; ənd sen 'kam əlwei hwen sei ər 'nət 'lukin. Sei wil hav 'nou ai'diə hwitf di'rekfən tə 'teik—ənd 'sat wil bir sir 'end əv səm."

¹ From Stories from France, Charles Perrault, pp. 80-83.

"hwot?" sed misiz wudkater. "wil ju: biz sou kruel ez te let dem kam te sats en lend?" hiz kept sein hau puer dei weir, bet siz wud net giv heir egrizment te hiz sedzestsen. Siz wez puer, bet siz woz deer mader. bet den siz geiv sad loot te de sijuitser, hwen siz wud siz heir litl beiz getin nierer end mierer te dee levri suer; end et laist siz sed de wudkater wez rait, end siz went krain te bed.

'evriθiŋ δei had 'sed had 'kam ta δi 'larz av 'tom 'θam. 'hiəriŋ δeər 'voisiz, hiz had 'got aut av 'bed and 'softli 'kam ta δa 'faiərpleis and got 'landər hiz 'faiðərz 'siit. 'sou, wið'aut haviŋ bizn 'sizn, hi had 'nolidʒ av hwot hiz 'faiðər and 'maðər 'hað' in 'maind. δe 'litl 'boi went 'bak ta 'bed; bat hiz had 'nou 'morr 'slizp δat nait—hi waz 'tərniŋ 'ouvər in hiz 'maind ai'diəz fər 'kiːpiŋ him'self ənd hiz 'braðərz 'seif fram a 'kruəl 'deθ. 'ərrli in δa 'morrniŋ, hi 'went daun ta δiz 'edʒ av a 'rivər, ənd 'got hiz 'pokits 'ful av 'sməzl 'hwait 'stounz, ənd 'ben keim 'bak ta δa 'haus. in a 'ʃorrt 'taim, 'orl δa 'boiz 'went aut te'geðər wið δeər 'faiðər ənd 'maðər; ənd 'tom 'θam sed 'naθiŋ ta hiz 'braðərz abaut δiz i'vents av δa 'nait bi'forr.

enough food for them. They are getting thin and ill; and the thought of the future keeps me awake at night. Tomorrow we will take them far into the wood; and then come away when they are not looking. They will have no idea which direction to take—and that will be the end of them."

"What?" said Mrs. Woodcutter. "Will you be so cruel as to let them come to such an end?" He kept saying how poor they were, but she would not give her agreement to his suggestion. She was poor, but she was their mother. But then she gave sad thought to the future, when she would see her little boys getting nearer and nearer to death every hour; and at last she said the Woodcutter was right, and she went crying to bed.

Everything they had said had come to the ears of Tom Thumb. Hearing their voices, he had got out of bed and softly come to the fireplace and got under his father's seat. So, without having been seen, he had knowledge of what his father and mother had in mind. The little boy went back to bed; but he had no more sleep that night—he was turning over in his mind ideas for keeping himself and his brothers safe from a cruel death. Early in the morning, he went down to the edge of a river, and got his pockets full of small white stones, and then came back to the house. In a short time, all the boys went out together with their father and mother; and Tom Thumb said nothing to his brothers about the events of the night before.

Sei went ə loŋ lwei intuz ə lveri löik lwud, lsou löik bət sei wər anleibl tə lsiz fər lmər sen lten ljazıdz. ət lazıst sə lwudkatər lsed: "ai wil lget tə lwəzık lhiər; lsis lsizmz ə lgud lpleis. hwail lai əm lkatiŋ ə ltriz daun, ljuz lboiz lgou ənd lget səm ldrai lstiks fər lfaiərwud." sə lsevn litl lboiz ldid əz seər lfazsər lsed; ənd lhwen sei həd bizn lwəzıkiŋ fər lsam ltaim, sə lman ənd lwumən went lslouli ənd lkwaiətli lfrom səm. lhwen sə lboiz wud lnou llənger biz leibl tə lsiz səm, sei went lkwikli lbak tə sə lhaus.

la:ftər ə ltaim, δə lboiz wər lkənsəs öət öeər lfa:öər ənd lmaöər wər lgən; ənd öə lsiks lbraöərz geiv llaud lkraiz fər lhelp. it wəz lnou lju:s: ŏeər lkraiz wər lweistid ən öi: anlhiərin ltri:z. ltəm lθam meid lnou əltempt tə lki:p öəm lkwaiət; bət hi: wəz lsə:rtn öei wud lə:l lget lbak lseifii. lən öə lwei laut, hi: həd lkept ldrəpin hiz lstounz; ənd sou levri lja:rd əv öə lroud tə öə lhaus wəz lma:rkt. lhwen hiz lbraöərz wər ltaiərd əv lkraiin, hi: lsed tə öəm: "lhav lnou lfiər. auər lfa:öər ənd lmaöər həv lgən lfrəm əs, bət lai wil lteik ju: lbak tə öə lhaus. lkam wiö lmi:."

bei went wib him, and hi: tuk bam bak. ba stounz kept bam on ba hait roud. hwen bei war bak at ba haus, bei kept in fiar autsaid ba do:r. hwat wud bear fa:bar and mabar du: ta bam?

They went a long way into a very thick wood, so thick that they were unable to see for more than ten yards. At last the Woodcutter said: "I will get to work here; this seems a good place. While I am cutting a tree down, you boys go and get some dry sticks for firewood." The seven little boys did as their father said; and when they had been working for some time, the man and woman went slowly and quietly from them. When the boys would no longer be able to see them, they went quickly back to the house.

After a time, the boys were conscious that their father and mother were gone; and the six brothers gave loud cries for help. It was no use: their cries were wasted on the unhearing trees. Tom Thumb made no attempt to keep them quiet; but he was certain they would all get back safely. On the way out he had kept dropping his stones; and so every yard of the road to the house was marked. When his brothers were tired of crying, he said to them: "Have no fear. Our father and mother have gone from us, but I will take you back to the house. Come with me."

They went with him, and he took them back. The stones kept them on the right road. When they were back at the house, they kept in fear outside the door. What would their father and mother do to them?

kruzsou givz help to fraidei

in 50 |man0 əv di|sembər, in |kru:souz |twenti-|Oəzrd |jiər ən 5iz |ailənd, hiz wəz sər|praizd tə siz ə |faiər ən 5ə |sandz, ənd |nain |blak men |daznsin |raund it. it wəz |kwait |kliər 5ət 5ei həd |kam tə 5iz |ailənd in |tuz |bouts. ə |na5ər |gru:p, in |Oriz |bouts, |keim tə 5iz |a5ər said əv |kru:souz |ailənd, ənd |had ə |miz| əv 5ə |men 5ei həd |put tə |de0. |hwen 5ei həd |gon hiz |keim ə|kros ə |nambər əv |bounz, 5ə |sainz əv 5eər dis|gastin |miz|.

'hwen 'kru:sou 'so: ŏei həd 'gən, hi: 'kwikli put 'tu: 'ganz ouvər hiz 'a:rm, 'tu: 'hand-ganz iñ hiz 'trauzər band, ənd ə 'militəri 'bleid. 'ŏen, 'wiö'aut 'ləs əv 'taim, hi: 'went tə öə 'sloup hweər hi: həd 'fə:rst 'si:n öə 'bouts əv öə 'blak men. öeər wəz 'nou 'daut öət öər həd bi:n '\text{\phi}: 'a\text{\phi}\text{\phi}' bouts ət öə 'pleis, ənd hi: 'so: öəm '\text{\phi}:\text{\phi} on öə '\text{\si:} tə\geo\text{\phi}.

əlgen hiz lpirs əv lmaind wəz lgon, ənd hir lwent əlbaut lorl öə ltaim in lfiər öət hir lmait lkam əlkros öəm ət ə ltaim hwen hir wəz not lredi fər öəm. bət it wəz lmorr öən lfiftirn lmanθs biforr leni əv öə lblak men lkeim tə öir laflənd əlgen.

In the month of December, in Crusoe's twenty-third year on the island, he was surprised to see a fire on the sands, and nine black men dancing round it. It was quite clear that they had come to the island in two boats. Another group, in three boats, came to the other side of Crusoe's island, and had a meal of the men they had put to death. When they had gone he came across a number of bones, the signs of their disgusting meal.

When Crusoe saw they had gone, he quickly put two guns over his arm, two hand-guns in his trouser band, and a military blade. Then, without loss of time, he went to the slope where he had first seen the boats of the black men. There was no doubt that there had been three other boats at the place, and he saw them all on the sea together.

Again his peace of mind was gone, and he went about all the time in fear that he might come across them at a time when he was not ready for them. But it was more than fifteen months before any of the black men came to the island again.

¹ From Robinson Crusoe, Daniel Defoe (in Basic English), pp. 67-72.

in 50 midl əv mei in 50 jiər azftər, hwen 50 webər wəz veri bad, 50 saund əv ganz əv ə sip in trabl keim tə krusouz iərz.

hi: sez in hiz dei-buk: "ai got təlgevər o:l və drai wud hwit wəz niər, ənd meid ə faiər wiv it ən ve təp əv və sloup. Və wud wəz drai, ənd və ffeimz went hai, ənd dou və wind wəz veri strən, it went ən bərnin veri wel. hwen və faiər wəz starrtid, vər keim tə mai sərz və saund əv əlnavər gan, ənd sartər vat ə nambər əv lavər, o:l frəm və seim dilek ən. ai kept mai faiər bərnin o:l vru və nait til və mərnin; ənd hwen it wəz deilait ənd vir sər həd bikam kliər, ai sər samvin ət ə greit distəns saut tə sir, sirst əv vir sailənd.

"ai had ə 'luk ət it 'frizkwəntli 'ozl öat 'dei, ənd in ə 'sort 'taim 'sor öət it wəz 'not 'murvin, sou ai wəz əv öir ə 'pinjən öət it wəz 'probəbli ə 'sip ət 'şest. ai 'tuk mai 'gan in mai 'hand, ənd 'went 'kwikli in öə dı'reksən əv öə 'sauð-lirst 'said əv öir 'ailənd, tə öə 'stounz. bai öə 'taim ai 'got öeər, öə 'wedər wəz 'gud, ənd tə mai 'greit ri'gret ai 'khərli 'sor ə 'damidzd 'sip hwits həd birn 'forrst in öə 'nait on tə öə 'masiz əv 'stoun 'niər öir 'ailənd, hwits wər 'kept frəm 'vjur bai öə 'weivz.

"ai wəz |not |evər |sə:itn if öcər wər |eni |livin |men on öat |sip o:r |not; bət ai meid öə |sad dis|kavəri, |sam |deiz |leitər, əv öə |bodi əv ə |boi hwit | həd |kam ap on tə öə |sandz ət öi: |end əv öi: |ailənd |niərist öə |sip."

hwen to woivz got les, and to si: waz kwaiat,

In the middle of May in the year after, when the weather was very bad, the sound of guns from a ship in trouble came to Crusoe's ears.

He says in his day-book: "I got together all the dry wood which was near, and made a fire with it on the top of the slope. The wood was dry, and the flames went high, and though the wind was very strong, it went on burning very well. When the fire was started, there came to my ears the sound of another gun, and after that a number of others, all from the same direction. I kept my fire burning all through the night till the morning: and when it was daylight and the air had become clear, I saw something at a great distance out to sea, east of the island.

"I had a look at it frequently all that day, and in a short time saw that it was not moving, so I was of the opinion that it was probably a ship at rest. I took my gun in may hand, and went quickly in the direction of the south-east side of the island, to the stones. By the time I got up there, the weather was good, and to my great regret I clearly saw a damaged ship which had been forced in the night on to the masses of stone near the island, which were kept from view by the waves

"I was not ever certain if there were any living men on that ship or not; but I made the sad discovery, some days later, of the body of a boy which had come up on to the sands at the end of the island nearest the ship."

When the waves got less, and the sea was quiet, krußou went aut in hiz bout end got te ve damided sip, hwits wez sikst bitwin tu: masiz ev stoun. e puer dog, eilmoust ded frem nied ev stoud, keim deampin aut ev ve sipin inte krussouz bout; bet vat siemd te bie ve sound slivin son ve broukn sip krussou put ve dog end tue teets frem ve sipin, te gever wid e pauder-heern, sem saiden end et san-daun, taierd wid hiz haerd weerk.

ve ltsests wer lful ev lserts, lpokit linin, end lnek klobs. ve lboksiz in ve lgreit ltsests lhad in vem lbagz ev lmani end lmasiz ev lgould. ebaut lviz kruseu lsez:

"it iz tru: öət ai had mə:r mani öən ai had bilfə:r, bət ai wəz nou betər of. ai had nou mə:r ju:s fər it öən ö:: undjənz əv pəru: had bilfə:r öə spanjərdz went öeər."

əbaut ə İjiər ənd ə İhaif İwent İbai, ənd İöen, İwan İməirnin, İkruisou wəz sərlpraizd tə sii İfaiv İbouts İkam tə öii İailənd təlgeöər. Tə İblak men İkeim ən İland—Tər wər əbaut İdəirti əv Təm—ənd in ə İfair İtaim wər İdainsin raund ə İfair hwit Ten tə İbouts, ənd İwan əv Təm wəz İkwikli İput tə İded wit ə İweitid İstik.

o sekend got ewei ez kwiklı ez posibl in o direksen ev kru:souz haus, wio lori: men after him. hi: got ekros o: linlet; bet ounli lu: ev o: lader men went inte o wo:ter after him, bikoz it si:md oet o lorid wez lot e swimer.

Crusoe went out in his boat and got to the damaged ship, which was fixed between two masses of stone. A poor dog, almost dead from need of food, came jumping out of the ship into Crusoe's boat; but that seemed to be the only living thing on the broken ship. Crusoe put the dog and two chests from the ship, together with a powder-horn, some fire-irons, and some kettles, into his boat. He got back to his island at sun-down, tired with his hard work.

The chests were full of shirts, pocket linen, and neck cloths. The boxes in the great chests had in them bags of money and masses of gold. About these Crusoe says:

"It is true that I had more money than I had before, but I was no better off. I had no more use for it than the Indians of Peru had before the Spaniards went there."

About a wear and a half went by, and then, one morning, Crusoe was surprised to see five boats come to the island together. The black men came on land—there were about thirty of them—and in a short time were dancing round a fire which they had made. Then, two unhappy men were pulled out from the boats, and one of them was quickly put to death with a weighted stick.

The second got away as quickly as possible in the direction of Crusoe's house, with three men after him. He got across the inlet; but only two of the other men went into the water after him, because it seemed that the third was not a swimmer.

kru:sou nau keim intə vju:. hi: meid ə sain tə 5ə man hu: wəz ranin əlwei tə kam tə him, ənd slouli went in 5ə dilreksən əv öi: labər ltu: men.

hwen və man hu: həd bi:n meid anlkənfəs bai və blou frəm kru:souz gan meid ə mu:v, kru:souz nju: frend meid sainz tə him tə let him həv hiz bleid. ven hi: went kwikli tə və man, ənd tuk his hed of. hwen kru:sou həd put və tu: ded men in və sand, hi: tuk him tə və həlou, hweər hi: geiv him fu:d, ənd meid him hav səm sli:p.

"larftər hir həd birn slirpin ə litl morr vən harf ən auər," sez krursou, "hir keim əlweik, ənd keim laut tə mir, bikəz ai həd birn milkin mai gouts in və sirld niər bai.

"hwen hiz soz miz, hiz keim ranin tə miz, ənd əlgen went daun on öiz sərb, ənd meid kliər bai səzrt

¹ pointid, feőerd stik.

Crusoe now came into view. He made a sign to the man who was running away to come to him, and slowly went in the direction of the other two men.

Crusoe saw that it would be best not to let off his gun, because the noise might make all the others come round him. So he went quickly to the first of the two men, and gave him a hard blow with the hand-part of his gun and sent him to the earth. It was not clear to the other what had taken place; but he saw that he was in danger, and was about to send an arrow 1 at Crusoe, when Crusoe let off his gun at him. The poor man who had been running away, slowly came near Crusoe, went down on his knees, and gave the earth at his feet a kiss. Then he put his head on the earth, and at the same time put Crusoe's foot on it.

When the man who had been made unconscious by the blow from Crusoe's gun made a move, Crusoe's new friend made signs to him to let him have his blade. Then he went quickly to the man, and took his head off. When Crusoe had put the two dead men in the sand, he took him to the hollow, where he gave him food, and made him have some sleep.

"After he had been sleeping a little more than half an hour," says Crusoe, "he came awake, and came out to me, because I had been milking my goats in the field near by.

"When he saw me, he came running to me, and again went down on the earth, and made clear by əv sain hau plizd hiz woz tə həv bizn kept frəm deθ, ənd hau redi hiz woz tə biz mai frend.

¹ Pointed, feathered stick.

"et llasst hiz lput hiz lhed lflat on öiz lezre, lnier mai lfut, end put mai laser lfut en hiz lhed, ez hiz hed ldan bilforr. lasfter löis hiz meid lsainz ev lgreit rilspekt, te llet miz lsiz öet hiz wed biz lhapi te bilkam mai lsezrvent fer öe lrest ev hiz iglzistens.

"in ə 'ʃorrt 'taım, ai 'sed səm 'wərrdz tə him, ənd 'meid ə 'starrt at 'tirtʃiŋ him mai 'laŋgwidz. 'fərrst ai 'meid it 'kliər tə him öət hiz 'neim wəd bır 'fraidei, hwitʃ wəz öə 'dei ai 'kept him frəm 'deθ, ənd ai 'geiv him 'öis 'neim in 'meməri əv öə fakt."

Ihwen hiz went to so pleis hweor so blak men hod kam on land, krussou sor o greit lambor ov menz bounz, and lord so sainz ov so distractin mirl sei hod teikn lafter havin got so best ov sam fait. krussou put sand ouver so bounz and laser sainz ov so mirl, and see went bak to hiz haus wis fraidei.

every sort of sign how pleased he was to have been kept from death, and how ready he was to be my friend.

"At last he put his head flat on the earth, near my foot, and put my other foot on his head, as he had done before. After this he made signs of great respect, to let me see that he would be happy to become my servant for the rest of his existence.

"In a short time, I said some words to him, and made a start at teaching him my language. First I made it clear to him that his name would be Friday, which was the day I kept him from death, and I gave him this name in memory of the fact."

When he went to the place where the black men had come on land, Crusoe saw a great number of men's bones, and all the signs of the disgusting meal they had taken after having got the best of some fight. Crusoe put sand over the bones and other signs of the meal, and then went back to his house with Friday.

dzeriz nju: jier

krisməs ənd və İnjuz İjər azr İveri İhapi İtaimz fər İsam pəzrsnz; bət fər İdraivərz ənd İdraivərz İhəzrsiz vei ər İnou İrest taim, vou vei İmei biz ə İgould main. vər ər İsat ə İnambər əv İmiztinz, İdazısız, ənd İpleisiz əv əlmjuzmənt loupn, vət və İwərrk iz İhazrd ənd İfrizkwəntli İleit. İsamtaimz İdraivər ənd İhəzrs ər İkept İweitin fər lauərz in və İrein ozr İsnou, İstif wiv İkould, İhwail və İhapi İpəzrsnz inldərz ər İdazısın tə və İmjuzzik. ai hav İdauts if və İbjuztiful İwimin İevər giv ə loot tə və İtalərd İdraivər İweitin on hiz İsizt, ənd hiz İkwaiət İaniməl İkept İveər wivlaut İmuzvin, til hiz haz İnou İfizlin in hiz İlegz.

lai had 'nau 'moust əv və 'nait wərk, bikoz ai wəz 'kwait 'jurst tə 'not 'murvin, ənd 'dzeri had 'morr 'fiər əv vir 'nvər 'hərrs getin ə 'kould. wir had ə 'greit ə 'maunt əv 'leit 'wərk in və 'krisməs 'wirk, ənd 'dzeriz 'kof wəz 'bad; bət hau'evər 'leit wir wər, 'poli 'kept 'np fər him, ənd 'keim 'aut tə him wiv və 'lait, lukin 'siəriəs ənd 'trabld.

on 50 lnait ov 50 lnjur ljier, wir had to teik ltur lmen tu o lhaus in wan ov 50 lwest lend lskweerz. wir lput 50m ldaun et lnain, end wer lorderd to lkam elgen et

Christmas and the New Year are very happy times for some persons; but for drivers and drivers' horses they are no rest time, though they may be a gold mine. There are such a number of meetings, dances, and places of amusement open, that the work is hard and frequently late. Sometimes driver and horse are kept waiting for hours in the rain or snow, stiff with cold, while the happy persons indoors are dancing to the music. I have doubts if the beautiful women ever give a thought to the tired driver waiting on his seat, and his quiet animal kept there without moving till he has no feeling in his legs.

I had now most of the night work, because I was quite used to not moving, and Jerry had more fear of the other horse getting a cold. We had a great amount of late work in the Christmas week, and Jerry's cough was bad; but however late we were, Polly kept up for him, and came out to him with the light, looking serious and troubled.

On the night of the New Year, we had to take two men to a house in one of the West End squares. We put them down at nine, and were ordered to come illevn. "bat," sed wan əv vəm, "vər iz tə biz kazrdpleiin, sou ju: mei biz kept weitin wan əzr tuz minits, bət dount biz leit."

¹ From Black Beauty, Anna Sewell (in Basic English), pp. 73-77.

'hwail və 'klok wəz 'saundin i'levn, wiz 'keim ap tə və 'dorr. 'dzeri wəz 'not 'evər 'leit. və 'kwozrtər-'auərz wər 'saundid—'wan, 'tuz, 'triz, ənd 'vən 'twelv—bət və 'dorr wəz 'stil 'sat.

To wind had kam starst from stis, stan from stat disrekson, wit stolz ov srein in to dei, but sau to woz starp starves, with stold on the starves star

"lou, ljes, jurl bir 'nirdid orl rait," sed 50 man, "ldount lgou, it iz lorlmoust louver," end elgen ldzeri tuk e sirt, bet hiz 'vois wez sou raf it wez harrd te meik aut hwet hir sed.

ət ə kworrtər parst wan və tur men keim laut; vei got intə və forr-hwirlər wivlaut ə wərrd, ənd sed hweər dzeri wəz tə gou; vat wəz grimoust tur mailz. mai llegz wər sou kould vət vər wəz nou firlin in vəm, ənd ar had fiər vət ai mait meik ə forls step. hwen again at eleven. "But," said one of them, "there is to be card-playing, so you may be kept waiting one or two minutes, but don't be late."

While the clock was sounding eleven, we came up to the door. Jerry was not ever late. The quarter-hours were sounded—one, two, three, and then twelve—but the door was still shut.

The wind had come first from this, then from that direction, with falls of rain in the day, but now there was sharp driving snow and rain, which seemed to come all the way round; it was very cold, and there was no cover. Jerry got off his seat and came and put one of my cloths a little more over my neck; then he took a step or two up and down, stamping his feet; then he made a start to give himself blows with his arms, but that made his cough come on; so he got the four-wheeler door open and took a seat on the floor with his feet on the footway, so that he had some cover. Still no one came. At half-past twelve, he gave the bell a pull and said to the servant would he be needed that night.

"Oh, yes, you'll be needed all right," said the man, "don't go, it is almost over," and again Jerry took a seat, but his voice was so rough it was hard to make out what he said.

At a quarter past one the two men came out; they got into the four-wheeler without a word, and said where Jerry was to go; that was almost two miles. My legs were so cold that there was no feeling in them, and I had fear that I might make a false step. When

To Imen got laut, Sei Idid not lsei Sei had leni rilgrets abaut lki:pin as lweitin for lsou llon, bot war langri at So lprais; bot ldzeri did not lever lteik lmorr Son waz lrait, sou hir did not ever teik lles, and Sei lhad to maik lpeiment for ltur lauerz and a lkworrter av lweitin; bot it waz lharrd-lgot lmani to ldzeri.

et llasst wir got bak; hiz vois hed lorlmoust lgon, end hiz kof wez sokin. Ipoli did not put leni kwestsenz, bet lgot de dorr loupn, lgivin him e llait.

"Imeint ai Iduz sambin?" siz Ised.

"jes, lget ldzak sambin lworm, and ven lgiv mir sam boilin mirl mikst wið milk."

bis waz sed in a raf, sou vois: it waz hard far him to get hiz bred, bot hiz geiv miz a rab daun az hiz dzenarali did, and sizvn went ap into da ruif far sam moir bedin. poli got miz a worrm mizh hwits meid miz hapi, and den da door waz slokt.

it wəz leit və lmərnin laftər bilfər leni wan lkeim, ənd lvən it wəz lounli lhari. hiz lmeid əs lklizn ənd lgeiv əs auər lfuzd, ənd ltuk və lweist laut əv və lbəksiz; ven hiz lput və lbədin lbak əgen əz if it wəz lsandei. hiz wəz lveril lkwaiət, lnət lhwislin, ənd vər wəz lnou lsən ən hiz llips. lleitər in və ldei hiz lkeim əlgen, ənd lgeiv əs auər lfuzd ənd lwəztər: vis taim ldəli lkeim lwiv him; siz wəz lkraiin, ənd it wəz lkliər frəm hwat vei lsed vət ldəri wəz lsiəriəsli lil, ənd və lmedikl lman lsəd it wəz lveri lbad. sou ltuz ldeiz went lbai, ənd vər wəz lgreit ltrabl in ldərz. wiz lounli lsət lhari, ənd lsamtaimz lpöli. it wəz lmai aildiə siz lkeim fər lkampəni, bikəz the men got out, they did not say they had any regrets about keeping us waiting for so long, but were angry at the price; but Jerry never took more than was right, so he never took less, and they had to make payment for the two hours and a quarter of waiting; but it was hard-got money to Jerry.

At last we got back; his voice had almost gone, and his cough was shocking. Polly did not put any questions, but got the door open, giving him a light.

"Mayn't I do something?" she said.

"Yes, get Jack something warm, and then give me some boiling meal mixed with milk."

This was said in a rough, low voice: it was hard for him to get his breath, but he gave me a rub down as he generally did, and even went up into the roof for some more bedding. Polly got me a warm meal which made me happy, and then the door was locked.

It was late the morning after before any one came, and then it was only Harry. He made us clean and gave us our food, and took the waste out of the boxes; then he put the bedding back again as if it was Sunday. He was very quiet, not whistling, and there was no song on his lips. Later in the day he came again, and gave us our food and water: this time Dolly came with him; she was crying, and it was clear from what they said that Jerry was seriously ill, and the medical man said it was very bad. So two days went by, and there was great trouble indoors. We only saw Harry, and sometimes Polly. It was my idea she came for con-poh woz teikin keər ev dzeri o:l və taim, ənd hiz had tə biz kept veri kwaiət.

on δο 'θeard 'dei, hwail 'hari wez in δe 'hears-bildin, δer wez e 'seft 'blou on δe 'dear, end e 'frend ev 'dgeriz 'keim 'in.

"ai |wudnt |gou tə öə |haus, mai boi," hiz |sed, "bət ai |had ə di|zaiər fər |njuzz əv juər |fazöər."

"hi: iz |veri |bad," sed hari.

"if vərz leni lruzl vət lgud lmen get louvər lvizz loinz, ai əm lsərrtn lhiz lwil, mai boi," hiz lsed; "hizz və lbest lman ai həv levər lkam əkrəs. ail lkam in lərrli təlmərou."

lərrli və mərrnin larftər hiz wəz veər.

"hwots və İnjuz?" sed hiz.

"|farðər iz |betər," sed hari. "|mʌðər haz |houps ðət hiz |wil get |ouvər it."

bai di'grizz 'dzeri got 'betər, bət öe 'medikl man sed 'hiz wəz 'not 'evər tə gou 'bak tə 'draiyin əgen if hiz had ə di'zaiər tə biz ən 'ould 'man.

pany, because Polly was taking care of Jerry all the time, and he had to be kept very quiet.

On the third day, while Harry was in the horsebuilding, there was a soft blow on the door, and a friend of Jerry's came in.

"I wouldn't go to the house, my boy," he said, "but I had a desire for news of your father."

"He is very bad," said Harry.

"If there's any rule that good men get over these things, I am certain he will, my boy," he said; "he's the best man I have ever come across. I'll come in early tomorrow."

Early the morning after he was there.

"What's the news?" said he.

"Father is better," said Harry. "Mother has hopes that he will get over it."

By degrees Jerry got better, but the medical man said he was never to go back to driving again if he had a desire to be an old man.

florizel and pairdita

polliksəniz, və kin əv boulhirmiə, had ən lounli san, huz 'neim wəz 'fiorizel. Ihwen 'vis 'jan 'prins wəz laut 'wan 'dei fər 'sporrt niər və 'haus əv və 'virp-kirpər, hiz 'sor hiz 'dortər; ənd hiz wəz 'sou 'plizzd wiv və 'bjurtiful, 'kwaiət, ənd 'kwirn-laik bilheivjər əv 'pərrditə vət hiz bilkeim in 'lav wiv hərr 'streit əlwei. frəm 'vis taim 'forrwərd, andər ve 'neim əv 'doriklizz, ənd 'drest in və 'klouvin əv ə 'praivit 'pərrsn, hiz keim 'veri 'frizkwəntli tə vir 'ould 'manz 'haus.

polliksoniz wez trabld bai 50 fakt 50t florizel wez frikwentli elwei; end forderin som men te kirp wotf on hiz san, hir meid 50 diskaveri ev hiz lav fer 50 firp-kirperz bjurtiful dorter.

polliksənizz öen sent fər kəlmilou— öə gud kəlmilou huz həd kept him frəm öə dee dilzaind fər him bai lilontizz—ənd meid him ə rikwest tə gou wiö him tə öə haus əv öiz ould man, öə fazöər, əz it sizmd tə him, əv pəzrditə.

polliksənizzənd kəlmilou, İdrest laik İpraivit İpərrsnz, İgot tə öiz lould İmanz İhaus İhwail Zei wər İhavin öə İgreit İmizləv öə İwul-katin İtaim; ənd öou İnou wan həd İsizn öəm bilfərr, lat öə İwul-katin İevri İman huz

FLORIZEL AND PERDITA 1

Polixenes, the King of Bohemia, had an only son, whose name was Florizel. When this young Prince was out one day for sport near the house of the sheep-keeper, he saw his daughter; and he was so pleased with the beautiful, quiet, and queen-like behaviour of Perdita that he became in love with her straight away. From this time forward, under the name of Doricles, and dressed in the clothing of a private person, he came very frequently to the old man's house.

Polixenes was troubled by the fact that Florizel was frequently away; and ordering some men to keep watch on his son, he made the discovery of his love for the sheep-keeper's beautiful daughter.

Polixenes then sent for Camillo—the good Camillo who had kept him from the death designed for him by Leontes—and made him a request to go with him to the house of the old man, the father, as it seemed to him, of Perdita.

Polixenes and Camillo, dressed like private persons, got to the old man's house while they were having the great meal of the wool-cutting time; and though no one had seen them before, at the wool-cutting every kami is givn ə pleis, sou vei wər rikwestid tə kam in, ənd teik part in və dzenərəl əlmjuzmənt.

¹ From Lamb's Stories from Shakespeare, pp. 96-100.

FLORIZEL AND PERDITA

lozl wəz lplezər ənd əlmjuzzmənt. İteiblz wər İkavərd ənd bei wər lmeikin İredi fər bə İgreit İmizl. səm İjan İmen ənd İgəzrlz wər İdaznsin on bə İgrazs bilfərr bə İhaus, hwail labərz əv bə jan men wər getin İsilk İbandz, İglavz, ənd İsat İbinz frəm ə İtreidər huz İkeim İraund tə bə İdəzr.

hwail lorl bis wez lgouin lon, lflorizel end lperrdite wer lsirtid lkwaietli bai vemlselvz, end sirmd lmorr lplirzd wid lwan enaderz ltork ven wid vir aildie ev lteikin lpart in ve lsports end lfurlis elmjurzments ev lvouz lraund vem.

öə İkin həd İmeid himself İsou İdifərənt öət it wəz İnot İposibl fər hiz İsan tə İsiz huz hiz İwəz; sou hiz İwent İniər fər öə İpəzrpəs əv ouvər İhiərin öcər İtozk. pollıksanizz wəz İmat i sər İpraizd bai öə İsimpl ənd İkwaiət İwei in hwit i İpəzrditə wəz İtozkin wiğ hiz İsan. hiz İsed tə kəlmilou, "İğis iz öə moust İbjuztiful İgəzrl ai həv İcvər İsizn in İsat i ə İpleis əz İğis; İcvriθin iz İdaz əzr İsez İsizmz laik İsamθin İgreitər öən hər İself, İkwait İaut əv İpleis hiər."

kəlmilou meid lamsər, "ltruzli siz iz öə veri kwizn

"|plizz, mai |gud |frend," sed de |kin te dir ould |firp-kirper, "|hur iz dat |gud-|lukin jan |man |torkin wid juer |dorter?" "hir iz neimd |doriklizz," sed de |firp-kirper. "hir sez hir iz in |lav wid nfai |dorter; end |trurlieai em an|eibl te sei |hwitf ev dem iz |moust in |lav. if |ian |doriklizz iz |eibl te |get |herr, fir wil |giv

FLORIZEL AND PERDITA

man who comes is given a place, so they were requested to come in, and take part in the general amusement.

All was pleasure and amusement. Tables were covered and they were making ready for the great meal. Some young men and girls were dancing on the grass before the house, while others of the young men were getting silk bands, gloves, and such things from a trader who came round to the door.

While all this was going on, Florizel and Perdita were seated quietly by themselves, and seemed more pleased with one another's talk than with the idea of taking part in the sports and foolish amusements of those round them.

The King had made himself so different that it was not possible for his son to see who he was; so he went near for the purpose of overhearing their talk. Polixenes was much surprised by the simple and quiet way in which Perdita was talking with his son. He said to Camillo, "This is the most beautiful girl I have ever seen in such a place as this; everything she does or says seems like something greater than herself, quite out of place here."

Camillo made answer, "Truly she is the very Queen of country girls."

"Please, my good friend," said the King to the old sheep-keeper, "who is that good-looking young man talking with your daughter?" "He is named Doricles," said the sheep-keeper. "He says he is in love with my daughter; and truly I am unable to say which of them is most in love. If young Doricles is him hwot hiz haz 'litl ai'diə ov," 'havin in 'maind se 'rest əv 'pərditəz 'dzuəlz; 'hwits, 'arftər hiz həd got 'sip in ik'stseindz fər 'sam əv səm, hiz həd 'kept wis 'keər tə 'giv hərr hwen siz got 'marid.

polliksənizz ben sed tə hiz san, "ljan man! juər hazrt sizmz ful əv samθin hwit, teiks juər maind əf bə dzenərəl əlmjuzmənt. hwen lai wəz ljan, ai meid mai swizthazrt əfərinz; bət ljuz həv let bə treidər gou, ənd həv gət naθin fər ljuər gəzrl."

ŏə İnn İprins, huz həd İnou aildiə vət hiz wəz İtəzkin tə və İkin hiz İfazvər, meid İaznsər, "lould İsəzr, Şiz iz İnot İintristid in İsat İpleiθinz; viz İəfərinz hwit ər İvaljuzd bai İpəzrditə ər İləkt İnp in mai İhazrt." ven İtəzrinin tə İpəzrditə, hiz İsed tə həzr, "lou, İpəzrditə, İlet miz İgiv mai andər İteikin bi İfəzr İvis İould İman, İhuz, it İsizmz, wəz ət İwan İtaim ə İlavər; İlet İhim İgiv İlər tuz auər əlgrizmənt." İflərizel İven İmeid viz İould İman ə ri İkwest tə İteik İnout əv viz andər İteikin hiz İnau İmeid tə get İmarid tə İpəzrditə, İseiin tə pəlliksənizz, "İplizz İgiv İlər tuz auər əlgrizmənt."

"ai wil giv lier to bis, det juer elgrizment iz broukn, ljan sezr," sed de kin, lnau meikin klier huz hiz woz. poliksenizz ben got langri wid hiz san fer givin hiz weird te get marid te dis puer manz dozter, tozkin ev perdite ez "sip-kiperz beibi, sip-huk," end juzzin lader bad neimz. hiz sed langrili det if lever siz let "hiz san siz herr algen, hiz wud put herr, end diz buld sip-kiper, herr farder, tuz e kruel dee.

able to get her, she will give him what he has little idea of," having in mind the rest of Perdita's jewels; which, after he had got sheep in exchange for some of them, he had kept with care to give her when she got married.

Polixenes then said to his son, "Young man! Your heart seems full of something which takes your mind off the general amusement. When I was young, I made my sweetheart offerings; but you have let the trader go, and have got nothing for your girl."

The young Prince, who had no idea that he was talking to the King his father, made answer, "Old sir, she is not interested in such playthings; the offerings which are valued by Perdita are locked up in my heart." Then turning to Perdita, he said to her, "Oh, Perdita, let me give my undertaking before this old man, who, it seems, was at one time a lover; let him give earsto our agreement." Florizel then made the old man a request to take note of the undertaking he now made to get married to Perdita, saying to Polixenes, "Please give ear to our agreement."

"I will give ear to this, that your agreement is broken, young sir," said the King, now making clear who he was. Polixenes then got angry with his son for giving his word to get married to this poor man's daughter, talking of Perdita as "sheep-keeper's baby, sheep-hook," and using other bad names. He said angrily that if ever she let his son see her again, he would put her, and the old sheep-keeper, her father, to a cruel death.

ðə kin ben went from dəm angrili, birderin kəlmilou tə kam aiftər him wið prins florizel.

Ihwen və İkin wəz İgon, İpərrditə, huzz İkwəlitiz əv İbərr wər İtatşt bai pəlliksənizz İnngri İwərrdz, İsed, "Jou it iz vir lend fər İərl əv əs, ai həd İnət İmatş İfiər; ənd ai İərlmoust İsed tə him vət və İseim İsan hwitş givz İlait ouvər İhiz İgreit İhaus, daz İnət İkirp hiz İfeis from İsadli Şiz İsed, "bət İnau vət ai əm əlweik, ai wil İteik və İparrt əv ə İkwirn İnou İmərr. İgou İfrəm mir, sərr; İsi wil İgou tə mai İmilkin ənd mai İkraiin."

və kaind kəlmilou wəz lmuzvd bai lpərrditəz lgud ənd lswizt bilheivjər; ənd lsizin vət və ljan lprins wəz lsou ldızp in llav vət hiz wəz anleibl tə giv lap hiz lswizthazrt ət viz lərrdər əv hiz lfazvər, hiz lgət ən aildiə əv ə lwei tə giv lhelp tə və llavərz, ənd ət və lseim ltaim tə giv ilfekt tuz ə dilzain hiz həd fər ə llən ltaim lhad in lmaind.

The King then went from them angrily, ordering Camillo to come after him with Prince Florizel.

When the King was gone, Perdita, whose qualities of birth were touched by Polixenes' angry words, said, "Though it is the end for all of us, I had not much fear; and I almost said to him that the same sun which gives light over his great house, does not keep his face from our poor one, but is equally bright in the two places." Then sadly she said, "But now that I am awake, I will take the part of a Queen no more. Go from me, sir; I will go to my milking and my crying."

The kind Camillo was moved by Perdita's good and sweet behaviour; and seeing that the young Prince was so deep in love that he was unable to give up his sweetheart at the order of his father, he got an idea of a way to give help to the lovers, and at the same time to give effect to a design he had for a long time had in mind.

(484 2) 65

Igaliver |puts en |end tu e |worr

lilipat iz pairt əv ə greitər stret ov lland, bət vi: lempaiər əv bləlfaskju: iz ən lailənd tə δə lno:rθ-lisst əv it, from hwith it iz pairtid ounli bai o woitorwei eit handrid jarrdz waid. Ap to to preznt ai hod not sizn it, and an hiarin vat vei war gouin ta meik an letak en es ai kept elwei frem bat said ev be landeds. fər sfiər əv birin sirn bai sam əv beər sips, hwits həd had nou niuz ev mai kamin. persnz livin in 5e ltu: kantriz had bi:n lo:rdord to hav lna0in to ldu: wið wan ənaöer, deθ bizin öə panismənt fər bouz huz went əlgenst bir lordər; ənd lauər kin həd lgizən ən lordər kem pliztli stopin ozl veslz bizin teikn in ozr aut. lgeiv de kin en ekaunt ev e dilzain ai had fer lgetin intu auer handz ozl ev blefaskjuzz (ips, hwit), sou ve lmen huz wer sent to hav a luk raund sed, wer at rest in deer hairber, redi te meik e stairt wid de feirst gud wind. ai put kwest(ənz tə və moust ikspiəriənst sizmen ebaut hau dizp de worterwei sepereitin de tuz kantriz woz. havin frizkwentli teikn de mezer ev it. bei sed bet in be midl et hai worter it wez sevnti glamglafs dirp, hwits iz abaut siks firt in juara pian

Lilliput is part of a greater stretch of land, but the empire of Blefuscu is an island to the north-east of it. from which it is parted only by a waterway 800 yards wide. Up to the present I had not seen it, and on hearing that they were going to make an attack on us I kept away from that side of the land-edge, for fear of being seen by some of their ships, which had had no news of my coming. Persons living in the two countries had been ordered to have nothing to do with one another, death being the punishment for those who went against the order; and our King had given an order completely stopping all vessels being taken in or out. I gave the King an account of a design I had for getting into our hands all of Blefuscu's ships, which, so the men we sent over to have a look round said, were at rest in their harbour, ready to make a start with the first good wind. I put questions to the most experienced seamen about how deep the waterway separating the two countries was. Having frequently taken the measure of it, they said that in the middle at high water it was 70 glumgluffs deep, which is about 6 feet in European measuring,

¹ From Gulliver in Lilliput, Jonathan Swift, pp. 69-74.

Imezarin, and to rest av it fifti glamglafs at moust. ai went in δe dilrek(en ev δe Inorro-lisst land-edz lopazit blalfaskiuz. loear ai got ldaun on oa lsand at oa bak əv ə litl sloup, ənd tuk aut mai smorl vjur-glars. Iterrnin it on to Kips ot Irest, ov hwith obaut Ififti wor worrlips, and a greit hamber transport lips. ai ben went bak to mai haus ond geiv orderz (hwit ai had orlθoriti tə dur) fər ə İgreit əlmaunt əv İveri İstron İkorrd ənd laiərn stiks tə biz got. 80 kozrd wəz əbaut əz Oik az Istron Ored, and di: laiarn Irodz abaut da Isaiz ov a wul-wark niedl. ai got Oriz korrdz twistid talgedar tə meik it strongər, ənd did və seim wiv viz laiərn stiks, getin oi: endz bent intu a huk. hwen ai had got lifti huks likst to to lseim lnamber ov korrdz, ai went bak to to horrolist landeds, and teikin of mai kout. Kuz, and stakinz, went into do six in mai leder lander-kout, ebaut harf en lauer bilforr hai worter. lwent θru: δə lwo:tər əz lkwikli əz ai wəz leibl, lswimin in to midl for obaut Oorti jardz til mai firt wor tat(in sand. ai got to to lips in les ton harf on lauer. To seilerz wer in sat sier hwen bei sor mir. bet dei went Idanmpin laut ev deer sips end swimin te lland, hweer for wer et llist beirti bauzend peirsnz. ai ben tuk mai apareitas, and putin a huk inta ba houl at to frant av evri (ip, ai got orl to korrdz 'notid et di: lendz. hwail ai wez durin dis, douz en land sent of lauzendz ev pointid stiks, e namber ev hwits went into mai handz ond feis. in oldison to de dgreit pein, dei got in de wei ev mai weirk. mai and the rest of it 50 glumgluffs at most. I went in the direction of the north-east land-edge, opposite Blefuscu. There I got down on the sand at the back of a little slope, and took out my small view-glass. turning it on the ships at rest, of which about fifty were warships, and a great number transport ships. then went back to my house and gave orders (which I had authority to do) for a great amount of very strong cord and iron sticks to be got. The cord was about as thick as strong thread, and the iron rods about the size of a wool-work needle. I got three cords twisted together to make it stronger, and did the same with the iron sticks, getting the ends bent into a hook. When I had got 50 hooks fixed to the same number of cords. I went back to the north-east land-edge, and taking off my coat, shoes, and stockings, went into the sea in my leather under-coat. about half ar hour before high water. I went through the water as quickly as I was able, swimming in the middle for about 30 yards till my feet were touching sand. I got to the ships in less than half an hour. The sailors were in such fear when they saw me, that they went jumping out of their ships and swimming to land, where there were at least 30,000 persons. then took my apparatus, and putting a hook into the hole at the front of every ship, I got all the cords knotted at the ends. While I was doing this, those on land sent off thousands of pointed sticks, a number of which went into my hands and face. In addition to the great pain, they got in the way of my work. My greitist fier wez fer mai laiz, 50 llos ev hwitf wud hev birn serrtn, if ai hed not sadnli got en laidie. had kept wid miz, aman ladar smal nesasari θinz sam laiglassiz in a praivit pokit, hwit, az ai hav sed bilforr, had not birn sirn bai da kin. ai tuk dam laut ənd gət səm fikst əz taitli əz pəsibl ən mai nouz, ənd lazrmd laik löis, lwent lon wid mai lwezrk widlaut fier. fou e namber ev pointid stiks keim egenst te glassiz, di: ounli ilfekt dei had wez te put dem e litl aut ev pəlzi(ən. ai həd lnau got lo:1 & huks in lpleis, ənd teikin to not in mai hand, geiv o pul. bot wiblaut ilfekt, bikoz lozl de Kips wer lsou lstrenli lfikst bai deer lankorz1 vot vo hairdist pairt ev mai ander teikin had stil to bir seist, ai let oo korrd gou, and wid To huks stil fikst to To sips, ai got Ti: anker-korrdz kat. hwail əbaut tu: handrid pointid stiks wor sent into mai Ifeis and Ihandz. Sen ai Ituk Ap So Inotid lendz əv və kərdz tə hwit mai huks wər fikst, ənd wið nou trabl, tuk fifti əv ðə greitist worrips arftər mi* ŏe bləfas kjurdiənz, hur həd not və lirst aidiə hwət ai wəz gouin tə dur, wər ət lərrət ouverkam wiö səl praiz. ŏei həd ləin mir get və kərdz kat, ənd had vir aidiə vət mai dizain wəz lounli tə llet və lips gou lərir ər kam vaiələntli algenst wan ənavər. bət hwen vei ləər lərlə və ləinə lərrə krai əv ləat bitər ləplin ət vir lend, vei geiv ə lərrə krai əv ləat bitər ləplin əz iz lərlmoust im pəsibl tə lgiv ən aidiə ov. lawen ai lgət laut əv deindər ai lmeid ə lətəp lapsələ ləiərn lauks lət daun bai ləips tə kirp vəm in pəlzi ən.

greatest fear was for my eyes, the loss of which would have been certain, if I had not suddenly got an idea. I had kept with me, among other small necessary things, some eveglasses in a private pocket, which, as I have said before, had not been seen by the King. I took them out and got them fixed as tightly as possible on my nose, and armed like this, went on with my work without fear. Though a number of pointed sticks came against the glasses, the only effect they had was to put them a little out of position. I had now got all the hooks in place, and taking the knot in my hand, gave a pull. But without effect, because all the ships were so strongly fixed by their anchors 1 that the hardest part of my undertaking had still to be faced. I let the cord go, and with the hooks still fixed to the ships, I got the anchor-cords cut, while about two hundred pointed sticks were sent into my face and hands. Then I took up the knotted end of the cords to which my hooks were fixed, and with no trouble, took fifty of the greatest warships after me.

The Blefuscudians, who had not the least idea what I was going to do, were at first overcome with surprise. They had seen me get the cords cut, and had the idea that my design was only to let the ships go free or come violently against one another. But when they saw all the ships moving in order, and me pulling at the end, they gave a sharp cry of such bitter pain as is almost impossible to give an idea of. When I got out of danger I made a stop to take out the tə lteik laut və lpointid lstiks hwit, wər in mai lhandz ənd lfeis ənd tə lput lon lsam əv və lseim loil hwit, wəz lgivn te miz hwen ai lfəzrst lkeim (əz ai həv lsed bilfəzr). ai vən ltuk əf mai lglazsiz ənd lazftər lweitin abaut ən lauər til və lwəztər həd gən ldaun ə litl, ai lwent loruz və lmidl wiv mai lips, ənd gət lseifli tə və lhazrbər əv lilipat.

¹ Special iron hooks let down by ships to keep them in position.

Gulliver puts an End to a War

to kin and lorl to gavarnment war at to siz edg weitin fər diz lautkam əv dis im pozrtənt ilvent. dei sor to sips murvin forward in a greit harf-murn, bat wer anleibl te si: mi: bikoz ai wez ap te mai test in worter. hwen ai got to de midl ev de worterwei dei wər stil morr trabld, bikoz ai wəz landər swortər ap tə mai lnek. və kin had viz aildiə vət ai wəz lded. ənd vət və lips wər kamin tə meik ən əltak. bət hiz fiərz war kwikli but ta rest, bikaz, de worter getin les dirp wið evri step ai tuk, in ə sorrt taim ai keim in hiərin, and liftin ap to lend av to korrd to hwit to lips wer fikst, ai sed in a laud vois, "a lon ruzl ta be moust hai kin ev lilipat!" hwen ai keim te land, Sis |greit |ru:ler |geiv mi: hiz |wo:rmist e|pru:vl, end meid mir a marrdak bear and ben, hwith iz sa haiist pəlzi(ən əlman dənı.

pointed sticks which were in my hands and face and to put on some of the same oil which was given to me when I first came (as I have said before). I then took off my glasses and after waiting about an hour till the water had gone down a little, I went through the middle with my ships, and got safely to the harbour of Lilliput.

The King and all the government were at the sea's edge waiting for the outcome of this important event. They saw the ships moving forward in a great halfmoon, but were unable to see me because I was up to my chest in water. When I got to the middle of the waterway they were still more troubled, because I was under water up to my neck. The King had the idea that I was dead, and that the ships were coming to make an attack. But his fears were quickly put to rest, because, the water getting less deep with every step I took, in a short time I came in hearing, and lifting up the end of the cord to which the ships were fixed, I said in a loud voice, "A long rule to the Most High King of Lilliput!" When I came to land, this great Ruler gave me his warmest approval, and made me a nardac there and then, which is the highest position among them.

გა hwisl

Ihwen ai waz a litl boi av sevn, mai frendz, on a 'dei hwen ai had 'nou 'sku:l-we:rk te 'du:, 'geiv mi: e pokit ful av kaparz, ai went streit of tur a starr hweer dei kept |pleitinz, |bat, |on de |wei, ai wez |mats plizzd bai və saund əv ə hwisl hwit wəz in və handz av alnagar boi, and ai legiv him lor mai lmani for it. ai ben keim bak, end went hwislin bil ebaut to haus, mat | plized wid mai hwish bet trablin |orl de famili. mai braverz, end sisterz, end riles(enz, hierin ev vi: ik st seindz ai had meid, sed bat ai had givn for Itaimz əz mat fər it əz its Itru: Ivalju: Sis put mi: in |maind əv hwot |gud |θinz ai |mait həv |got wið δə rest av 50 mani, and 5ei meid satt sport av mir far birin sou furli, bet ai bikeim langri end anlhapi. be Oct ev hwot ai hed dan geiv miz morr pein den de hwisl geiv mi: plezer.

'leitər, hauevər, it wəz əv 'juzs tə miz; bikəz it bikeim 'fikst in mai 'maind, sou vət 'frizkwəntli, hwen ai 'had ə di'zaiər tə get sam an'nesəsəri 'tin, ai 'sed tə maiself: "'dount giv 'məzr vən və 'valjuz əv və 'hwisl." ənd sou ai 'kept mai 'mani.

When I was a little boy of seven, my friends, on a day when I had no school-work to do, gave me a pocket full of coppers. I went straight off to a store where they kept playthings. But, on the way, I was much pleased by the sound of a whistle which was in the hands of another boy, and I gave him all my money for it. I then came back, and went whistling all about the house, much pleased with my whistle, but troubling all the family. My brothers, and sisters, and relations, hearing of the exchange I had made, said that I had given four times as much for it as its true value. This put me in mind of what good things I might have got with the rest of the money, and they made such sport of me for being so foolish, that I became angry and unhappy. The thought of what I had done gave me more pain than the whistle gave me pleasure.

Later, however, it was of use to me; because it became fixed in my mind, so that frequently, when I had a desire to get some unnecessary thing, I said to myself: "Don't give more than the value of the whistle." And so I kept my money.

¹ From Wise Words of an Early American, Benjamin Franklin, pp. 91-93.

nwen ai wəz louldər, ənd lmorr iklspiəriənst, ənd tuk lnout əv və bilheivjər əv lmen, it lsirmd tə mir vət vər wər ə lgreit lnambər hur geiv lmorr vən və lvaljur əv və lhwisl.

lhwen ai soz leniwan wið ən louvər-lgreit dilzaiər tə lget ə pəlzisən in və lkinz lsəzrkl, lweistin hiz ltaim ət səlsaiiti ilvents, lgivin lap hiz lrest, hiz lgud lkwəlitiz, ənd prəbəbli hiz lfrendz, lputin himself andər viz əzləriti əv lavərz, lsimpli tə lget it, ai həv lsed tə maiself: "lvis lman givz lməzr vən və lvaljuz əv hiz lhwisl."

hwen ai soz əlnaðər wið ə dilzaiər fər lpablik əlpruzvl, ljuzzin ap lozl hiz ltaim in pəllitikl lwəzrk, givin lnou əltensən tə hiz lbiznis, ənd sou lkozzin hiz ldaunfozl, "lhiz lsəzrtnlı givz lmozr dən də lvaljuz əv hiz lhwisl," ai sed.

lif ai lso: ə lmani-lavər, huz lgeiv ap levri lso:rt əv lkamfərt, lo:l və lplezər əv lduzin lgud tuz lavərz, lo:l və rilspekt əv lmen, ənd və lplezər əv havin lkaind lfrendz, sou vət hiz mait hav ə lstozr əv lmani, "lpuər lman," ai sed, "juz lsə:rtnli giv lmo:r vən ve lvaljuz əv juər lhwisl."

'hwen ai 'siz ə 'man əv 'plezər givin ap 'evri 'tsans əv 'lərnin, ər əv 'meikin ə 'betər 'livin, fər 'fizikl 'fizlin 'ounli, "juz ər in 'erər," ai sei, "juz ər 'meikin 'pein fər juərself, ənd 'nət 'plezərz juz giv 'mərr öən öe 'valjuz əv juər 'hwisl."

if ai siz wan wið ə llav əv bjuztiful klouðin, bjuztiful lθinz fər hiz haus, bjuztiful hərrsiz ənd karidziz, fər hwiti haz not inaf mani, ənd fər hwiti hiz lgets

When I was older, and more experienced, and took note of the behaviour of men, it seemed to me that there were a great number who gave more than the value of the whistle.

When I saw anyone with an over-great desire to get a position in the King's circle, wasting his time at society events, giving up his rest, his good qualities, and probably his friends, putting himself under the authority of others, simply to get it, I have said to myself: This man gives more than the value of his whistle.

When I saw another with a desire for public approval, using up all his time in political work, giving no attention to his business, and so causing his downfall, He certainly gives more than the value of his whistle, I said.

If I saw a money-lover, who gave up every sort of comfort, all the pleasure of doing good to others, all the respect of men, and the pleasure of having kind friends, so that he might have a store of money, Poor man, I said, you certainly give more than the value of your whistle.

When I see a man of pleasure giving up every chance of learning, or of making a better living, for physical feeling only, You are in error, I say, you are making pain for yourself, and not pleasure: you give more than the value of your whistle.

If I see one with a love of beautiful clothing, beautiful things for his house, beautiful horses and carriages, for which he has not enough money, and for which he intə det, ənd gouz tə prizn fər öə rest əv hiz deiz, ai sei: "hiz həz givn ə hai prais, ə veri hai prais, fər hiz hwisl."

'hwen ai siz ə 'bjuztiful, 'kaind 'gəzrl, 'marid tu ə 'bad-'hjuzmərd 'pig əv ə 'man, "'hau 'sad it iz," ai sei, "öət siz həz givn 'sou 'mats fər ə 'hwisl."

in laðar lwardz, ai lsor ðat a lgreit lparrt av lmenz lpein waz lkorzd bai ða lforls aildia ðei lhad av ða lvaljur av θinz, and bai ðear givin louvar-lmat∫ far ðear lhwislz.

gets into debt, and goes to prison for the rest of his days, I say: He has given a high price, a very high price, for his whistle.

When I see a beautiful, kind girl, married to a badhumoured pig of a man, How sad it is, I say, that she has given so much for a whistle.

In other words, I saw that a great part of men's pain was caused by the false idea they had of the value of things, and by their giving over-much for their whistles.

50 streindz bilheivjer ev mister lelgrand

it wəz əbaut ə 'manθ la:ftər bis (ənd in bis 'taim a 'hadnt 'si:n lə'grand) hwen 'dzu:pitər, hiz 'sə:rvənt, 'kein tə 'si: miz in 'tsa:rlstən. öə 'gud 'ould 'blak man wə: lukin 'mə:r an hapi öən ai həd 'evər 'si:n him ənd ma 'fə:rst 'fiər wəz öət 'samθin 'siəriəs həd 'teikn 'pleis.

"wel, dzu:piter," ai sed, "hwot iz it hau? hau: mister wil?"

"hwai, its a fakt hiz not sou wel az hiz mait biz."

"not wel? bats bad. hwot daz hi: sei iz roi wis him?"

"|veri |ıl, |dzu:pitər ? | hwai didnt ju: |sei sou e

"lnou, bat hiz lnot!—hiz iznt lenihweer—bats t ltrabl. aiv got lveri anlhapi ebaut lpuer mister lwil."

"dzu:pitər, hwot 'iz it ju:ər 'to:kin əbaut? ju: 's mistər 'wil iz 'il. 'haznt hi: 'sed hwots 'ron wið him?

THE STRANGE BEHAVIOUR OF MR. LEGRAND ¹

It was about a month after this (and in this time I hadn't seen Legrand) when Jupiter, his servant, came to see me in Charleston. The good old black man was looking more unhappy than I had ever seen him, and my first fear was that something serious had taken place.

"Well, Jupiter," I said, "what is it now? How's Mister Will?"

"Why, it's a fact he's not so well as he might be."

"Not well? That's bad. What does he say is wrong with him?"

"There! That's the trouble! He doesn't say anything's wrong—but still he's very bad."

"Very ill, Jupiter? Why didn't you say so at first? Is he in bed?"

- "No, that he's not!—he isn't anywhere—that's the trouble. I've got very unhappy about poor Mister Will."
- "Jupiter, what is it you're talking about? You say Mister Will is ill. Hasn't he said what's wrong with him?"
 - ¹ From The Gold Insect, Edgar Allan Poe, pp. 24-28. (4342) 81 G

"İhwai, sər, İdount get langri əbaut it! mistər İwil, İhiz sez İnadinz İron wið him—bət İven, İhwot İmeiks him İgou əlbaut İlukin laik İvis, wið hiz İhed İhanin İdaun ənd hiz İbak İbent, ənd hiz İfeis İozl İhwait? ənd ven hiz İkizps on İnambərin İozl və İtaim . . ."

"kirps on hwot, dzurpiter ?"

"kirps on raitin inamberz on e iborrd—se istreindzist inamberz aiv lever isirn. aim igetin iveri anihapi ebaut it, ai sei. aiv igot te ikirp en iai on iori hiz idurinz. Sir laser idei hir igot elwei bilforr isan-ap, end hir wez igon iori idei. ai igot e istik ikat iredi te igiv him e igud ihwipin hwen hir idid kam—bet aim isou isoft, ai ihadnt se iharrt tur, arfter iori—hir isirmd isou iil."

"lei !—lhwot ?—laz ljes. bət ldount biz lraf wið δə lpuər lman. lnou lblouz, ldzuzpitər—hizz lnot lstron inaf fər löat. bət lhavnt juz leni aildiə lhwot iz δə lkozz əv δis ltrabl, ozr δis ltʃeindʒ əv bilheivjər ? did leniθin lteik lpleis lazftər ai lwent?"

"lnou sər, lnaθiŋ lazftər öen. öə ltrabl wəz bilforr öen, it lsizmz tə lmiz. it wəz öə lseim ldei öət ljuz wər löeər."

"hau ! hwots diz aildie ?"

"hwai sər, its vat linsekt-loeər nau!"

" | Sat | hwot ?"

"Sat linsekt. aim kwait sə:rtn mistər wil gət ə bait samhweər ən sə hed frəm sat gould-insekt."

"and hwat kozz hav jur ta sei bat?"

"koz əv bis sər. aiv sim hadin haik bat linsekt.

"Why, sir, don't get angry about it! Mister Will, he says nothing's wrong with him-but then, what makes him go about looking like this, with his head hanging down and his back bent, and his face all white? And then he keeps on numbering all the "Keeps on what. Jupiter?"

"Keeps on writing numbers on a board—the strangest numbers I've ever seen. I'm getting very unhappy about it, I say. I've got to keep an eye on all his doings. The other day he got away before sun-up, and he was gone all day. I got a stick cut ready to give him a good whipping when he did come -but I'm so soft, I hadn't the heart to, after all-he seemed so ill."

"Eh ?-what ?-ah, yes. But don't be rough with the poor man. No blows, Jupiter-he's not strong enough for that. But haven't you any idea what is the cause of this trouble, or this change of behaviour? Did anything take place after I went?"

"No, sir, nothing after then. The trouble was before then, it seems to me. It was the same day that you were there."

"How? What's the idea?"

"Why, sir, it's that insect—there now!"

"That what?"

"That insect. I'm quite certain Mister Will got a bite somewhere on the head from that gold-insect."

"And what cause have you to say that?"

"'Cause of this, sir. I've seen nothing like thatlkikin ənd baitin ət levriðin hwits keim hiðr him. mistor lwil got him lforrst, bet hir had te let him lgou lkwik. δat wez hwen hir lgot δe bait, sirmz te mir. ai lwoznt hapi ebaut hiz mauθ mailself, sou ai lwudnt put mai lfingerz hier him. ai lgot him in e bit ev lpeiper ai sor. ai lgot him linte δe lpeiper end lput e bit in hiz mauθ—lδat wez δe wei."

"and juer aildia liz, ben, bat mistar lwil got a bait fram bi: linsekt, and bat meid him lil?"

"ltiznt lounli ən aildiə; aim lsərrtn. lhwai haz hiz lgould ən və lbrein in hiz lslizp, if hiz ldidnt get a lbait frəm və lgould-insekt? aiv lkam əkrəs lstərriz əv vouz lgould-insekts bilfər nau."

"hwai du: ju: sei hi:z got gould on vo brein in hiz slip?"

"hwai? bikoz hizz tozkiŋ əbaut it in hiz slirp—sats hwai."

"lwel, dzurpitər, jur lmei bir lrait; bətə lhwai həv ai və lplezər əv lsirin jur təldei?"

"hwats bat sar ?"

"'did mistor 'wil 'send ju: wid 'enitin ?"

"jes, aiv got dis leter"; end dzu:piter den geiv mi: e nout hwit went laik dis:

"mai diər

lhwai lhavnt ai si:n ju: fər sou loŋ ə taim? aim houpiŋ öət ju: həv nət bi:n sou fu:lis əz tə bi: aŋgri wiö mi: fər mai bad bilheivjər—bət si:mz imprəbəbl.

from auer last lmistin, ai hov had lsamθin on mai insect. Kicking and biting at everything which came near him. Mister Will got him first, but he had to let him go quick. That was when he got the bite, seems to me. I wasn't happy about his mouth myself, so I wouldn't put my fingers near him. I got him in a bit of paper I saw. I got him into the paper and put a bit in his mouth—that was the way."

"And your idea is, then, that Mister Will got a bite from the insect, and that made him ill?"

"'Tisn't only an idea; I'm certain. Why has he got gold on the brain in his sleep, if he didn't get a bite from the gold-insect? I've come across stories of those gold-insects before now."

"Why do you say he's got gold on the brain in his sleep?"

"Why? Because he's talking about it in his sleep—that's why."

"Well, Jupiter, you may be right; but why have I the pleasure of seeing you today?"

"What's that, sir?"

"Did Mister Will send you with anything?"

"Yes, I've got this letter"; and Jupiter then gave me a note which went like this:

"MY DEAR . . . ,

Why haven't I seen you for so long a time? I'm hoping that you have not been so foolish as to be angry with me for my bad behaviour—but that seems improbable.

From our last meeting, I have had somothing on maind lorl so taim. ai hov samoin to sei to jur, bet ai om ansertn hau to dur it, or if its rait to dur it or lorl.

ai həv lnot birn lkwait lwel fər lsam ldeiz, ənd lpuər ould ldzurpitərz lkaind əltenfənz lget ən mai lnərrvz ənd lorlmoust meik mir langri wið him. it lsirmz imlposibl, bət δir laðər ldei hird gət ə lgreit lstik lredi fər mir, bikəz ai lwent ləf wiðlaut lseiiŋ leniθiŋ, fər ə ldei əmaŋ ðə lmauntinz əkrəs ðə lwərtər. aim lkwait lsərrtn ðət lounli mai lluks lkept mir lseif frəm lpanifmənt!

frəm və ltaim əv auər llaist lmiitin ai həv meid lnou eldisənz tə mai linsekts.

if its at lorl lposibl, lplizz, lkam louver wid ldzurpiter. ldur lkam. its lneseseri fer mir te lsir jur telnait, on lveri imlporrtent lbiznis. lteik mai lwerrd fer it det its lveri imlporrtent.—

leverljuerz, | wiljem legrand."

ai wəz lveri ltrabld bai sambin in və lwəzrdin əv vis letər. və lprouz sixmd lkwait ldifərənt frəm lelgrandz. lhwot həd hiz lgət ən hiz lmaind: lhwət lstreindz limpals həd lteikn ə lgrip əv hiz anlbalənst lbrein i lhwət "lveri im pəzrtənt lbiznis" wəz it lpəsibl fər lhim tə lhav i ldzuxpitərz əlkaunt əv him lgeiv miz ə lfizlin vət ləzl wəz lnət lwel. mai ltirif lfiər wəz vət ə ltiein əv anlhapi ilvents həd lsent mai lfrend və hiz lhed. sou ai lgət ledi tə lgən wiv ldzuxpitər wivlaut ləs əv ltaim.

my mind all the time. I have something to say to you, but I am uncertain how to do it, or if it's right to do it at all.

I have not been quite well for some days, and poor old Jupiter's kind attentions get on my nerves and almost make me angry with him. It seems impossible, but the other day he'd got a great stick ready for me, because I went off without saying anything, for a day among the mountains across the water. I'm quite certain that only my looks kept me safe from punishment!

From the time of our last meeting I have made no additions to my insects.

If it's at all possible, please, come over with Jupiter. Do come. It's necessary for me to see you tonight, on very important business. Take my word for it that it's very important.

Ever yours,

WILLIAM LEGRAND"

I was very troubled by something in the wording of this letter. The prose seemed quite different from Legrand's. What had he got on his mind? What strange impulse had taken a grip of his unbalanced brain? What "very important business" was it possible for him to have? Jupiter's account of him gave me a feeling that all was not well. My chief fear was that a chain of unhappy events had sent my friend off his head. So I got ready to go with Jupiter without loss of time.

kila:wiz botl

taim kila:wi wəz ki:piŋ lin hiz lbreθ, bikəz hiz həd lgivn hiz lwərd tə himself tət hiz wud giv lvois tə lnou lmər rilkwests, ənd teik lnou lmər frəm seitən. Tə ltaim wəz lap hwen tei lgət lbak. Tə lhaus-dilzainər sed tət tə lhaus wəz lredi, ənd kila:wi ənd loulpa:kə tuk ltikits in tə lhərl ənd lwent daun kounə lwei tə hav ə lluk ət tə lhaus, ənd lsir if lərl həd birn ldan in lharməni wit tə lθərt in kila:wiz lmaind.

The sea-journey was a good one, but all the time Keäwe was keeping in his breath, because he had given his word to himself that he would give voice to no more requests, and take no more from Satan. The time was up when they got back. The house-designer said that the house was ready, and Keawe and Lopaka took tickets in the Hall and went down Kona way to have a look at the house, and see if all had been done in harmony with the thought in Keäwe's mind.

Now, the house was on the mountain-side where one might see it from a ship. Higher up, the thick wood went up into the clouds of rain; under it the black stone had made sharp slopes down to the sea, and here was the resting-place of the old rulers. There was a garden about that house, in which were flowers of every colour; and there were papaia trees on one side and breadfruit trees on the other, and straight in front, in the direction of the sea, a ship's high sail support had been put up with a flag on the top. As for the house, it was three floors high, with great rooms and wide terraces on every floor. The windows were of glass, of such good quality that it was as clear az Ikliar az Iwortar and az Ibrait az Idei. őar war teiblz, sixts, kaberdz, (elvz, end evri posibl kamfert in to ruimz. for wor pikt forz on to woulz in gould freimz; piktsərz əv sips and men faitin, av va moust bjuztiful wimin, and av streindz pleisiz; nouhwear ər beər pikt ərz əv sou brait ə kalər əz bouz kilazwi Isor hanin in hiz haus, az fər viz ornəmənts, vei wer moust bjuztiful; kloks saundin di auerz. end mjuzik-boksiz. Ilitl men wið seikin hedz, buks ful ev pikt(erz. weir instruments ev greit valjus frem ozl sourts ev streindz kantriz, end pleiθing for δί: əlmiu:zmənt əv ə lman llivin bai himlself. ənd bikəz Inou wan wud bi: hapi livin in sat | ru:mz, and wud lounli biz intristid to gou θruz and siz vam, va terisiz war sou waid bet a taun ful av pairsnz mait hav birn kwait hapi livin əpən vəm; ənd kilarwi wəz not seirtn hwit geiv him moust plezer, de lterisiz et to bak, hweer juz got to land wind, end wer lukin laut louver to fruit trizz and to flauerz, our to frant terisiz, hwear ju: tuk disp breθs av δa wind av δa siz, and, lukin daun to farp worl av to mauntin, war leibl to six to horl gouin bai obaut wans o wirk bitwirn hukene end de sloups ev pirle, or de seilinfips gouin ap our daun wid wud end arve end fruit.

¹ From Keäwe's Bottle, Robert Louis Stevenson, pp. 24-29.

'hwen vei had sin evrioin, kisawi and louspanka tuk a sint bai va dorr.

"wel," sed lou parke, "liz it lorl ez jur wer piktserin it te jur self!"

as water and as bright as day. There were tables, seats, cupboards, shelves, and every possible comfort in the rooms. There were pictures on the walls in gold frames: pictures of ships and men fighting, of the most beautiful women, and of strange places; nowhere are there pictures of so bright a colour as those Keäwe saw hanging in his house. As for the ornaments, they were most beautiful: clocks sounding the hours, and music-boxes, little men with shaking heads, books full of pictures, war instruments of great value from all sorts of strange countries, and playthings for the amusement of a man living by himself. And because no one would be happy living in such rooms, and would only be interested to go through and see them, the terraces were so wide that a town full of persons might have been quite happy living upon them; and Keäwe was not certain which gave him most pleasure, the terrace at the back, where you got the land wind, and were looking out over the fruit trees and the flowers, or the front terrace, where you took deep breaths of the wind off the sea, and, looking down the sharp wall of the mountain, were able to see the Hall going by about once a week between Hookena and the slopes of Pele, or the sailing-ships going up and down with wood and ava and fruit.

When they had seen everything, Keäwe and Lopaka took a seat by the door.

"Well," said Lopaka, "it is all as you were picturing it to yourself?"

"öər ər 'nou 'wərdz fər it," wəz ki'anwiz 'ansər. "it is 'betər öən 'eni 'pıktfər, ənd ai əm ouvər'kam wiö öə 'plezər əv it."

"δər iz bət wan biŋ tə giv bət tu;" sed lou parkə; "lorl bis mei bir kwait natsərəl, ənd δə bətl-limp mei həv nabıŋ hwətlevər tə dur wið it. If ai tuk δə bətl ənd gət nou seiliŋ-sip larftər lorl, ai wud həv put mai hand in δə faiər fər nabiŋ. it iz trur öət ai geiv jur mai wərd; bət liznt it natsərəl fər mir tə meik ə rikwest tə jur fər wan mərr test?"

"ai həv 'givn mai 'wərrd tə mai'self öət ai wil teik 'nou 'morr frəm öə 'bətl," sed ki'arwi. "ai həv 'gən 'in 'dirp i'naf."

"ðis iz lnot ə rikwest fər leniðin lmoir hwits ai lhav in lmaind," wəz loulpazkəz laznsər. "it iz lounli tə lsiz diz limp himlself. Tər iz lnou lprofit in löat, ənd sou lnou lkoiz fər seim; bət if lwans ai lsoz him, ai wud biz lsəzrtn əv Tə din, sou lduz löis mats for miz, ənd let miz lsiz diz limp; ənd lazftər löat lhiər iz Tə lmani in mai lhand, ənd ai wil lgiv juz Tə lprais."

"δər iz ounli wan bin ai əm in fiər əv," sed kilazwi.
"δiz limp mei biz lveri dislgastin-lukin: ənd if juz wans səz him, juz mait biz izvn lles redi tə teik δə bətl."

"ai əm ə man əv mai wərrd," sed lou parkə. " ənd hiər iz öə mani biltwirn əs."

"|veri |wel," ki|azwi meid |aznsər. "ai əm |intristid tə |siz hwət hiz iz |laik mai|self. sou |kam, |let əs hav |wan, |luk ət juz, mistər imp."

1 nau, % lminit bat wez sed, vi: imp put hiz hed laut

"There are no words for it," was Keäwe's answer.

"It is better than my picture, and I am overcome with the pleasure of it."

"There is but one thing to give thought to," said Lopaka; "all this may be quite natural, and the bottle-imp may have nothing whatever to do with it. If I took the bottle and got no sailing-ship after all, I would have put my hand in the fire for nothing. It is true that I gave you my word; but isn't it natural for me to make a request to you for one more test?"

"I have given my word to myself that I will take no more from the bottle," said Keäwe. "I have gone in deep enough."

"This is not a request for anything more which I have in mind," was Lopaka's answer. "It is only to see the imp himself. There is no profit in that, and so no cause for shame; but if once I saw him, I would be certain of the thing. So do this much for me, and let me see the imp; and after that, here is the money in my hand, and I will give you the price."

"There is only one thing I am in fear of," said Keäwe. "The imp may be very disgusting-looking; and if you once saw him, you might be even less ready to take the bottle."

"I am a man of my word," said Lopaka. "And here is the money between us."

"Very well," Keäwe made answer. "I am interested to see what he is like myself. So come, let us have one look at you, Mr. Imp."

av 50 botl and in agen, kwik az a sneik; and bear war kila:wi and loulpa:ka ta:rnd ta stoun. 50 inait had kam bilforr bei had a hort ta put inta wardz or a vois wib hwits ta dur sou; and ben, pusin 50 imani bouver, loulpa:ka tuk 50 botl.

"ai əm ə man əv mai wərd," sed hiz, "ənd həv nird tə biz sou, ər ai wud nət 'giv öis 'bətl sou 'mat əz ə 'tat wið mai 'fut. 'wel, ai wil get mai 'seilin-sip ənd səm 'dələrz fər mai 'pəkit; ənd 'ben ail biz 'handin öis 'imp 'ən əz 'kwikli əz ai əm 'eibl. bikəz, əər iz 'nou 'daut əbaut it, öə 'luk əv him həz 'givən miz ə 'greit 'sək."

"lou parke," sed ki arwi, "dur lot hav e bad e pinjen ev mir; it iz trur set it iz louit, end se roudz er louf, end se wei bai se restin-pleis ev se kinz iz e bad pleis te gou sou leit, bet se fakt iz set arfter sirin sat litt feis, ai wil lot bir leibl te hav leni slirp or leni furd, err te gou daun en mai loiz til it iz farr frem mir. ai wil giv jur e lait, end e barskit te put se bet in, end leni piktser err lernement in lei mai haus hwits iz plizzin te jur; end gou lou, end leik juer slirp et hukene wis narhirnur."

"kilazwi," sed loulpazka, "Imoust Imenz Ifizlinz wud biz Iwuzndid bai bis bilheivjər; Ispesəli hwen ai əm Isats ə Igud Ifrend əz tə İkizp mai İwəzrd ənd İteik bə Ibotl; ənd İaz fər bat, bə İnait ənd bə İdazık, ənd bə İwei bai bə İrestin-pleis əv bə İkinz mei biz İten İtaimz İməzr əv ə İdeindzer tuz ə İman huz həz İdan bis İgreit İrən, ənd haz Isats ə İbotl İandər hiz İazım. bət fər İmai

Now, the minute that was said, the imp put his head out of the bottle and in again, quick as a snake; and there were Keäwe and Lopaka turned to stone. The night had gone before they had a thought to put into words or a voice with which to do so; and then, pushing the money over, Lopaka took the bottle.

"I am a man of my word," said he, "and have need to be so, or I would not give this bottle so much as a touch with my foot. Well, I will get my sailingship and some dollars for my pocket; and then I'll be handing this imp on as quickly as I am able. Because, there is no doubt about it, the look of him has given me a great shock."

"I amala " asil Vara "

"Lopaka," said Keäwe, "do not have a bad opinion of me; it is true that it is night, and the roads are rough, and the way by the resting-place of the kings is a bad place to go so late, but the fact is that after seeing that little face, I will not be able to have any sleep or any food, or to go down on my knees till it is far from me. I will give you a light, and a basket to put the bottle in, and any picture or ornament in all my house which is pleasing to you; and go now, and take your sleep at Hookena with Nahinu."

"Keäwe," said Lopaka, "most men's feelings would be wounded by this behaviour; specially when I am such a good friend as to keep my word and take the bottle; and as for that, the night and the dark, and the way by the resting-place of the kings may be ten times more of a danger to a man who has done this great wrong, and has such a bottle under his arm.

'part, ai əm in 'sats 'fiər mai'self, öət ai həv 'nət öə 'hart tə biz 'aŋgri. 'hiər ai 'gou öen; ənd 'mei juz biz 'hapi in juər 'haus, ənd 'ai duz 'wel wiö mai 'seiliŋ-sip, ənd 'mei wiz biz 'kept 'aut əv 'seitənz 'pauər in öiz 'end öou wiz həv bizn öiz 'ounərz əv hiz 'bətl."

But for my part, I am in such fear myself, that I have not the heart to be angry. Here I go then; and may you be happy in your house, and I do well with my sailing-ship, and may we be kept out of Satan's power in the end though we have been the owners of his bottle."

(4842) 97

houit(i to bizwo-pleior

wan samer nait houit(iz frend wez rikwestid te lgou θru: və lfo:rmz əv rillidgən fər və ldeθ əv ə lman hu: |went to hiz |t(o:rt(; ond hi: |went to |dis |manz |haus wið hiz jan servent; sou det houit(i wez dir lounli peirsn in 50 toirt oat nait. it waz a veri worm Inait; and Ihouitsi Iwent on to valranda in Ifrant av hiz slipin-rum bikoz və hizt wəz not sou greit veər. və vəlrandə wəz ət və bak əv viz amildadzi, feisin ə smo:l ga:rdn. houitsi wəz weitin beər fər bə man əv rillidgen te kam bak end hiz wez kamfertin himself bai pleiin on hiz bi:we. it wez passt twelv; and to man əv rillidgən həd not kam bak, bət it wəz stil |veri |worm in|said; and |houit(i |kept on 80 valrande. ət lazst beər keim tə hiz liərz bə saund əv steps kamin in hiz dilrek(ən frəm və bak dorr. sambədi keim ap tə vəlrandə frəm əlkrəs və lgazrdn, stəpin lrait in frant əv him—bet it wəz not və man əv rillidgən. disp vois sed hiz neim laudli-sadnli end raffi, laik ə samurai givin ən lərdər tu ə sərrvənt:-- lop kaverd work et de said ev e haus.

"houit(i!"

One summer night Höichi's friend was requested to go through the forms of religion for the death of a man who went to his church; and he went to this man's house with his young servant; so that Hoichi was the only person in the church that night. It was a very warm night; and Höichi went on the verandah 2 in front of his sleeping-room because the heat was not so great there. The verandah was at the back of the Amidaji, facing a small garden. Hoichi was waiting there for the man of religion to come back and he was comforting himself by playing on his biwa. was past twelve; and the man of religion had not come back. But it was still very warm inside; and Hōichi kept on the verandah. At last there came to his ears the sound of steps coming in his direction from the back door. Somebody came up to the verandah from across the garden, stopping right in front of him-but it was not the man of religion. A deep voice said his name loudly-suddenly and roughly, like a samurai giving an order to a servant:-"Hoichi!"

¹ From Japanese Stories, Lafoadio Hearn, pp. 19-27.

A long covered walk at the side of a house.

houitsi wəz sou mats sər praizd öət, fər ə minit, hiz wəz anleibl tə giv eni lamsər; ənd öə lvois sed əlgen, əz if rafli givin ən ləmdər:—

"houitsi!"

"hai!" hi: meid la:nsər, lfiərin bis lnout in bə lvois,—"ai əm anleibl tə lsi:!—ai həv lnou aildiə lhu: ju: la:r!"

"vər iz nou kozz fər siər," və streində man sed, torkin mər səftli. "ai əm stəpin niər və stərti, ənd həv birn sent tə jur wiv ə rikwest. mai preznt sirif, ə sərərən əv veri shai pəzisən, iz snau in akəmagəseiki, wiv ə greit snambər əv sen əv gud sərə. hir shad ə dilzaiər tə sir hweər it svəz vət və sait əv dan-nou-surə tuk spleis; ənd tesdei hir swent vər. it həz skam tə hiz serə vət sət sə stəri əv və sait sət sərərən bir sən bistərərən bir sən bir in bouz taimz, dir lordər əv ə samurai had tə bir teikn veri siəriəsli. İhouitşi lput ən hiz iflat lşurz, tuk hiz ibirwə, ənd went əlwei wid də streindz iman, hur sirmd tə hav e igud inəlidz əv də wei, bət imeid ihouitşi gou veri ikwikli. Də ihand igaidin him wəz laiərn; ənd də isaund əv imetl imeid it ikliər dət də iman wəz ifuli isrmd,—iprəbəbli hir həd birn ikirpin iwətş ət səm igreit ihaus. Ihouitşiz ifərrət ifiərz wər louvər; ənd it inau sirmd tə him dət dis wəz ə ihapi itşarıns:—bikəz, ikirpin in imaind də isamuraiz itərk əv ipərrənz əv veri ihai pəlzişən," hir wəz isərtn dət də

Hōichi was so much surprised that, for a minute, he was unable to give any answer; and the voice said again, as if roughly giving an order,—

" Hōichi!"

"Hai!" he made answer, fearing this note in the voice,—"I am unable to see!—I have no idea who you are!"

"There is no cause for fear," the strange man said, talking more softly. "I am stopping near the church, and have been sent to you with a request. My present chief, a person of very high position, is now in Akamagaséki, with a great number of men of good birth. He had a desire to see where it was that the fight of Danno-ura took place; and today he went there. It has come to his ears that you give the story of the fight very well; he now has a desire for you to give your song before him; so you will take your biwa and come with me quickly to the house where these great persons are waiting."

In those times, the order of a samurai had to be taken very seriously. Hōichi put on his flat shoes, took his biwa, and went away with the strange man, who seemed to have a good knowledge of the way, but made Hōichi go very quickly. The hand guiding him was iron; and the sound of metal made it clear that the man was fully armed,—probably he had been keeping watch at some great house. Hōichi's first fears were over; and it now seemed to him that this was a happy chance:—because, keeping in mind the samurai's talk of "persons of very high position,"

Hoichi the Biwa-Player

Itsiif hu: had sent far him ta giv hiz son wud not bi: lles van a daimjou 1 av va fairst birder. laifter a taim To samurai keim tu: a stop; and houitsi bikeim konsas Tet Tei had got tu: a greit dorwei; -and hi: waz sərlpraizd, bikəz hi: həd nou meməri əv leni greit ldar in bat part ev de taun lader den de thirf der ev ői: ami'dadzi. "kwai'mon!"2 őə İsamurai sed laudli, and for waz a saund av an'lakin; and fo tu: went θruz. δei went əkrəs ə speis əv gazrdn ənd keim tu ə stop əgen bistor səm dorrwei; ənd və samurai sed in a llaud lvois, "lju: hu: ar in said! ai hav lkam wid 'houit(i!" | ben keim | saundz av | kwik | firt, and | peipar worlz slipin bak, and rein-dorrz oupnin, and voisiz əv wimin to:kin tə wan ənadər. bai də langwidz əv To wimin it bikeim klier to houit (i fot fei wer servents in sam greit haus, bet hi: hed nou aidie te hwot pleis hi: had bi:n teikn. Ilitl taim evaz givn far laifter hi: hed bi:n helpt to gou ap sem stoun steps, on to last ov hwith his waz bordard to teik of hiz (u.z. hi: wez gaidid bai e wumenz hand ekros llon stretsiz əv polist borrdz, ənd raund ə nambər əv langlz wið lto:l səlpo:rts, ənd ouvər ə lwaid lspeis əv kaverd fforr,-inte de midl ev sam greit rum. deer it si:md to him tot o greit nambor ov po:rsnz ov hai pəlzisən wər weitin: və saund əv və silk dresiz wəz laik to saund ev lizvz in a wud. erd, in eldisen, teer

¹ 'ruiler ev e di'vizen ev 'ould dze'pan.
² 'get 5e 'doir 'oupen !

he was certain that the chief who had sent for him to give his song would not be less than a daimuo 1 of the first order. After a time the samurai came to a stop: and Höichi became conscious that they had got to a great doorway ;--and he was surprised, because he had no memory of any great door in that part of the town other than the chief door of the Amidaii. "Kwaimon!" 2 the samurai said loudly,—and there was a sound of unlocking; and the two went through. They went across a space of garden and came to a stop again before some doorway; and the samurai said in a loud voice, "You who are inside! I have come with Hōichi!" Then came sounds of quick feet, and paper walls slipping back, and rain-doors opening, and voices of women talking to one another. By the language of the women it became clear to Höichi that they were servants in some great house, but he had no idea to what place he had been taken. Little time was given him for thought. After he had been helped to go up some stone steps, on the last of which he was ordered to take off his shoes, he was guided by a woman's hand across long stretches of polished boards, and round a number of angles with tall supports, and over a wide space of covered floor.—into the middle of some great room. it seemed to him that a great number of persons of high position were waiting: the sound of the silk dresses was like the sound of leaves in a wood. And.

Ruler of a division of old Japan.
Get the door open!

keim tə hiz liərzə İdzenərəl İnoiz əv İlou İvoisiz,—İto:kin İveri İsoftli; ənd öə İlangwidz wəz İöat əv İpə:rsnz İlivin əman öə İgreit.

vei sed tə shouitsi vət hiz wəz shot tə biz strabld, ənd vər wəz ə skusən sredi fər him. saiftər havin steikn hiz spleis on it, ənd got sredi hiz sinstrument, və svə s wumən—huz sixmd tə him tə biz və srouzou, əxr stiif əv və sixmeil səxrvnts—sed tə him:—

"nau wil ju: pli:z giv və səŋ əv və histəri əv və heikei wid və bi:wə?"

oo kəmlpli:t sto:ri wud həv teikn ə greit nambər əv naits; sou houitsi put ə kwestsən:—

"it wud teik ə lon taim tə giv öə ful storri, sou hwot parrt iz it juər dizaiər tə hav pleid tə jur nau?"

50 wumənz vois meid arnsər:—

"'giv və İstərri əv və İfait ət dan-nou-lu:rə,—bikəz it iz İsadər vən leni lavər pa:rt."

vois liftin ap hiz lvois, lhouits lgeiv və lson əv və lfait on və lbitər lsiz,—meikin ə lstreindz lsaund wiv və lbizwə laik və lpulin əv lbout-bleidz ənd və lnoiz əv lsips in və lwoztər, və lhis əv viz lazıtsərz, və lkraiin ənd lstampin əv lmen, və lsmasin əv lstizl ən lhed-kavərinz, və lfozl əv lded lbodiz in və lwoztər. ənd tə lleft ənd lrait əv him, hwenlevər hiz lpleiin lkeim tu ə lstəp, llou lvoisiz əv əlpruzvl keim tə hiz liərz.

in addition, there came to his ears a general noise of low voices,—talking very softly; and the language that of persons living among the great.

They said to Hōichi that he was not to be troubled, and there was a cushion ready for him. After having taken his place on it, and got ready his instrument, the voice of a woman—who seemed to him to be the Rojo, or chief of the female servants—said to him:—

"Now will you please give the song of the history of the Heiké with the biwa?"

The complete story would have taken a great number of nights; so Hōichi put a question:—

"It would take a long time to give the full story, so what part is it you desire to have played to you now?"

The woman's voice made answer:-

"Give the story of the fight at Dan-no-ura,—because it is sadder than any other part."

Then, lifting up his voice, Hoichi gave the song of the fight on the bitter sea,—making a strange sound with the biwa like the pulling of boat-blades and the noise of ships in the water, the hiss of the archers, the crying and stamping of men, the smashing of steel on head-coverings, the fall of dead bodies in the water. And to left and right of him, whenever his playing came to a stop, low voices of approval came to his ear

bildin di: a:rk

- 9. 'nouə wəz ə 'gud 'man hu: həd dan 'nou 'i:vl in hiz dzenə'rei\anz, ənd hi: 'had ti: ə'pru:vl əv 'gəd.
 - 10. and nous had θriz sanz, sem, ham, and dzeifeθ.
- δι: |ə:rθ wəz |bad in |godz |aiz, and |ful av |ronduxin.
- 12. and god sor δίε fare, and it waz firel; fevri flivin θin had dan fron apon δίε fare.
- 13. and |god |sed ta |noua, δί: |end av |o:l |livin |θinz |iz at |hand; δί: |arrθ iz |ful av |ron-durin |bi|koz av δam, and ai wil |put an |end ta δam on δί: |arrθ
- 14. meik ən ark əv goufər-wud, wið rumz in it, ənd put bitjumin insaid ənd aut.
- 15. and bis iz to wei juz or to meik it: it iz to biz for handrid firt lon, sevnti firt waid, and forti firt hai.
- 16. and juz wil meik a ruzf to biz ark, a fut waid at ba top; and ba dorr av biz ark ju wil put in ba

- 9. Noah was a good man who had done no evil in his generations, and he had the approval of God.
- 10. And Noah had three sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth.
- 11. The earth was bad in God's eyes, and full of wrong-doing.
- 12. And God saw the earth, and it was evil; every living thing had done wrong upon the earth.
- 13. And God said to Noah, The end of all living things is at hand; the earth is full of wrong-doing because of them, and I will put an end to them on the earth.
- 14. Make an ark of gopher-wood, with rooms in it, and put bitumen inside and out.
- 15. And this is the way you are to make it: It is to be four hundred feet long, seventy feet wide, and forty feet high.
- 16. And you will make a roof to the ark, a foot wide at the top; and the door of the ark you will put in the
- ¹ From Stories from the Bible (Genesis, vi-vii), pp. 30-33. In this story words are used from the List for Reading Verse (100 words) and the Bible List (50 words).

- said; wið louər, sekənd, ənd θərrd sflərrz jur wil meik it.
- 17. and lai, lizvn lai, wil lsend to lworterz on tiz lazrθ, er to disltrakson av levri llivin and lbriztin lθin ander hevn; and levriθin hwits iz lon tiz lazrθ wil lkam tu on lend.
- 18. bət wið 'juz ai wil 'meik ən əlgrizmənt; ənd 'juz wil 'kam 'intə öiz 'azrk, wið juər 'sanz, ənd juər 'waif, ənd juər 'sanz 'waivz.
- 19. and av levri livin lθin δear liz, juz wil lteik ltuz av levri lsozrt linta δiz lazrk, and lkizp δam wið ju; δei wil biz lmeil and lfizmeil.
- 20. əv bərrdz arftər beər sorrt, ənd əv katl arftər beər sorrt, əv bərribin hwits gouz flat ən bir berb arftər hiz sorrt, jur wil teik tur əv bevri sorrt ənd kirp bəm livin.
- 21. and meik a storr av furd av levri sorrt far juarlself and far löem.
- 22. ənd nouə did evriθin hwith god sed hiz wez to duz.
- VII. 1. and 5a llored sad ta lnoua, teik lorl juar famili and gou into 5ir larek, bikoz jur lounli hav birn gud in lmai laiz in löis dzenalrenjan.
- 2. əv levri lklim lhizst juz wil lteik bai lsevnz, və meil ənd hiz lfizmeil; ənd əv və lbizsts hwit vər lnət klim, ltuz, və lmeil ənd lhiz lfizmeil.
- 3. əv öə bərrdz əv öir leər bai levnz, meil ənd firmeil, sou öət öeər sird mei stil bir ən öə feis əv lorl bir lərro.
 - 4. ənd, in sevn deiz morr ai wil send rein əpon bir side; with lower, second, and third floors you will make it.

- 17. And I, even I, will send the waters on the earth, for the destruction of every living and breathing thing under heaven; and everything which is on the earth will come to an end.
- 18. But with you I will make an agreement; and you will come into the ark, with your sons, and your wife, and your sons' wives.
- 19. And of every living thing there is, you will take two of every sort into the ark, and keep them with you; they will be male and female.
- 20. Of birds after their sort, and of cattle after their sort, of everything which goes flat on the earth after his sort, you will make two of every sort and keep them living.
- 21. And make a store of food of every sort for your-self and for them.
- 22. And Noah did everything which God said he was to do.
- VII. 1. And the Lord said to Noah, Take all your family and go into the ark, because you only have been good in my eyes in this generation.
- 2. Of every clean beast you will take by sevens, the male and his female; and of the beasts which are not clean, two, the male and his female.
- 3. Of the birds of the air by sevens, male and female, so that their seed may still be on the face of all the earth.
 - 4. And in seven days more I will send rain upon the | loreθ, | forrti | deiz end | forrti | naits; end ai wil | put en | lend tu | levri | livin | θin hwits ai hev | meid on 50 | feis ev | δίε | lerrθ.

- 5. and nous did levriθin hwits to nord sed his waz to dus.
- 6. and nous waz siks handrid fierz ould hwen to worters keim ouver dir erro.
- 7. and hous went into Siz lark, and hiz sanz and hiz waif, and hiz sanz waivz wid him, bikaz av Sa waiterz.
- 8. av klim bissts, and av bissts hwits ar not klim, and av basedz, and av evriθin hwits gouz flat an δiz lare.
- 9. Seer went in tur end tur to noue in Sir lark, Se meil end Se sirmeil, er god hed sed to noue.
- 10. and arftar sevn deiz to swortarz keim souver tir serv.
- 11. in de siks handride jier ev nouez laif, in de sekend mane, de sevntime dei ev de mane, lei de fauntinz ev de greit dirp wer broukn ap, end de windouz ev hevn wer oupn.
- 12. and δο rein waz apan δίε larrθ forrti deiz and forrti laits.
- 13. in 50 seim dei noue, end sem, end ham, end dzeifee, 50 sanz ev noue, end nouez waif, end 50 oriz waivz ev hiz sanz wis sem, went into siz ark.
- 14. bei, and evri birst arfter hiz sort, and se katl arfter beer sort, and evrilin hwit gouz flat on sir earth, forty days and forty nights; and I will put an end to every living thing which I have made on the face of the earth.

- 5. And Noah did everything which the Lord said he was to do.
- 6. And Noah was six hundred years old when the waters came over the earth.
- 7. And Noah went into the ark, and his sons and his wife, and his sons' wives with him, because of the waters.
- 8. Of clean beasts, and of beasts which are not clean, and of birds, and of everything which goes flat on the earth.
- 9. There went in two and two to Noah in the ark, the male and the female, as God had said to Noah.
- 10. And after seven days the waters came over the earth.
- 11. In the six hundredth year of Noah's life, in the second month, the seventeenth day of the month, all the fountains of the great deep were broken up, and the windows of heaven were open.
- 12. And the rain was upon the earth forty days and forty nights.
- 13. In the same day Noah, and Shem, and Ham, and Japheth, the sons of Noah, and Noah's wife, and the three wives of his sons with them, went into the ark;
- 14. They, and every beast after his sort, and the cattle after their sort, and everything which goes flat lerre, after hiz sourt, end levri beard after hiz sourt, levri beard ev levri sourt.

- 15. and bei went in to nous in bir ark, tur and tur av orl lfles, in hwits iz be bred av laif.
- 16. and bei hwit, went in war so meil and firmeil av lorl fie, az god had sed to him: and sen so lord sent nous in, and sir ark waz lat.
- 17. and to worterz wer forrti deiz epon tir ere; and tei wer in krirst, and tir errk wez liftid hp, sou tet it wez hai louver tir erre.
- 18. and va worterz ouver keim evriein, and wer in krizst greitli apon viz ere ; and viz errk went apon va feis av va worterz.

on the earth, after his sort, and every bird after his sort, every bird of every sort.

- 15. And they went in to Noah in the ark, two and two of all flesh, in which is the breath of life.
- 16. And they which went in were the male and female of all flesh, as God had said to him: and then the Lord sent Noah in, and the ark was shut.
- 17. And the waters were forty days upon the earth; and they were increased, and the ark was lifted up, so that it was high over the earth.
- 18. And the waters overcame everything, and were increased greatly upon the earth; and the ark went upon the face of the waters.

PART III

ða dis kavari av ði: li:dzipts lgould

'wan 'dei in 'mei 'nainti:n 'handrid ənd 'twenti 'tu: hwen öər wəz ə 'lik 'mist, ə 'frent,' 'lip 'meid ə 'houl in öə 'sti:m'ip 'iːdzipt, ənd \i: 'went 'daun wiö ə 'ləs əv 'eiti-'siks 'pə:rsnz. öər wəz 'gould ənd 'silvər ən hə:r fər 'hwit,' in'\u00eduərəns həd bi:n 'teikn 'aut wiö öi: 'andərraitərz əv 'ləidz fər 'wan 'miljən, 'fifti-'eit 'lauzənd, 'nain 'handrid ənd 'sevnti-'eit 'paundz, ənd in 'ten 'deiz 'bouz 'men 'put öeər 'neimz tə 't\u00edks fər öis 'greit ə 'maunt, ənd 'geiv öəm tə öə 'pə:rsnz hu: həd bi:n öi: 'ounərz əv öə 'gould ənd 'silvər.

livn hwen a 'sip haz 'gon 'daun and iz 'restin on to 'siz-'bed, to 'gudz in'said har ar 'stil 'sambadiz 'proparti, and tiz 'izdzipts 'gould waz to 'proparti av tiz 'andarraitarz and in'suarans kampaniz. The wor 'veri 'sad abaut it. it 'siznd to to 'gould wud 'never biz 'got fram 'andar to 'siz.

to polzison ov to lsip waz lnot lklier. Inoubedi waz sartnı lhwear it lwoz, bikoz to lmist had lmeid it imlposibl for to lpleis to biz lraitli lmarkt on to lsiz-lmap. bot lozl to lwoztor raund lteor waz lotvor loriz lhandrid lfizt, ldizp, and in lwoztor az ldizp az ltat it iz lnot lposibl for lmen to lgou ldaun and lduz lwoztk. bot tei lkeim

One day in May 1922 when there was a thick mist, a French ship made a hole in the steamship Egypt, and she went down with a loss of 86 persons. There was gold and silver on her for which insurance had been taken out with the underwriters of Lloyd's for £1,058,978, and in ten days those men put their names to cheques for this great amount, and gave them to the persons who had been the owners of the gold and silver.

Even when a ship has gone down and is resting on the sea-bed, the goods inside her are still somebody's property, and the Egypt's gold was the property of the underwriters and insurance companies. They were very sad about it. It seemed that the gold would never be got from under the sea.

The position of the ship was not clear. Nobody was certain where it was, because the mist had made it impossible for the place to be rightly marked on the sea-map. But all the water round there was over 300 feet deep, and in water as deep as that it is not possible for men to go down and do work. But they tə öə disizən tə meik ən əltempt ət öə disikavəri əv öə lips pəlzijən, sou öət öei mait hav nolidz əv hweər öə gould wəz livn if öei wər anleibl tə get it bak əgen. İstirmərz wiö liftin apəlreitəs, ənd laöərz juzzd fər lifin in öə İsi; went laut tə hav ə lluk fər öir lizdzipt. öei gət ə lik İstirl lain likst bitwirn lur lips, hwit; went İstirmin ət İsam İdistəns frəm İwan əlnaöər, İpulin öə İlain hanin biltwirn öəm louvər öə İsir-bed, in öə houp öət it wad İkam ap əlgenst öir lizdzipt. it wəz İveri anlintristin İwərrk ənd wəz wiölaut ilfekt.

¹ This is put into Basic from Deep-sea Diving, David Masters (Nelson), pp. 77-80.

öə manθs bikeim ijiərz ənd it sımd imiposibl öət öə igould wud ievər biz igot. bət öeər wər itu: endziiniərz huz did inət igiv ap ihoup. öei wər ikwait ikəniəs əv öə ifakt öət öei wud inət biz ieibl tə get öə igould ap in öə inəzməl iwei, bət öei ihad in imaind ən apəireitəs in hwiti ə iman mait biz ifat ap ənd ikept iseif frəm öə igreit ifəzrə əv öə isiz ənd sent ap ənd idaun intə öə idizp iwəztərz əz if hiz wəz in ə ilift. if isamθin laik isis wəz ijuzzd, it isizmd tə iöem öat öə igould mait biz gət ibak—lif, iöat iz, öei ikeim əkrəs öiz izdzipt ət iəzl.

ŏen ŏiz i'taljən 'ekspəzrts huz həd meid 'juzs əv öə 'dgəzrmən 'metl 'dizp-'siz 'dres 'meid ən 'ofər tə 'teik 'on öə 'wəzrk. ŏei 'tuk ŏeər 'stizl 'lainz 'ap ənd 'daun 'ouvər öə 'siz-'bed, 'lukin fər öiz 'izdgiot. frəm 'taim tə 'taim öə 'lain gət 'fikst in 'samθin, hwit', wəz 'dgenərəli ə 'mas əv 'stoun. ŏei 'keim əkrəs 'wan əzr 'tuz 'aöər came to the decision to make an attempt at the discovery of the ship's position, so that they might have knowledge of where the gold was even if they were unable to get it back again. Steamers with lifting apparatus, and others used for fishing in the sea, went out to have a look for the Egypt. They got a thick steel line fixed between two ships, which went steaming at some distance from one another, pulling the line hanging between them over the sea-bed, in the hope that it would come up against the Egypt. It was very uninteresting work and was without effect.

The months became years and it seemed impossible that the gold would ever be got. But there were two engineers who did not give up hope. They were quite conscious of the fact that they would not be able to get the gold up in the normal way, but they had in mind an apparatus in which a man might be shut up and kept safe from the great force of the sea and sent up and down into the deep waters as if he was in a lift. If something like this was used, it seemed to them that the gold might be got back—if, that is, they came across the Egypt at all.

Then the Italian experts who had made use of the German metal deep-sea dress made an offer to take on the work. They took their steel lines up and down over the sea-bed, looking for the Egypt. From time to time the line got fixed in something, which was generally a mass of stone. They came across one or two other ships which had gone down, but these in to winter, hwen to bad weter kept tom in harrber ond meid it im posibl for tem to gou laut larter to lidzipt, o veri gud aidio keim to samwan. in pleis ov pulin toor stirl lain ouver to sir-bed ond weistin toor taim ond mani orur it bikamin fikst on masiz ov stoun ond getin broukn, tei meid o disizon to hav it hanin from o lain ov so ports sou tot it wud bir obaut twonti-faiv firt from to sir-bed. It wud to bir kept of to masiz ov stoun bot it wud stil kam ap ogenst tir lizdzipt, hwith wor many hair ton twentifaiv firt.

Sips hwits had gon daun, bat diz war sin ta bir ta l'ron wanz, and far ta ltaim tai had ta giv lap.

vei wər rilwəzrdid. ən ləzgəst və lθəzrtiiθ, lnaintizn lθəzrti, və llain gət lfikst ən lsamθin hwits vei wər lsəzrtn wəz viz lizdzipt.

ŏei həd had 'mats iklspiəriəns in öə meditəlreinjən wiö öat 'streindz-lukin 'dzə:rmən 'dres 'meid əv 'metl. öei had 'weiz əv 'muzvin 'θinz hwits wər 'θri: 'handrid 'firt 'daun. öei hed meid 'streindz 'grips fər 'liftin θinz 'ap frəm öə 'siz-'bed, ənd öei həd 'meid ə 'njux apəlreitəs, laik ə 'greit 'metl 'paip 'sat'ap ət öiz 'endz, fər 'gouin 'daun intə 'veri 'dirp 'wəztər; öə 'metl 'paip wəz əz 'təzl əz ə 'man.

bis apolreitəs wəz ltestid bai ldropin it ldaun lnain lhandrid lfi:t intə və lsi:, ənd it wəz lnot ldamidzd bai və lgreit lfo:rs əv və lwo:tər. vei wər lmeikin lsə:rtn vət və lman lin it wud bi: lseif hwen hi: wəz ldropt ldaun tə vi: li:dzipt. Vis apəlreitəs wəz lsamvin in hwit ə lman wəz leibl tə lteik ap hiz pəlzisən ənd lsi: hwot wəz were seen to be the wrong ones, and for the time they had to give up.

In the winter, when the bad weather kept them in harbour and made it impossible for them to go out after the Egypt, a very good idea came to someone. In place of pulling their steel line over the sea-bed and wasting their time and money through it becoming fixed on masses of stone and getting broken, they made a decision to have it hanging from a line of supports so that it would be about 25 feet from the sea-bed. It would then be kept off the masses of stone but it would still come up against the Egypt, which was much higher than 25 feet.

They were rewarded. On August 30, 1930, the line got fixed on something which they were certain was the Equpt.

They had had much experience in the Mediterranean with that strange-looking German dress made of metal. They had ways of moving things which were 300 feet down. They had made strange grips for lifting things up from the sea-bed, and they had made a new apparatus, like a great metal pipe shut up at the ends, for going down into very deep water; the metal pipe was as tall as a man.

This apparatus was tested by dropping it down 900 feet into the sea, and it was not damaged by the great force of the water. They were making certain that the man in it would be safe when he was dropped down to the Egypt. This apparatus was something in which a man was able to take up his position and see

Igouin lon lraund him; it waz lamen hwits waz leibl ta gou lap and ldaun in δa lworter laik a lift. δear war lveslz av loksidzan (lou-ltur) in said for δa lman, i naf ta lkirp him lbrizōin far lauarz; δear waz a ltelifoun erur lhwits hir waz leibl ta giv hiz lordarz ta δa lmen on δa lsip.

'ki:p in 'maind, hauever, öət öə 'man in'said öə 'paip wəz 'Aneibl tə du: 'eni 'wə:ı k him'self. if hiz həd sizn 'ozl öə 'gould in ig'zistəns bı'fərr him hiz wud 'nət həv bizn 'eibl tə 'put aut ə 'fiŋgər tu: it. hiz wud 'ounli biz 'eibl tə teik ə 'luk ət it θruz öə 'windouz 'meid əv ə 'spe()əl 'glazs, ənd giv di'rek()ənz tə 'bouz ən öə 'fip əbaut 'hweər tə 'put öeər 'grips. if öə 'grips wər 'nət 'let 'daun in öə 'rait 'pleis, hiz wud 'ounli biz 'eibl tə 'sei bei had tə biz 'muzvd ə litl 'bis wei əzr 'bat fər ə'naöər ə'tempt. 'bat wəz biz 'ounli 'wei öei had ə 'tfazns əv 'getiŋ 'ap biz 'izdzipts 'gould—bai meikiŋ ə'tempt azftər ə'tempt.

oei sent of man daun in of njur apereites, murvin him slouli ebaut ouver of spin. hir sor bai of perison ev of bout-seports of of bouts had birn let daun. of were of spin or it, and geiv of njurz to hir spread ouverhed.

what was going on round him; it was something which was able to go up and down in the water like a lift. There were vessels of oxygen (O₂) inside for the man, enough to keep him breathing for hours; there was a telephone through which he was able to give his orders to the men on the ship.

Keep in mind, however, that the man inside the pipe was unable to do any work himself. If he had seen all the gold in existence before him he would not have been able to put out a finger to it. He would only be able to take a look at it through the windows made of a special glass, and give directions to those on the ship about where to put their grips. If the grips were not let down in the right place, he would only be able to say they had to be moved a little this way or that for another attempt. That was the only way they had a chance of getting up the Egypt's gold—by making attempt after attempt.

They sent the man down in the new apparatus, moving him slowly about over the ship. He saw by the position of the boat-supports that the boats had been let down. This was the Egypt all right. He was certain of it, and gave the news to his friends overhead.

ŏə hou¹tel

houtel poirter: hav jui teikn e ruim ser?

mistər eniman: 'nou. 'put mai 'θiŋz 'daun 'hiər hwail ai 'gou tə δiz 'əfis. (tə wumən ət əfis) 'hav juz ə 'ruːm fər 'wʌn ?

wumən ət əfis: wiz ər İveri ful Ap Sis wizk. ai həv İnou İsməzl ruzmz ət İəzl ət İpreznt. İhau İləŋ ər juz İgouin tə İbiz hiər?

mistər eniman: fər tuz wizks probəbli.

wumən ət ofis: ail 'let juz hav ə ruzm wiö 'tuz 'bedz ət ə 'spe\selfal 'prais til 'mandei, ənd 'azftər 'oat wiz wil biz 'eibl tə 'giv juz ə 'sməzl ruzm. wil 'oat biz əzl 'rait ?

mistər eniman: aim veri mat əlgenst muzvin if verz eni pəsibl wei aut əv it. ai wəz houpin tə get evrilin aut əv mai bəksiz azftər və dzəzrni. hav juz nou avər səldzest ə meik?

wumən ət əfis: 'nou, 'bats bə 'best ai əm 'eibl tə 'duz.

'evri 'abər hou'tel in 'landən iz 'bukt 'ap in bə 'seim

'wei. in 'fakt, 'kwait ə 'nambər əv 'pərsnz həv birn

'sent 'ən tuz 'as.

mistər eniman: bats də wə:rst əv landən ət dis taim ev ijər. wel, ail hav tə teik hwət deər iz. iz dis

- Hotel Porter: Have you taken a room, sir?
- Mr. Anyman: No. Put my things down here while I go to the office. (To woman at office) Have you a room for one?
- Woman at Office: We're very full up this week. I have no small rooms at all at present. How long are you going to be here?
- Mr. Anyman: For two weeks probably.
- Woman at Office: I'll let you have a room with two beds at a special price till Monday, and after that we will be able to give you a small room. Will that be all right?
- Mr. Anyman: I'm very much against moving if there's any possible way out of it. I was hoping to get everything out of my boxes after the journey. Have you no other suggestion to make?
- Woman at Office: No, that's the best I am able to do. Every other hotel in London is booked up in the same way. In fact, quite a number of persons have been sent on to us.
- Mr. Anyman: That's the worst of London at this time of year. Well, I'll have to take what there is. Is rum kwaiet? oats oe greit bin.

¹ From Everyday Basic, L. W. Lockhart, pp. 20-24.

wumən ət ofis: ljes, lveri; its ət və bak. ənd souz vir lavər wan. in fakt, vei ər tur əv və kwaiətist lrumz in və houltel.

mistor eniman: and haz it got a bazurum?

wumən ət əfis: δə ˈruːm juː ər ˈgouiŋ intu təˈdei ˈhaz.

δə ˈsmoːlər wan ˈhaznt, bət its ˈounli ˈwan ˈdɔːr əf δe ˈpablik ˈbaːθrum. ənd ˈɔːl δə ˈruːmz in δə houˈtel hav ˈtelifounz.

mister eniman: |gud. end to |prais?

wumən ət ofis: δə ru:m wið δə ba:θrum iz fifti:n siliŋz.

ði: laðar wil bi: lten silinz.

mistər eniman: öats wiölaut eni lmi:lz? wumən ət ofis: ljes. lmi:lz ər lsepərit. mistər eniman: lo:l rait, ail lteik öə ru:m.

wumən ət əfis: |wil juz |put juər |neim in öə |buk, |plizz ?

mistər eniman: İsəzrtnli.

wumən ət ofis: 50 lrum iz on 50 lsekənd lflorr, lniər 50 llift. lhiərz juər lkir. llet mir hav it bak hwen jur lgou laut.

mistər eniman: ai |wil. a |frend mei biz |kʌmiŋ |in tə |siz miz bitwizn |siks ənd |sevn. |if hiz |dʌz, |wil juz |let him gou |streit ʌp tə mai |ruzm ?

wumən ət əfis: 'səzrtnli. Tə lpəzrtər wil 'teik juz 'Ap if juz ər 'redi tə 'gou 'nau.

houtel pointen: juen boksiz wil kam ap seperitli. öis iz öe ruim, sen.

mister eniman: 'iz it 'posibl te get de 'windou 'oupn? its 'veri 'worm in hier wid de 'hirtin.

this room quiet? That's the great thing.

Woman at Office: Yes, very; it's at the back. And so's the other one. In fact, they're two of the quietest rooms in the hotel.

Mr. Anyman: And has it got a bathroom?

Woman at Office: The room you're going into today has. The smaller one hasn't, but it's only one door off the public bathroom. And all the rooms in the hotel have telephones.

Mr. Anyman: Good. And the price?

Woman at Office: The room with the bathroom is fifteen shillings. The other will be ten shillings.

Mr. Anyman: That's without any meals?

Woman at Office: Yes. Meals are separate.

Mr. Anyman: All right, I'll take the room.

Woman at Office: Will you put your name in the book, please?

Mr. Anyman.: Certainly.

Woman at Office: The room is on the second floor, near the lift. Here's your key. Let me have it back when you go out.

Mr. Anyman: I will. A friend may be coming in to see me between six and seven. If he does, will you let him go straight up to my room?

Woman at Office: Certainly. The porter will take you up if you are ready to go now.

Hotel Porter: Your boxes will come up separately.
This is the room, sir.

Mr. Anyman: Is it possible to get the window open? It's very warm in here with the heating.

houtel poirter: liz it loupn ilnaf lnau? vis lwindouz mister eniman: |Sat wil bi: oil |rait.

houtel poirter: ail send to goirl to jui.

səzrvənt: hav juz evriθin sər?

mistər eniman: 'jes, bət veər 'daznt 'sizm tə biz ə 'bel əv 'eni 'sozrt in və 'ruzm.

sərrvənt: |orl |ordərz ər |sent ouvər və |telifoun, sər. jur |get |θrur tə və |portərz |ofis.

mistər eniman: lai lsi:. ai həv səm ldə:rti lθiŋz. lhau du: ai lsend öəm tə öə lwo\?

sə:rvənt: if ju: meik aut ə llist, ail lput vəm in ə lpa:rsl fər ju:, sər, ənd send vəm of təlmərou. vei wil bi: bak ən satərdei.

mistər eniman : ˈgud. ənd ven əˈnλvər θiŋ. ˈhwen ər və ˈʃuːz ˈteikn fər ˈkliːniŋ ?

sərrvənt: if jur put öəm autlaaid juər ldorr ət lnait öə burt boi wil ldur öəm hwen hir kamz raund lərrli in öə morrnin.

mistər eniman: lou, lwan lminit. vərz lnou soup in və lba:θrum.

sə:rvənt: ail |gou ənd |get ju: ə bit |nau. wi:v had |veri |litl |taim tə get 0inz |streit in |vis |ru:m.

mistər eniman: wel, ail bi: ˈgouiŋ ˈaut in ə ˈʃɔːrt ˈtaim.

'hweərz öə ˈraitiŋ-rum ?

sə:rvənt: on də fə:rst flo:r. bət dər ər raitin-teiblz in o:l də pablik ru:mz.

Hotel Porter: Is it open enough now? This window's very stiff, and that's the best I'm able to do.

Mr. Anyman: That will be all right.

Hotel Porter: I'll send the girl to you.

Servant: Have you everything, sir?

Mr. Anyman: Yes, but there doesn't seem to be a bell of any sort in the room.

Servant: All orders are sent over the telephone, sir. You get through to the porter's office.

Mr. Anyman: I see. I have some dirty things. How do I send them to the wash?

Servant: If you make out a list, I'll put them in a parcel for you, sir, and send them off tomorrow. They will be back on Saturday.

Mr. Anyman: Good. And then another thing. When are the shoes taken for cleaning?

Servant: If you put them outside your door at night the boot boy will do them when he comes round early in the morning.

Mr. Anyman: Oh, one minute. There's no soap in the bathroom.

Servant: I'll go and get you a bit now. We've had very little time to get things straight in this room.

Mr. Anyman: Well, I'll be going out in a short time. Where's the writing-room?

Servant: On the first floor. But there are writing-tables in all the public rooms.

Mr. Anyman: May I have a cup of tea at eight tomorrow morning?

servent: jes ser. ail bir bak wið juer soup in eminit err tur.

houtel pointer: 'hier er juer 'boksiz ser. Se 'boi 'got Se 'namberz 'mikst, sir juid hev 'had sem bilfoir.

mistər eniman: lgud; ənd lhwail juz ər lhiər, lwil juz lsiz lhwət həz gən lrən wið ðiz illektrik lait louvər mai lbed? its lprəbəbli ðə lbalb, bikəz ðiz laðər lait iz o:l lrait.

houtel pointer: |oats hwots |ron ser. ail |hav te |put in e|naoer.

mister eniman: 'nau aim gouin te teik e 'rest. if 'eniwan 'kamz, öi: 'ofis iz te 'sei öet ai wil 'not bi: 'in til 'siks.

houtel poirter: 'jes ser.

- Servant: Yes, sir. I'll be back with your soap in a minute or two.
- Hotel Porter: Here are your boxes, sir. The boy got the numbers mixed, or you'd have had them before.
- Mr. Anyman: Good; and while you are here, will you see what has gone wrong with the electric light over my bed? It's probably the bulb, because the other light is all right.
- Hotel Porter: That's what's wrong, sir. I'll have to put in another.
- Mr. Anyman: Now I'm going to take a rest. If any one comes, the office is to say that I will not be in till six.

Hotel Porter: Yes, sir.

To ling ov neifonz and worr

tə İdzenərəl aildiə əbaut tə İlizg əv İneisənz İz tət it İz ən orgənailzeisən əlgenst İworr—ə İsaid əv its İwərrk hwits həz lounli birn İtatst on in Tois əlkaunt in tə İstorii əv tə İlizgz İlən İfait fər "arrbiltreisən, silkjuəriti ənd dislarməmənt." lauər əlkaunt həz birn İtsirli əbaut tir İnter said, "laktin təlgetər intər nasənəli," ənd teikin ə İlən İvjur. Tois iz tə İrait İwei tə İmeik tə İdeində əv İwərr İles, til in tir İend it iz İnət İteər ət İsal.

in δə lbiznis əv lkizpin lworr from lteikin lpleis, δə llizg haz on lrekorrd səm sərlpraizin lfakts. fər iglzarmpl, lwan lmandei in okltoubər, lnaintirn ltwenti lfaiv, ə lgrirk lmilitəri lwot∫mən wəz lput tə ldeθ on δə lland llimits əv ballgeəriə. lθriz ldeiz lleitər lgrirk ltrurps lwent intə ballgeəriə bai lforrs. δə ballgeəriən lworr ofis lsent ə lteligram tə δə lhed əv δeər lforrsiz:—

lounli lput ap a lamo: l lfait; lteik lkear av loouz in lfait and in ltrabl; lduz lnot llet lfiar get a lgrip av oa latruzma lvali; and lduz not lput juar lmen in ldeindzar ev an nesseari losiz, bikoz oa lfakts hav bizn lput biforr

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND WAR 1

The general idea about the League of Nations is that it is an organization against war—a side of its work which has only been touched on in this account in the story of the League's long fight for "arbitration, security, and disarmament." Our account has been chiefly about the other side, "acting together internationally," and taking a long view. This is the right way to make the danger of war less, till in the end it is not there at all.

In the business of keeping war from taking place, the League has on record some surprising facts. For example, one Monday in October 1925, a Greek military watchman was put to death on the land limits of Bulgaria. Three days later Greek troops went into Bulgaria by force. The Bulgarian War Office sent a telegram to the head of their forces:

Only put up a small fight; take care of those in flight and in trouble; do not let fear get a grip of the Struma Valley; and do not put your men in danger of unnecessary losses, because the facts have been put before the το ballgeəriən rilkwest tə το lizg tə lduz samθin lgot tə dzilnizvə ət lhazf lpast lsiks το lmozrnin lazftər, lfraidei. bai lhazf lpast illevn lteligramz həd bizn lsent laut frəm lparis (bikoz lməsjəzr lbrion wəz laktin-lprezidnt əv το llizgz lkaunsl) lozrdərin ə lmiztin əv το lkaunsl fər το lkamin lmandei. Latər lteligramz put lgrizs ənd ballgeəriə in lmaind το loei wər lpazrt əv το llizg, ənd lmeid ə rilkwest tə το m tə lkizp το lazrmiz frəm lfaitin til lazftər το lmiztin əv το lkaunsl. Το lteligram tuz laθənz wəz in ltaim tə lkizp hwət lwud həv bizn το lfəzrst lfait əv το lwozr frəm ltelkin lpleis.

¹ From The Organization of Peace, Maxwell Garnett, pp. 110-113.

To kaunsl ov To lling ov heifenz, hwitf wil probabli put a stop to Tin oltak.

Ihwen öð Ikaunsl had its Imiztin on öð Imandei, Iozl bðt Iwan av öð reprilzentativz war Ipreznt. alman Iðouz huz Ikeim war öð Ibritis Iforin Isekritari, öð Ifrents Iforin Iministar av Iswigdn, huz had Ikam bai Iearplein fram Istokhoum ta biz in Itaim. Öð Ikaunsl geiv an Iozrdar far öð Igrizk Iazrmiz ta biz Iteikn Ibak in Ibriz Ideiz. bai Ifraidei av Iðat Iwizk öð Ilazst Igrizk had Igon Iaut av ballgearið. Öð Ilizg had Iput a Istop ta öiz altak.

bət bis wəz not lorl. it wəz not inaf fər öə kaunsl simpli tə kirp öə worr frəm teikin pleis. its houp wəz, if posibl, tə put ən lend tə öə kərz. sou it sent ə kəlmiti meid lap əv pərrənz hur həd nou praivit əlpinjənz ən öe kwest ən, andər sər hərəs rambould, tə gou intə öə kərz əv öə trabl hweər it

Council of the League of Nations, which will probably put a stop to the attack.

The Bulgarian request to the League to do something got to Geneva at half-past six the morning after, Friday. By half-past eleven telegrams had been sent out from Paris (because M. Briand was acting-President of the League's Council) ordering a meeting of the Council for the coming Monday. Other telegrams put Greece and Bulgaria in mind that they were part of the League, and made a request to them to keep their armies from fighting till after meeting of the Council. The telegram to Athens was in time to keep what would have been the first fight of the war from taking place.

When the Council had its meeting on the Monday, all but one of the representatives were present. Among those who came were the British Foreign Secretary, the French Foreign Minister and the Foreign Minister of Sweden, who had come by airplane from Stockholm to be in time. The Council gave an order for the Greek armies to be taken back in three days. By Friday of that week the last Greek had gone out of Bulgaria. The League had put a stop to the attack.

But this was not all. It was not enough for the Council simply to keep the war from taking place. Its hope was, if possible, to put an end to the cause. So it sent a Committee made up of persons who had no private opinions on the question under Sir Horace Rumbold, to go into the cause of the trouble where it həd İteikn İpleis, tə İsiz İhuz wəz riİsponsibl, ənd İmeik səldzest Jənz əbaut İhau tə İkizp və İseim löin frəm İteikin İpleis əlgen. İozl İvis wəz İdan wivaut İeni İtrabl. İhwen və İkaunsı had əlnavər İmiztin in dilsembər, İgrizs İmeid ən əlgrizment tə İgiv İforrti İfaiv İbauzənd İpaundz in İdamidziz, ənd və İgavərnmənts əv və İtuz İkantriz geiv ilfekt tə və İlizgz səldzest Jənz fər İkizpin ən lautbərrst əv və İseim İsərrt frəm İteikin İpleis əlgen. ənd İhwen vər wəz ən lazırgiumənt əbaut və İland İlimits İwan vər İtuz İmanosı İleitər, vər wəz İnou İsiəriəs İtrabl.

had taken place, to see who was responsible, and make suggestions about how to keep the same thing from taking place again. All this was done without any trouble. When the Council had another meeting in December, Greece made an agreement to give £45,000 in damages, and the governments of the two countries gave effect to the League's suggestions for keeping an outburst of the same sort from taking place again. And when there was an argument about the land limits one or two months later, there was no serious trouble.

ðə kelog əlgrizmənt

öə 'prəzidnt əv öə jur'naitid 'steits əv ə'merikə, öə 'prezidnt əv öə 'frent\(\) ri'pablik, öə 'kiŋ əv öə 'beldzənz, öə 'prezidnt əv öə 't\(\) keou'slouvak ri'pablik, öə 'kiŋ əv greit 'britən, 'aiərlənd, ənd öə 'briti\(\) dou'minjənz 'ouvər öə 'sizz, 'empərər əv 'indjə, öə 'prezidnt əv öə 'dzəzrmən 'rai\(\), öə 'kiŋ əv 'itəli, öiz 'empərər əv dzə'pan, öə 'prəzidnt əv öə ri'pablik əv 'poulənd, displi konsəs öət öei ər risponsibl fər inkrissin öə welbisin əv osl neisənz;

səirtən öət öə taim həz kam hwen it iz rait fər öə neisənz pablikli tə giv ap worr əz ən instrument fər profitin dəmselvz, sou öət öə preznt pix ənd öə hapi rilleisənz bitwirn öəm mei bix kept andamidzd;

havin 'kam tə öə di'sizən öət 'ozl 'tfeindziz in öeər ri'leifənz wiö wan ənaöər azr tə biz əltemptid 'ounli in 'weiz hwitf wil 'not biz ə 'kozz əv 'wozr, ənd öət 'satf 'tfeindziz azr 'rait 'ounli əz öiz 'autkam əv ə 'prouses in hwitf 'pizs ənd 'ozrdər ər ri'spektid, ənd öat it iz 'rait tə 'kizp' 'eni 'pauər hwitf 'puts its 'neim tə öiz əlgrizmənt

The President of the United States of America, the President of the French Republic, the King of the Belgians, the President of the Czechoslovak Republic, the King of Great Britain, Ireland, and the British Dominions over the Seas, Emperor of India, the President of the German Reich, the King of Italy, the Emperor of Japan, the President of the Republic of Poland,

Deeply conscious that they are responsible for increasing the well-being of all nations;

Certain that the time has come when it is right for the nations publicly to give up war as an instrument for profiting themselves, so that the present peace and the happy relations between them may be kept undamaged;

Having come to the decision that all changes in their relations with one another are to be attempted only in ways which will not be a cause of war, and that such changes are right only as the outcome of a process in which peace and order are respected, and that it is right to keep any Power which puts its name

¹ From Everyday Basic, L. W. Lockhart, pp. 75-78.

ənd leitər gouz tə worr fər its praivit intrists frəm profitin bai löis əlgrirmənt;

hav kam tuz ə dilsizən tə lmeik ən əlgrizmənt, ənd fər löat lpəzrpəs həv lput lforrwərd əz ösər reprilzentətivz wið lful lpauərz, öə lprezidnt əv öə juzlnaitid lsteits, ətləctrə. ənd löci, haviŋ lsizn wan ənaöərz lpeipərz əv əzlθəriti, lgiviŋ öəm lful lpauər, tə biz lsəzrtən öət öci ər in ləzrdər ənd in lgud lforrm, həv kam tuz ən əlgrizmənt tə lmeik löizz lsteitmənts in öə lneim əv ləzl.

- I. δο 'neisənz sə'pəzrtin 'dis ə'grizmənt meik ə 'pablik 'steitmənt, in δο 'neim əv 'ozl huz 'kam 'andər diz əz'dəriti əv δeər 'gavərnmənts, δət δei ər ə'genst δə 'juzs əv 'wəzr fər 'putin ən 'end tuz intər'nasənəl 'trablz, ənd wil 'not meik 'juzs əv it əz ən 'instrument fər 'profitin δəm'selvz in δeər ri'leisənz wið 'wan ə'naδər.
- II. To 'neisonz so'portin Tis o'grirment hev 'kam to To di'sizon Tot Tei wil 'put en 'end tur 'orl 'korziz ev 'trabl bi'twirn Tom, ev hwotlever 'sort Tei mei 'bir or in hwotlever 'wei Tei 'keim intur ig'zistens, in 'weiz hwits wil 'not bir e 'korz ev 'worr.
- III və preznt əlgrizmənt iz tə biz meid gud in bə bai və neifənz in kwestfən in hwətlevər wei veər difərənt pəlitikl sistimz meik nesəsəri, ənd wil teik ifekt əz biltwirn vəm wilvaut ləs əv taim hwen veər peipərz meikin viz əlgrizmənt gud in ləz həv bizn pleist ət . . .

bis əlgrizmənt wil, hwen it həz kam intuz ilfekt in to the agreement and later goes to war for its private interests from profiting by this agreement;

Have come to a decision to make an agreement, and for that purpose have put forward as their representatives with full powers, the President of the United States, etc. And they, having seen one another's papers of authority, giving them full power, to be certain that they are in order and in good form, have come to an agreement to make these statements in the name of all:

- I. The nations supporting this Agreement make a public statement, in the name of all who come under the authority of their governments, that they are against the use of war for putting an end to international troubles, and will not make use of it as an instrument for profiting themselves in their relations with one another.
- II. The nations supporting this Agreement have come to the decision that they will put an end to all causes of trouble between them, of whatever sort they may be or in whatever way they came into existence, in ways which will not be a cause of war.
- III. The present Agreement is to be made good in law by the nations in question in whatever way their different political systems make necessary, and will take effect as between them without loss of time when their papers making the agreement good in law have been placed at . . .

This Agreement will, when it has come into effect in bis wei, biz kept oupn əz loŋ əz mei biz nesəsəri tə lget it saind bai ozl biz labər pauərz. levri peipər lgivin bə səlpəzrt əv əlnabər pauər wil biz pleist ət . . . and hwen bis həz bizn dan, biz əlguzmənt wil teik ilfekt streit əlwei bitwizn bə pauərz njuzlı lgivin its səlpəzrt, and biz labər pauərz hwith həv dan sou in bə lpazst.

it wil biz lnesssəri fər öə lgavərnmənt əv . . . tə giv levri lgavərnmənt lneimd in öə lfəzrət lwəzrdz əv öiz əlgrizmənt, ənd levri lgavərnmənt hwith leitər lgivz its səlpəzrt tə öiz əlgrizmənt, ə lkəpi əv öiz əlgrizmənt, lbakt bai əzlbəriti, təlgeğər wið ə lkəpi əv levri lpeipər lpleist öeər in kəlnekfən wið it. it wil biz lnesəsəri in əldifən fər öə lgavərnmənt əv . . . tə lsend lwəzrd bai lteligram, wiðlaut lləs əv ltaım, tuz ləzl lsath lgavərnmənts hwenlevər ə lpeipər lgivin səlpəzrt əzr lmeikin löat səlpəzrt lgud in lləz, iz lpleist öeər.

in səlpərt əv birz andər teikinz, öə repri zentətivz əv öə difərənt neifənz həv put deər neimz tə bis əlgrirmənt in beisik inglif ənd in frentf, öə bir formz havin likwəl fors, and öə sainz əv öcər gavərnmənts həv birn pleist on it in waks.

dan ət . . . və . , . dei əv . . . in və ljiər lwan loauzənd lnain lhandrid ənd ltwentı. . .

this way, be kept open as long as may be necessary to get it signed by all the other Powers. Every paper giving the support of another Power will be placed at . . . and when this has been done, the Agreement will take effect straight away between the Powers newly giving its support, and the other Powers which have done so in the past.

It will be necessary for the Government of . . . to give every Government named in the first words of the Agreement, and every Government which later gives its support to the Agreement, a copy of the Agreement, backed by authority, together with a copy of every paper placed there in connection with it. It will be necessary in addition for the Government of . . . to send word by telegram, without loss of time, to all such Governments whenever a paper giving support or making that support good in law, is placed there.

In support of these undertakings, the representatives of the different nations have put their names to this Agreement in Basic English and in French, the two forms having equal force, and the signs of their Governments have been placed on it in wax.

Done at . . . the . . . day of . . . in the Year One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty. . . .

őə ¹sanz ¹sistim

δο lyju: hwits iz lnau lteikn az tə δο lbərrθ əv δο Isanz Isistim (it givz Inou əlkaunt əv və Ikamin intu: iglzistəns əv və İsan itlself) iz İbeist əpən ə İveri İkəmən 'fakt hwit\ iz in to 'nolida ev 'evribodi. it iz komen Inolida vet ve Ikamin IAp and Igouin Idaun av va Iwo:tarz ev to siz, neimd "taidz," hwitf evri wan iz eibl to teik 'nout ov 'evri 'dei et de 'sissaid, ar 'kozzd bai de forrs av altrakian av da san and da murn. da wortarz. bizin friz, air muzvd bai dis əltrak (ən, ənd də taidz gou raund dir biro thiifii laifter de muin, de san havin ounli ə smo: | part in korzin dis mouser! bet der iz əlnadər fakt, hwitf founli keim tə flait ə forrt taim bak, and hwith iz not koman nolidg. Sis fakt, hwith wil nou daut bi: ə sərlpraiz tə lsam lrizdərz, iz bət bə taidz ar not limitid to so siz, bot sot so solid feis əv δi: |ə:rθ it|self andər|gouz |taid |mou(ənz in δə |fə:rm əv ə weiv ranin raund δiz əzrθ, kəzd bai δiz ifekt əv oir əltrak(ən əv də murn. bət dis taid, dou nat(ərəli veri mats smoother fon to staid ov to siz, iz oz mats az |ten ta |twenti |int(ız. it iz |greitist at 5a |midl at

The view which is now taken as to the birth of the Sun's system (it gives no account of the coming into existence of the Sun itself) is based upon a very common fact which is in the knowledge of everybody. It is common knowledge that the coming up and going down of the waters of the seas, named "tides," which everyone is able to take note of every day at the seaside, are caused by the force of attraction of the Sun and the Moon. The waters, being free, are moved by this attraction, and the tides go round the Earth chiefly after the Moon, the Sun having only a small part in causing this motion. But there is another fact, which only came to light a short time back, and which is not common knowledge. This fact, which will no doubt be a surprise to some readers, is that the tides are not limited to the seas, but that the solid face of the Earth itself undergoes tide motions in the form of a wave running round the Earth, caused by the effect of the attraction of the Moon. But this tide, though naturally very much smaller than the tides of the seas, is as much as 10 to 20 inches.

(4842) 145 L

¹ From A Basic Astronomy, S. L. Salzedo, pp. 21-25. Some international science words are used in this account.

vi: ə:rθ, hwail it gets les in və lnoziθ ənd sauθ. bət loou dis lerre taid iz lsou mats lsmerler den de ltaidz ev ve siz, viz laznser tuz auer kwest(en, hau did auer lezrθ kam inte seperit ig zistens?, iz pointid aut bai bis mousən. wir mei put it sis wei: & murn iz smorl. ənd biz ilfekt əv its əltrak(ən on bə hazrd ləzre mei biz mezerd in lintsiz. Ihwot wud lterk bleis if to mu:n waz a veri greit bodi, and δι: a:rθ waz a veri greit bodi, əz greit əz öə san? öə weivz kozd in öə səlid lauter pairt əv δι: ləirθ (hwits iz lveri lθin) bai δί: əltrak(ən əv və greit bədi sou niər it wud biz kwait lhai, sou det e greit elmaunt ev de sabstens ev di: le:ro wud bir puld kəmplirtli əlwei, ənd wud not gou bak, bet kiep aut in speis, in to form posibli ev e rin et feirst, vo pairts ov hwits wud ven litl bai litl kam niərər ənd niərər təlgebər, til ə bəzl wəz fərmd.

löat iz öə lkarənt lyjuz əbaut öə lwei in hwit öə ldifərənt lgreit lbodiz lformin öə lsanz lsistim lkeim intur iglzistəns. Gauzəndz əv lmiljənz əv ljiərz lbak, hwen hwət iz lnau auər lsan wəz ə lgreit lbodi, greitər öən lnau, ənd lkwait bai itlself, əlnaöər lgreit lbodi lkamin frəm lautər lspeis, got lniərər ənd lniərər, til ət llarst öir əltrak sən əv öə lnjur lbodi ən öə lsan wəz lsou lstrən öət lgreit lmasiz əv lsabstəns wər lbroukən əlwei, formin öir lərə ənd öir laöər lplanits. ən löis lyjur lərl lsat bör lərə ənd öir laöər lplanits. ən löis lyjur lərl lsat böbdiz wər lformd ət öə lseim ltaim ənd aut əv ös lseim lgreit lmas əv lsabstəns hwit həd birn lbroukn əlwei, bikaz öə ldistənsiz biltwirn öə lstarrz (hwit ər ir is greatest at the middle of the Earth, while it gets less in the north and south. But though this Earth tide is so much smaller than the tides of the sea, the answer to our question, How did our Earth come into separate existence?, is pointed out by this motion. We may put it this way: The Moon is small, and the effect of its attraction on the hard Earth may be measured in inches. What would take place if the Moon was a very great body, and the Earth was a very great body, as great as the Sun? The waves caused in the solid outer part of the Earth (which is very thin) by the attraction of the great body so near it would be quite high, so that a great amount of the substance of the Earth would be pulled completely away, and would not go back, but keep out in space, in the form possibly of a ring at first, the parts of which would then little by little come nearer and nearer together, till a ball was formed.

That is the current view about the way in which the different great bodies forming the Sun's system came into existence. Thousands of millions of years back, when what is now our Sun was a great body, greater than now, and quite by itself, another great body coming from outer space, got nearer and nearer, till at last the attraction of the new body on the Sun was so strong that great masses of substance were broken away, forming the Earth and the other planets. On this view all such bodies were formed at the same time and out of the same great mass of substance which had been broken away, because the distances between the

z) arr sou sgreit öət it wud not bir sposibl öət stur əv öəm wud kam niər tə wan ənaöər sən wans sirvn in θauzəndz əv smiljənz əv sjiərz.

Isats iz də Ipreznt Ivju: az tə də İwei in hwits də İsan ənd its İsistim İkeim intu: igizistəns. bət it iz İounli İrait tə İsei İhiər dət İaz də İdiəri əv lalplas wəz İlukt əpən əz də İrait wan fər ə İhandrid İjiərz, ənd wez İsin tə biz İrən, İsou də İnju: İdiəri, hwits iz İveri mats İjangər, İmei, ət İsam İtaim in də İfju:tsər, biz İsin tə biz İnou İləngər in əlgrizmənt wid də disikavəriz hwits həv İden bizı İmeid, ənd ə İnju: İdiəri wil İhav tə biz İfərmd hwits wil biz in əlgrizmənt wid auər İnju: İnəlidz.

bət if öər la:r öizz lgreit lə:r0:-taidz, it iz lkliər öət lwelziz veri lbju:tiful lstə:ri neimd "öə lsta:r" daz lnət lgiv ə ltru: əlkaunt əv öi: ilvents hwit wud bi: öi: lautkam əv öə kənldi ənz lpikt ərd in it. it lsez öət ə lgreit lred lbədi frəm autlsaid öə lsanz lsistim keim lniər tə öi: lə:r0, ənd öət öi: lə:r0 wəz lwə t bai lgreit ltaidz əv öə lsi:z at ə lgreit lhi:t, lkə:ziŋ öə disltrak əv ərlmoust lə:l lliviŋ l0iŋz. öə ltru: lautkam wud lnət bi: löis, bət öər wud bi: lgreit ltaidz əv öə lha:rd lə:r0 it self, bai hwit lə:r0-lweivz lhandridz əv lfi:t lhai wud bi: lkə:zd. öi: lautər lfeis əv öi: lə:r0 wud bi: lbroukn loru:, lgreit lmasiz əv llikwid lsabstəns ət ə lgreit lhi:t wud lkam laut ənd lgou louvər lə:l öi: lə:r0, əir öi: lə:r0 wud li:vn bi: lbroukn lap intə lsmə:l lbits.

stars (which are in fact suns) are so great that it would not be possible that two of them would come near to one another more than once even in thousands of millions of years.

Such is the present view as to the way in which the Sun and its system came into existence. But it is only right to say here that as the theory of Laplace was looked upon as the right one for a hundred years, and was seen to be wrong, so the new theory, which is very much younger, may, at some time in the future, be seen to be no longer in agreement with the discoveries which have then been made, and a new theory will have to be formed which will be in agreement with our new knowledge.

But if there are these great Earth-tides, it is clear that Wells's very beautiful story named "The Star" does not give a true account of the events which would be the outcome of the conditions pictured in it. It says that a great, red body from outside the Sun's system came near to the Earth, and that the Earth was washed by great tides of the seas at a great heat, causing the destruction of almost all living things. The true outcome would not be this, but there would be great tides of the hard Earth itself, by which earthwaves hundreds of feet high would be caused. The outer face of the Earth would be broken through, great masses of liquid substance at a great heat would come out and go over all the Earth, or the Earth would even be broken up into small bits.

treid ander henri το sevnθ

fram va stairt av hiz ruil va kin soi va valjui av vi: iklspan(ən əv ltreid. it wəz hiz dilzaiər tə giv ə Inju: limpals to go wul treid and Iklob-meikin, and livn in 80 midl av pallitikl trablz hi: tuk an lintrast in səldzest(ənz fər və dılveləpmənt əv linglif ltreid. wəz ə ri:zn fər laktin widlaut los əv ltaim. Iwan əv viz ilfekts əv və lwəzrz əv və lrouziz wəz ə lmazrkt lfəzlin of in linglis treid. hwail bis kantri wez in de grip av worr, ve hanse treiderz had got vir linglis laut əv beər mairkits in δə noirθ əv juərəp, ənd in δiz lərli ijiərz əv hiz rurl henri tuk isteps tə iget bak Itreidin raits in denmark and laver parts av juarap. dilsizənz əbaut İtreid wər meid ői: İinstrument əv pəllitikl dilzainz. Ifat Iprofits həd Ilon bi:n Imeid aut ev di: lingli wul treid wid de lou kantriz, end de dilzaiər fər lingli wul geiv henri o pəllitikl pul hi: waz Inot Islou ta meik ljuis av. in Ifairtiin Inainti Iorii hi: let to ldeindzer ev harrberin linglismen hu: weir əlgenst və lgavərnmənt bi: lsi:n bai lstəpin lo:l ltreid bitwin lingland and lflamdarz. Si ilfekts av Sat disigen apon to kloo treid in te lou kantriz kwikli

From the start of his rule the King saw the value of an expansion of trade. It was his desire to give a new impulse to the wool trade and cloth-making, and even in the middle of political troubles he took an interest in suggestions for the development of English There was a reason for acting without loss of One of the effects of the Wars of the Roses was a marked falling off in English trade. While this country was in the grip of war, the Hansa traders had got the English out of their markets in the north of Europe, and in the early years of his rule Henry took steps to get back trading rights in Denmark and other parts of Europe. Decisions about trade were made the instrument of political designs. Fat profits had long been made out of the English wool trade with the Low Countries, and the desire for English wool gave Henry a political pull he was not slow to make use of. In 1493 he let the danger of harbouring Englishmen who were against the Government be seen by stopping all trade between England and Flanders. The effects of that decision upon the cloth trade in the Low

¹ Put into Basic from The Making of the Tudor Despotism, C. H. Williams, pp. 49-51.

meid klier hau stron wez de pauer in inglendz handz. i:vn |mo:r sər|praizin wəz öə |wei in hwit(|henri meid jus əv ə stron bəlitikl pəlzifən tə get betər kəndifənz fər lingli (ltreidərz. də moust noutid ligza:mpl wəz də treidin əlgri:mənt wið sfla:ndərz in sfo:rti:n snainti δə |neim hwit wəz |leitər |givən tu: it, δi: "inter ko:rses magnes," iz e sain ev hau mats inglis treid waz profitid bai it. it waz tii:fli important bikoz it wəz də İsta:rt əv İfri: İtreidin rillei sənz bitwi:n beirgendi end linglend. To skeil ev taksiz fer linglis and flemi treidorz waz ta bi: fikst at a reit not haiar ven bat hwith had burn in forrs for ve last fifti jierz. 'fi(in |wo:tərz wər meid |fri:, ənd wið ə |vju: tu: in |kri:sin treid bitwi:n vo tu: kantriz, sieries etempts wer te bi: meid tə but daun və vaiələnt si:mən livin bai hwot dei war leibl ta lteik fram ladarz, hu: war lsats a deindzər tə treidin sips. sou mats profit keim fram bis əlgri:mənt bət, hwen bə tha:ns keim, henri meid ən əltempt tə get izvn İgreitər İraits fər linglismən. əbaut İfiti:n İhandrid ənd İfo:r İnju: pəllitikl İtrablz wər meikin treid im posibl, hwen, bai gud tans, di: la:rt(|dju:k |filips |fip went |daun in |ingli(|wo:terz, end bis put him in henriz handz. ən əlgri:mənt wəz saind in fifti:n handrid and siks huzz leitar neimői: "intər kə:rsəs maləs"—iz ə sain əv hau wan-saidid it woz. bai bis əlgri:mənt bə reits fikst in fərrtirn nainti siks werr te bir kept, bet inglis treiderz werr tə bi: fri: frəm və taun taksiz in və tou kantriz. əldifən öei wər tə hav öə rait tə du: smo:l-skeil praivit

Countries quickly made clear how strong was the power in England's hands. Even more surprising was the way in which Henry made use of a strong political position to get better conditions for English traders. The most noted example was the trading agreement with Flanders in 1496. The name which was later given to it, the "Intercursus Magnus," is a sign of how much English trade was profited by it. It was chiefly important because it was the start of free trading relations between Burgundy and England. The scale of taxes for English and Flemish traders was to be fixed at a rate not higher than that which had been in force for the last fifty years. Fishing-waters were made free, and, with a view to increasing trade between the two countries, serious attempts were to be made to put down the violent seamen living by what they were able to take from others, who were such a danger to trading ships. So much profit came from this agreement that, when the chance came, Henry made an attempt to get even greater rights for Englishmen. About 1504 new political troubles were making trade impossible, when, by good chance, the Archduke Philip's ship went down in English waters, and this put him in Henry's hands. An agreement was signed in 1506 whose later name—the "Intercursus Malus "-is a sign of how one-sided it was. By this agreement the rates fixed in 1496 were to be kept, but English traders were to be free from the town taxes in the Low Countries. In addition they were to have the right to do small-scale private treidin in oʻzl 'parts əv tə 'netərləndz bət 'flaindərz. 'ingli', 'treidərz did 'not get 'sou 'mat', 'profit aut əv tiz əlgrizmənt əz tei ər 'samtaimz 'sed tə həv dan. it wəz 'kliərli 'wan-'saidid, ənd 'arftər 'filips 'det in 'fifti:n 'handrid ənd 'siks, tə pəlzi'ən 'wəz əlgen 'givn əlten'ən. tiz 'autkam əv 'tis wəz ən əlgrizmənt 'saind in 'fifti:n 'handrid ənd 'sevn hwit', 'put ən 'end tə 'sam əv tə 'raits hwit', həd bizn ə 'kozz əv 'bad 'fizlin. tiz "intər'kərrəs 'magnəs" 'keim intə 'forrə əlgen, ənd tə 'rait tə 'sməzl-'skeil 'treidin wəz 'tei'kn əlwei. ri'lei'ənz bitwizn tə 'tuz 'kantrız wər kən'trould bai tizz 'betər kən'di'ənz til 'henriz 'det.

trading in all parts of the Netherlands but Flanders. English traders did not get so much profit out of the agreement as they are sometimes said to have done. It was clearly one-sided, and after Philip's death in 1506, the position was again given attention. The outcome of this was an agreement signed in 1507 which put an end to some of the rights which had been a cause of bad feeling. The Intercursus Magnus came into force again, and the right to small-scale trading was taken away. Relations between the two countries were controlled by these better conditions till Henry's death.

weit and mas

in levridei langwidz, hwen lto:kin əbaut və weit əv eniθin, wir hav in maind its weit megard on to feis ev δi: le:rθ. levri latem ev δi: le:rθ iz lpulin et δe lθin huiz weit wii er megerin, end to dgenerel ilfekt proldjuist bai loil biiz pulz laktin olgenst wan olnabor iz hwot iz neimd δθ weit av δθ θίη. |δί:z |pulz ar in veri difərənt dilrek (ənz. lounli bouz latəmz hwit) ər on de sortist lain bitwien de oin in kwestsen end de midl əv öi: |ə:r0 ər |pulin it |streit |daun. it iz |simpl ilnaf tə si: gət lorl lagər latəmz ər lpulin it ldaun ənd saidweiz. bat, ez wir hev sirn frem ikspieriens, dir ilfekt əv lorl birz pulz liz in bir lend streit daun. ə Oin huz weit wiz er megerin hez nou tendensi te mou(ən in eni saidweiz direk(ən. sis iz hwot wud Inatfereli bi lukt for on a raund bodi laik fir lare, bikoz wiz siz vet eni saidweiz pul, fer igzampl, te biz list, iz meid ap for bai en likwel saidweiz pul ta ta lwest.

lost lorl dir latemz ev dir lerre er loulin et leinz wid

In everyday language, when talking about the weight of anything, we have in mind its weight measured on the face of the earth. Every atom of the earth is pulling at the thing whose weight we are measuring, and the general effect produced by all these pulls acting against one another is what is named the weight of the thing. These pulls are in very different directions. Only those atoms which are on the shortest line between the thing in question and the middle of the earth are pulling it straight down. It is simple enough to see that all other atoms are pulling it down and sideways. But, as we have seen from experience, the effect of all these pulls is in the end straight down. A thing whose weight we are measuring has no tendency to motion in any sideways direction. This is what would naturally be looked for on a round body like the earth, because we see that any sideways pull, for example to the east, is made up for by an equal sideways pull to the west.

Not all the atoms of the earth are pulling at things

¹ Put into Basic from Science: a new Outline, J. W. N. Sullivan, pp. 36-41. Some international science words are used in this account.

lizkwəl lforrs, bikoz və lforrs əv ən latəmz lpul iz dilpendənt ən its ldistəns lfrom ə bin. lif wir ər lmezərin və lweit əv lsambin in llandən it iz lkliər vət ə lstoun in lsaubend iz lpulin at it wiv ə lgreitər lforrs vən iz ə lstoun kəmlpliztli llaik it in ltimbakltur. lteikin intur əlkaunt və ldifərənt dilreksənz ənd ldistənsiz əv lorl vir latəmz əv vir lərib, lhwət wud lbir vər ldzenərəl ilfekt? və lbjurtiful llər wəz lwərikt laut bai sər laizək İnjurtn vət vir əltraksən əv ə lraund lsəlid lbədi ən lenibin ləat inlsaid it iz və seim əz if və kəmlplirt lmas əv və lbədi wəz at its lmidl lpəint. Vir ilfekts əv lərl virz lpulz, ldifərənt in lfərrs ənd dilreksən, arr lgivn in lvat lsteitmənt.

Iteik, fər ig'zazmpl, öiz ləzrə ənd öə lsan: lhiər wiz hav ltuz raund solid bodiz, ənd levri latəm əv lwan iz lpulin ət levri latəm əv öiz laöər, ənd öiz laöər lwei lraund. bət in lwə:rkin laut öə ldzenərəl ilfekt, wiz mei lduz sou əz if öə kəmlplizt lmas əv öz lsan wəz at its lmidl lpoint, ənd öə kəmlplizt lmas əv öz ləzrə at its lmidl lpoint. sou öət lif wiz ər leibl tə lsei lhwət öə lmasiz əv öə lsan ənd əv öiz ləzrə lazr, wiz həv lounli tə hav lnolidz in əldişən əv öə ldıstəns bitwizn öeər lmidl lpoints. öə lon ənd lkəmpleks lbiznis əv lwəzrkin laut lsepəritli öə lpul əv levri latəm ən evri laöər latəm iz meid anlnesəsəri bai löis lsimpl loz.

os kəmlplizt lpul əv viz ləzrθ ən ə lθiŋ huzz lweit wiz ər lmezəriŋ iz və lseim əz if viz ləzrθs lmas wəz ləzl ət its lmidl lpaint. sou viz ləzrθs lpul ən leniθiŋ iz tə və lmidl lpaint əv viz ləzrθ. fər ə lθiŋ ən və lfeis əv viz with equal force, because the force of an atom's pull is dependent on its distance from a thing. If we are measuring the weight of something in London it is clear that a stone in Southend is pulling at it with a greater force than is a stone completely like it in Timbuctoo. Taking into account the different directions and distances of all the atoms of the earth, what would be their general effect? The beautiful law was worked out by Sir Isaac Newton that the attraction of a round solid body on anything not inside it is the same as if the complete mass of the body was at its middle point. The effects of all these pulls, different in force and direction, are given in that statement.

Take, for example, the earth and the sun: Here we have two round solid bodies, and every atom of one is pulling at every atom of the other, and the other way round. But in working out the general effect, we may do so as if the complete mass of the sun was at its middle point, and the complete mass of the earth at its middle point. So that if we are able to say what the masses of the sun and of the earth are, we have only to have knowledge in addition of the distance between their middle points. The long and complex business of working out separately the pull of every atom on every other atom is made unnecessary by this simple law.

The complete pull of the earth on a thing whose weight we are measuring is the same as if the earth's mass was all at its middle point. So the earth's pull on anything is to the middle point of the earth. For lerio dis loint iz ebaut lor loauzend lmailz elwei. lenion lhaier den de leis ev dir lerio wud bir et e lerior ldistens frem de lmidl, end fer dis lrizn dir lerios loul wud bir les; dat iz te leei, de loin wud hav les lweit. at e lerio inaf ldistens lfrom dir lerio, lfar in lauter lepeis, de loin wud hav lerimoust lnou lweit et leri.

wiz siz, ven, vet ve lweit ev eniθin iz not en anltseindzin əlmaunt. let əs biz kliər dət də lweit əv ə bodi iz difərənt frəm its mas. İnjustn səd vət və mas ev e bodi wez di elmaunt ev sabstens in it. vis iz klierli ve seim if ve bodi iz on ve feis ev vi: 'exrθ exr |fair |of in |auter |speis. it iz |not di|pendent on to polzison ov to bodi in rilleison tu: later bodiz. to weits ov tu: bodiz wil hav a fikst rillei on to beer meger if to weits er megerd et to seim pleis, end fer löis rizn wiz frizkwəntli teik weit əz bizin lizkwəl tə mas. wir get bater bai de paund, fer igharmpl, bikez to weit iz o tru: gaid to ti: olmaunt ov bator wi: or lgetin, on ldzu:piter ve lweit ev ve lseim elmaunt wud biz veri mat morr. a man on dgurpiter (if tat wez polsibl) wud lmeik və dislkavəri vət ə lmizl əv ə lhazfpaund av birf wudnt gou veri farr. it iz, in fakt, not to weit, bot tix o'maunt our mas hwith his iz intristid in.

lif, δen, δe lweit ev e lbodi mei biz ltseindzd bai kenldisenz, hwail its lmas iz lfikst, δeer iz lneseserili sam lwei ev lmezerin its lmas laδer δen θruz its lweit. if wiz put lforrs on e lbodi, az bai lpulin orr lpusin it, δen lif δe lbodi iz lfriz te biz lmuzvd, wiz giv it lmousen.

a thing on the face of the earth this point is about 4000 miles away. Anything higher than the face of the earth would be at a greater distance from the middle, and for this reason the earth's pull would be less; that is to say, the thing would have less weight. At a great enough distance from the earth, far in outer space, the thing would have almost no weight at all.

We see, then, that the weight of anything is not an unchanging amount. Let us be clear that the weight of a body is different from its mass. Newton said that the mass of a body was the amount of substance in it. This is clearly the same if the body is on the face of the earth or far off in outer space. It is not dependent on the position of the body in relation to other bodies. The weights of two bodies will have a fixed relation to their measure if the weights are measured at the same place, and for this reason we frequently take weight as being equal to mass. We get butter by the pound, for example, because the weight is a true guide to the amount of butter we are getting. On Jupiter the weight of the same amount would be very much more. A man on Jupiter (if that was possible) would make the discovery that a meal of a half-pound of beef wouldn't go very far. It is, in fact, not the weight, but the amount or mass which he is interested in.

If, then, the weight of a body may be changed by conditions, while its mass is fixed, there is necessarily some way of measuring its mass other than through its weight. If we put force on a body, as by pulling or pushing it, then if the body is free to be moved, we ve igreitər ve imas əv ve ibodi ve iles iz ve imousən wir igiv it, sou ilen, inatsərəli, əz wir ər ijurzin ve iseim dilgrir əv ifers tər ve iseim əlmaunt əv itaim. İif wir imeik ve imas itwais əz igreit, wir wil giv it iharf əz mats imousən. ənd iseu en.

ซือ masiz əv bodiz mei bi: mezərd in əldisən, bai səndin vəm əgenst əlnavər bodi. ə sərrtn fərrs iz nirdid fər stəpin ə bodi in mousən. və greitər və mas əv və bodi, sou lən əz və reit əv mousən iz və seim, və greitər və fərrs nirdid.

nau oil biz weiz əv mezərin sim not tə biz dilpendent et lorl on beer sforrs ev eltraksen. De masiz əv tu: bodiz mait bi: mezərd bai sendin vəm əlgenst wan ənabər wiblaut givin leni əlten(ən tə bi: əltrak(ən vei hav for wan onavor. in fakt, if vo ridor wil giv səm looit tə lhwət wir hev sed, hir wil sir dət də swərd mas simz to bi: juzd for tu: diforent kwolitiz ov o bikoz wi: sed in wan pleis oat oa, pul bitwi:n tu: bodiz iz in a fikst rilleisan ta vear masiz. in lavar weirdz, bai mezerin deer eltraksenz, wir mait get et beer masiz, and leiter wit hav sed bet beer masiz mait bi: wərkt aut bai sendin təm əlgenst wan lair de masiz toikt ov in diz tui tests de seim? wi: si: nou ri:zn, autsaid ikspieriens, fer te billisf vot vei lair vo seim, and, in lakt, vei hov bien givn tu: difərənt neimz- və fə:rst bi:in gravitei(ənəl mas and to sekand inforfol mas. bat, on tis later hand, ve moust dizteild tests giv nou sain vet vei er in leni lwei diferent. lif it iz si:n frem 50 test en sendin give it motion. The greater the mass of the body the less is the motion we give it, so long, naturally, as we are using the same degree of force for the same amount of time. If we make the mass twice as great, we will give it half as much motion. And so on.

The masses of bodies may be measured in addition, by sending them against another body. A certain force is needed for stopping a body in motion. The greater the mass of the body, so long as the rate of motion is the same, the greater the force needed.

Now all these ways of measuring seem not to be dependent at all on their force of attraction. The masses of two bodies might be measured by sending them against one another without giving any attention to the attraction they have for one another. In fact. if the reader will give some thought to what we have said, he will see that the word "mass" seems to be used for two different qualities of a body. Because we said in one place that the pull between two bodies is in a fixed relation to their masses. In other words. by measuring their attractions, we might get at their And later we have said that their masses might be worked out by sending them against one another. Are the masses talked of in these two tests the same? We see no reason, outside experience, for the belief that they are the same, and, in fact, they have been given two different names—the first being "gravitational mass" and the second "inertial mass." But, on the other hand, the most detailed tests give no sign that they are in any way different. If it is seen van linte wan engver vet wan bodi haz twais vi: in | əːr(əl | mas əv ə | naðər, ðen it wil biz | sizn frəm ðiz əltrak(ən ltest öət it haz ltwais öə graviltei(ənəl mas. Sis kəmipliztli parəlel kənidi(ən iz kwait anit(eindzin, and sizmz to biz, hwen wan givz boot tuz it, veri streindz, bikoz it simz kwait ə pəsibl aidiə vət sabstens mait not hav had forrs av altraksen. If wir keim əkrəs ə stoun in lautər speis ənd sgeiv it ə blou wid a stik it wud biz put in mousan, and its reit av moulan wud biz dilpendant on va forrs av va blou and on its in orr (al mas. bet hwai daz de stoun hav dis streindz pauer ev pulin el laver stounz—in fakt, lorl sabstons? bot wir never hav to wan withaut tir lader. iz it lposebl det gravilteisen end infersie ar tur neimz fər və seim bin? bis iz ə kwest(ən hwit) moust men av saians duz not sizm ta hav bizn trabld bai, bet wan man wez not ounli diepli trable bai it, bot hir lgot dir larnsor; and dir lautkam iz dat lgreit ltə:rnin-point in saiəns neimd ainsteinz θiəri əv reləltiviti.

from the test of sending them into one another that one body has twice the inertial mass of another, then it will be seen from the attraction test that it has twice the gravitational mass. This completely parallel condition is quite unchanging, and seems to be, when one gives thought of it, very strange. Because it seems quite a possible idea that substance might not have had force of attraction. If we came across a stone in outer space and gave it a blow with a stick it would be put in motion, and its rate of motion would be dependent on the force of the blow and on its inertial mass. But why does the stone have this strange power of pulling all other stones-in fact, all substance? But we never have the one without the other. Is it possible that "gravitation" and "inertia" are two names for the same thing? This is a question which most men of science do not seem to have been troubled by. But one man was not only deeply troubled by it, but he got the answer; and the outcome is that great turning-point in science named Einstein's Theory of Relativity.

və İstorri əv İdgurdəs

- 12. and on to 'fairst 'dai av an'levnd 'bred, hwen tei 'meid an 'ofarin av to 'paisouvar, hiz di'saiplz 'sed to him, 'hwear ar wir to 'gou and meik 'redi far jur to 'teik to 'paisouvar?
- 13. and hiz sent tuz av hiz! di!saiplz, and sed ta sam, gou inta sa taun, and sear wil kam ta juz a man wis a vesl av worter: gou arfter him;
- 14. ənd hweər'evər hiz 'gouz lin, 'sei tə tiz 'ounər əv tə 'haus, tə 'mazstər 'sez, 'hweər iz mai 'gest-rum, hweər ai mei 'teik tə 'pazsouvər wit mai di'saiplz?
- 15. and hiz wil teik juz him self tuz a greit hapar ruzm wið a teibl and sizts: and bear meik redi far as.
- 16. ənd və dilsaiplz went laut, ənd keim intə və ltaun, ənd səz vət it wəz əz hiz həd sed: ənd vei meid redi və pazsouvər.
 - 17. and hwen it waz livnin hir keim wid da twelv.
 - 18. and hwail bei war sixtid teikin fuxd, dzizzas

THE STORY OF JUDAS 1

- 12. And on the first day of Unleavened Bread, when they made an offering of the Passover, his disciples said to him, Where are we to go and make ready for you to take the Passover?
- 13. And he sent two of his disciples, and said to them, Go into the town, and there will come to you a man with a vessel of water: go after him;
- 14. And wherever he goes in, say to the owner of the house, The Master says, Where is my guestroom, where I may take the Passover with my disciples?
- 15. And he will take you himself to a great upper room with a table and seats: and there make ready for us.
- 16. And the disciples went out, and came into the town, and saw that it was as he had said: and they made ready the Passover.
- 17. And when it was evening he came with the twelve.
 - 18. And while they were seated taking food, Jesus
- ¹ From The Basic St. Mark, Ch. xiv, pp. 88-92. In this story words are used from the List for Reading Verse (100 words) and the Bible List (50 words).

THE STORY OF JUDAS

sed, truili, ai sei tə juz, wan əv juz wil biz fozls tə miz, wan huz iz teikin fuzd wið miz.

- 19. čei wər sad, ənd sed tə him wan bai wan, iz it ai ?
- 20. and hiz sed to som, it iz wan av so twelv, wan huz iz putin hiz bred wis miz into so seim vesl.
- 21. To san ov man gouz, sirvn oz To raitinz sei ov him: bot skorrst iz tat man oru: hum To san ov man iz givn ap! it wud hov birn gud for tat man had hir not birn givn borro.
- 22. and 'hwail sei war 'teikin 'fund, hir 'tuk 'bred, and hwen hir had 'givn it hiz 'blesin, hir 'meid a 'divizan av it, and 'geiv it ta sam, and 'sed, 'teik it; 'sis iz mai 'bodi.
- 23. ənd hiz tuk ə kap, ənd hwen hiz həd sed ə preər, hiz geiv it tə səm; ənd sei ozl had ə drink frəm it.
- 24. and hi: 'sed to vom, 'vis iz mai, 'blad av vo' testamant, hwit' iz givn far men.
- 25. İtruzli ai İsei tə İjuz, ai wil teik İnou İməzr əv tə İfruzt əv tə İvain, til tə İdei hwen ai İteik it İnjuz in tə İkindəm əv İgod.
- 26. ənd la:ftər ə lson əv lpreiz, vei lwent laut tə və lmauntin əv lolivz.
- 27. ənd 'dʒi:zəs 'sed tə öəm, juz wil 'oːl biz 'təːrnd əˈgenst mi: bikəz it iz 'in öə 'buk, ai wil put öə ˈkiːpər əv öə ˈʃiːp tə ˈdeθ, ənd öə ˈʃiːp wil biz ˈwəndəriŋ in ˈevri diˈrekʃən.
- 28. bət [|]azftər ai həv [|]gət [|]ap frəm 5ə [|]ded, ai wil [|]gou bi|[†]fər juz intə [|]galiliz.

THE STORY OF JUDAS

- said, Truly, I say to you, One of you will be false to me, one who is taking food with me.
- 19. They were sad, and said to him one by one, Is it I?
- 20. And he said to them, It is one of the twelve, one who is putting his bread with me into the same vessel.
- 21. The Son of man goes, even as the writings say of him: but cursed is that man through whom the Son of man is given up! It would have been good for that man had he not been given birth.
- 22. And while they were taking food, he took bread, and when he had given it his blessing, he made a division of it, and gave it to them, and said, Take it; this is my body.
- 23. And he took a cup, and when he had said a prayer, he gave it to them; and they all had a drink from it.
- 24. And he said to them, This is my blood of the testament, which is given for men.
- 25. Truly I say to you, I will take no more of the fruit of the vine, till the day when I take it new in the kingdom of God.
- 26. And after a song of praise, they went out to the Mountain of Olives.
- 27. And Jesus said to them, You will all be turned against me: because it is in the Book, I will put the keeper of the sheep to death, and the sheep will be wandering in every direction.
- 28. But after I have got up from the dead, I will go before you into Galilee.

- 29. bət |pixtər |sed tə him, vou vix |Avərz mei bix təxrnd ə|genst jux, |ai wil |not bix.
- 30. ənd dzizəs sed tə him, truzli ai sei tə juz, öət juz, tədei, sizvn si sait, bisər sə kəks sekənd krai, wil sei θriz taimz sət juz hav nou nəlidz əv miz.
- 31. bət hiz sed wið pasən, if ai hav tə biz put tə deθ wið juz, ai wil not biz forls tuz juz, ənd fei orl sed fə seim.
- 32. ənd δei keim tuz ə pleis hwit, wəz neimd geθseməni; ənd hiz sed tə hiz disaiplz, biz siztid hiər hwail ai sei ə preər.
- 33. and hiz tuk wið him piztar and dzeimz and dzon, and grizf and greit trabl keim apon him.
- 34. and hiz sed to dom, mai soul iz veri sad, sixn to dee: but hier a litt staim, and skiep wots.
- 35. and hiz went forward a litl, and forlin daun on bir are, meid a prear bat, if it waz posibl, bir auar mait gou from him.
- 37. ənd hiz keim, ənd səz öəm slizpin, ənd sed tə piztər, saimən, azr juz slizpin vəzr juz anleibl tə kizp wət wan anər?
- 38. kiːp wət ənd sei preərz, sou vət juː mei nət biː ouvər kam bai viː liːvl wan; və spirit truːli iz redi, bət və sel sei si si si liːvl wan; və spirit truːli iz
- 39. and algen hiz went alwei and sed a prear, juzzin to seim wardz.

- 29. But Peter said to him, Though the others may be turned against you, I will not be.
- 30. And Jesus said to him, Truly I say to you, that you, today, even this night, before the cock's second cry, will say three times that you have no knowledge of me.
- 31. But he said with passion, If I have to be put to death with you, I will not be false to you. And they all said the same.
- 32. And they came to a place which was named Gethsemane; and he said to his disciples, Be seated here while I say a prayer.
- 33. And he took with him Peter and James and John, and grief and great trouble came upon him.
- 34. And he said to them, My soul is very sad, even to death: be here a little time, and keep watch.
- 35. And he went forward a little, and falling down on the earth, made a prayer that, if it was possible, the hour might go from him.
- 36. And he said, Abba, Father, all things are possible to you; take away this cup from me: but even so, not my desire but yours be done.
- 37. And he came, and saw them sleeping, and said to Peter, Simon, are you sleeping? Were you unable to keep watch one hour?
- 38. Keep watch and say prayers, so that you may not be overcome by the evil one; the spirit truly is ready, but the flesh is feeble.
- 39. And again he went away and said a prayer, using the same words.

- 40. ənd əlgen hiz keim ənd səz öəm slizpin, bikəz beər saiz wər veri taiərd; ənd bei həd nλθin tə sei in axınsər.
- 41. ənd hiz keim το θəzrd taim, ənd sed tə τəm, gou lən slizpin nau, ənd teik juər rest; siz, το san əv man iz givn ap intə το handz əv lizvl men.
- 42. |get |ap, |let əs biz |gouin; |siz, |hiz huz |givz miz |ap iz ət |hand.
- 43. ənd streit əlwei, hwail hiz wəz stil stərkin, dzurdəs skeim, swan əv və stwelv, ənd swið him ə sgreit nambər wið sərrdz ənd stiks, frəm və styrf priests, ənd və skraibz ənd vouz in ərsəriti.
- 44. nau hiz huz həd bizn fəzls tə him həd lgivn bəm ə sain seiin, tə huzmlevər ai giv ə kis, bat iz hiz; get him, ənd teik him əlwei seifli.
- 45. and hwen his had kam, his went streit tus him and sed, rabai; and geiv him a kis.
 - 46. and bei put bear handz on him, and tuk him.
- 47. bət ə sərrtn wan əv vəm hur wəz niər tuk aut hiz sərrd, ənd geiv və sərrvənt əv və hai prirst ə blou, katin əf hiz sər.
- 48. ənd İdzi:zəs İsed tə öəm, İhav juz İkam laut əz əlgenst ə löi:f, wiö İsə:rdz ənd İstiks tə İteik miz?
- 49. ai wəz wið ju: levri ldei in ðə lhaus əv lgod lti:tsin, ənd ju: ldid not lteik mi:; bət lðis iz ldan sou ðət ðə lhouli lraitinz mei lkam ltru:.
 - 50. and bei oil went awei fram him in fiar.
- 51. and a saurtn jan man went after him, wis ounli a linin kloo abaut hiz bodi; and sei put sear handz on him;

- 40. And again he came and saw them sleeping, because their eyes were very tired; and they had nothing to say in answer.
- 41. And he came the third time, and said to them, Go on sleeping now, and take your rest; see, the Son of man is given up into the hands of evil men.
- 42. Get up, let us be going; see, he who gives me up is at hand.
- 43. And straight away, while he was still talking, Judas came, one of the twelve, and with him a great number with swords and sticks, from the chief priests, and the scribes and those in authority.
- 44. Now he who had been false to him had given them a sign saying, To whomever I give a kiss, that is he; get him, and take him away safely.
- 45. And when he had come, he went straight to him and said, Rabbi; and gave him a kiss.
 - 46. And they put their hands on him, and took him.
- 47. But a certain one of them who was near took out his sword and gave the servant of the high priest a blow, cutting off his ear.
- 48. And Jesus said to them, Have you come out as against a thief, with swords and sticks to take me?
- 49. I was with you every day in the House of God teaching, and you did not take me; but this is done so that the holy writings may come true.
 - 50. And they all went away from him in fear.
- 51. And a certain young man went after him, with only a linen cloth about his body; and they put their hands on him;

- 52. bət hiz İgot əlwei anlıklouŏd, wiölaut 5ə İlinin İklə0.
- 53. ənd δei tuk dʒizəs əlwei tə δə hai prizst; ənd δeər keim təlgeδər wið him lozl δə tʃizf prizsts ənd δουz in οιθοιτί ənd δə skraibz.

- 52. But he got away unclothed, without the linen cloth.
- 53. And they took Jesus away to the high priest; and there came together with him all the chief priests and those in authority and the scribes.

mani ənd pərtfəsin pauər

wi: hav ə dilzaiər tə biz səzrtn, əzr əz səzrtn əz it iz pəsibl tə biz, öat hwen wiz hav mani in auər pəkits əzr ət auər banks, it wil hav öə seim pəzrtsəsin pauər, əzr giv əs öə seim kənltroul ouvər öə gudz ənd sezrvisiz hwits ər ofərd fər seil, ət eni taim—təldei əzr təlmərou, in ə ljiərz taim, əzr in lifti ljiərz taim.

bis kəmlplizli lfikst lpərtfəsin pauər ouvər lozl lsərts əv lgudz ənd lsərvisiz wud lounli biz lpəsibl if lozl lpraisiz wər ət lozl ltaimz anltfeindzd; ənd löis lkliərli wil lnevər lbiz, bikəz əv öə ltfeindziz in 'öə lreit ənd lkəst əv prəldjuzsin lsərtn lgudz. in lgud ljiərz, hwen öeər iz lmərr öən öə lnərməl əlmaunt əv lfarım lprədjuzs, öə ltendənsi liz fər it tə biz ltfizpər öən laöər lθinz; ənd öə lseim ilfekt wil lkam əlbaut lif, θruz səm lnjuz inlvenfən, lstizl, əzr lkemikəli prəldjuzst lsilk, əzr leni laöər lθin dilzaiərd bai lman, iz lmeid lmərr lkwikli ənd ltfizpli. bət lautsaid löizz ltfeindziz in lpfäisiz lkəzzd bai öə lfakt öət öeər iz lmərr əzr lles, öən öə lnərməl əlmaunt əv löis əzr löat lsəxrt əv lgudz, it iz imlpəzrtənt fər öiz lavəridz lpəzrtfəsin pauər əv lmani ouvər ə

MONEY AND PURCHASING POWER 1

We have a desire to be certain, or as certain as it is possible to be, that when we have money in our pockets or at our banks, it will have the same purchasing power, or give us the same control over the goods and services which are offered for sale, at any time—today or tomorrow, in a year's time, or in fifty years' time.

This completely fixed purchasing power over all sorts of goods and services would only be possible if all prices were at all times unchanged; and this clearly will never be, because of the changes in the rate and cost of producing certain goods. In good years, when there is more than the normal amount of farm produce, the tendency is for it to be cheaper than other things; and the same effect will come about if, through some new invention, steel, or chemically produced silk, or any other thing desired by man, is made more quickly and cheaply. But outside these changes in prices caused by the fact that there is more or less than the normal amount of this or that sort of goods, it is important for the everage purchasing power of money

(4842) 177 N

¹ Put into Basic from Money, Hartley Withers, pp. 76-79: In this account words are used from the Economics List (50 words).

MONEY AND PURCHASING POWER

Inamber əv İjiərz tə biz in ə İgreit İmezər İfikst fər İozl İgudz İteikn tə İgedər. Tiz İnvəridz İtşeindz əv İprais ə İozl İgudz İteikn tə İgedər iz İmezərd fər əs bai İekspəzrts in stə İtistiks, huzz İwəzrk it İiz tə İget tə İgədər Tə stə İtistiks əv İtşeindz əv İautput, İgudz İjuzzd, İpraisiz, ənd İevri İndər İfakt hwitş mei biz İput intə İnambər İfozrm, wid Tə İhelp əv İhwət ər İneimd İndeks İnambərz. Tiz İindeks İnambər İgivz əs Tə İdzenərəl İlevl əv İpraisiz, ənd hwen Tois İkizps an İtşeindzd, Tə İpəzrtşəsin pauər əv auər İmani iz an İtşeindzd, Tər İlizst Tota iz auər İhoup.

daut on to kwestson iz natsorol in vju: ov ti: ik spieriens ev di: averidg peirt eser, hui iz friikwentli sər praizd bai və steitmənt vət praisiz həv bikam sou mat(llouer laifter de lwoir, oir laifter e lseirtn ldei : Tou hi: hez not sim eni sats drop in hiz famili əlkaunts, oir hwen hiz meiks ə lpəirtses. ənd lhwen it iz pointid aut to him oot indeks hamberz or dzenərəli beist on və praisiz əv houlseil gudz, vət ə foil in sats praisiz teiks sam taim to get to to pablik bilkoz əv vi: opəlrei(ənz əv midlmen ənd ri: teilerz, end tet lindeks namberz du: not dzenereli teik intu əlkaunt və kəst əv sərvisiz sati əz reilwei karidz, orr edjukeisən, orr haus rent, hir kamz tə bə dılsizən bət lindeks nambərz ər lnot ə lveri ltru: mezər ev de kost ev llivin. in eldisen, it probabli kamz te hiz maind tot indeks namberz speseli dizaind fer megarin to kost av livin av a wairkin manz famili hav bi:n a ko:z av mat trabl in indestri.

beər iz samθin in bis, and be vju: av be man in be over a number of years to be in a great measure fixed for all goods taken together. The average change of price of all goods taken together is measured for us by experts in statistics, whose work it is to get together the statistics of changes of output, goods used, prices, and every other fact which may be put into number form, with the help of what are named Index Numbers. The Index Number gives us the general level of prices, and when this keeps unchanged, the purchasing power of our money is unchanged, or at least that is our hope.

Money and Purchasing Power

Doubt on the question is natural in view of the experience of the average purchaser, who is frequently surprised by the statement that prices have become so much lower after the War, or after a certain day; though he has not seen any such drop in his family accounts, or when he makes a purchase. And when it is pointed out to him that Index Numbers are generally based on the prices of wholesale goods, that a fall in such prices takes some time to get to the public because of the operations of middlemen and retailers, and that Index Numbers do not generally take into account the cost of services such as railway carriage. or education, or house rent, he comes to the decision that Index Numbers are not a very true measure of the cost of living. In addition, it probably comes to his mind that Index Numbers specially designed for measuring the cost of living of a working man's family have been a cause of much trouble in industry.

There is something in this, and the view of the man

MONEY AND PURCHASING POWER

strizt iz səlpəzrtid bai prəlfesər lmazr\(\)əl in ə lsteitmənt tə diz ilfekt dət ə kəmlpliztli ltruz lmezər əv lpəzrt\(\)səin pauər iz imlpəsibl lnət lounli in lfakt bət in lbəzt. bət lindeks lnambərz, əz llən əz wiz ər lkən\(\)sə əv deər llimits, azr əv lveri lgreit ljuzs əz ə lraf lmezər, and ən anlt\(\)eindzin lindeks lnambər iz lsəzrtnli ə lsain dət dər iz lveri llitl lt\(\)eindz in də lpəzrt\(\)əsin pauər əv lmani, ənd dat iz ləzl dət mei biz lukt fozr.

bət hav wiz in fakt ə dizzaiər fər öə fikst prais kəndifən hwitf iz mazrkt bai ən antfeindzin indeks nambər? wud it nət in fakt biz matf məzr plizzin if wiz meid öə diskavəri, levri taim wiz meid ə pəzrtfəs, öət auər mani went fəzröər, bikəz praisiz wər fəzlin ləzl öə taim?

lif wir ər lukin lounli ət auər lintrists əz lpərrtsəsərz ənd kənlsjurmərz, löis iz lsərrtnli lsou—əz lsats, wir ər lmats mərr lplizzd tə sir lpraisiz lfərlin ənd gə lpərrtsəsin pauər əv auər lmani gouin lap bən tə lsir bəm lkirpin levl. bət löis iz lounli lsou əz llən əz wir ər lsərrtn bət bir əlmaunt əv lmani hwits wir lhav in auər lpəkits wil lirkwəli bir anltseindzd, ənd it iz lveri lharrd fər əs tə bir lsərrtn əbaut löis.

Money and Purchasing Power

in the street is supported by Professor Marshall in a statement to the effect that a completely true measure of purchasing power is impossible not only in fact but in thought. But Index Numbers, as long as we are conscious of their limits, are of very great use as a rough measure, and an unchanging Index Number is certainly a sign that there is very little change in the purchasing power of money, and that is all which may be looked for.

But have we in fact a desire for the fixed price condition which is marked by an unchanging Index Number? Would it not in fact be much more pleasing if we made the discovery, every time we made a purchase, that our money went further, because prices were falling all the time?

If we are looking only at our interests as purchasers and consumers, this is certainly so—as such, we are much more pleased to see prices falling and the purchasing power of our money going up than to see them keeping level. But this is only so as long as we are certain that the amount of money which we have in our pockets will equally be unchanged, and it is very hard for us to be certain about this.

OPERATIONS, ETC. (100)

kam bilforr get biltwi:n giv bai gou daun ki:p frəm from let meik in of put sizm on teik louver bi: Oru: du: tu: |Andər hav həv sei Λр wið siz send azəΖ forr fər mei wil til əlbaut ďan ðən əlkrəs arftər (an ən) ðiz бә əlgenst əlmaŋ

leni	hiər
levri	nıər
nou	nau
^l ^ðər	aut
sam səm	stil
sat\	den den
dat dot	dear da
ðis	tu ^l geðər
ai	wel
hi:	lo:lmoust
ju:	ilnaf
huz	lizvn
and ənd	litl
bi ^l kəz	mats
bat bet	not əir	ounli
if	kwait
ซ้อน	sou
hwail	veri
hau	tulmorou
hwen	jestərde
hweər	no:rθ
hwai	sauθ
əlgen	izst
evər	west
fair	pli:z
forrword	jes

```
THINGS (General)
                             (400)
                                | əldifən
| əldzastmənt əlkarınt
                              184
```

akt

ad varrtismant əlgrizmənt ear əlmaunt əlmiu:zmənt laniməl larnsər apəlreitəs ə[[]pruzvl largjument airt əltak əltempt əltenfən əltraksən əzlθəriti bak balans beis bilheiv jər bill:f barre bit bait blad blou |bodi brais bred $bre\theta$ brager

bildin

bərn

bə:rst hiznis bater keər kaz t(o:k tlams tleindz $klo\theta$ koul lkalar |kamfart kəlmiti kamponi kəm[|]parisən kəmpi^lti[ən kən|di(ən kəlnek(ən kanltroul kuk lkəpər kopi kork lkətn kəf |kantri lkavər krak kredit kraim kras krai

karent kəzrv damidz deindzər dorter dei deA det di^lsizən di|gri: di[|]zain di[|]zaiər di[|]strak(ən dizteil di[|]veləpmənt di|dzest(ən di rek (ən dis kavəri dis¹k_A(ən dilzi:z disgnst distans distri|bju:(ən dilvizən daut drink draivin dast a:r0 ed3 edju:|keisən ilfekt end

lerər ilvent ig|za:mpl iks|t(eindz ig[|]zistəns iks pan (ən iks piəriəns ekspə:rt fakt fa:l famili fazðar fiər fi:lin fik(ən fiːld fait faiar fleim flait lflauər fould furd form frend frant fru:t gla:s grais grip gru:p grouθ gaid l hazrbər harrmani heit hiərin hizt help histori houl houp auər hiu:mər ais aildia limpals linkrizs lindəstri ink linsekt linstrument in (uərəns lintrest in ven (ən aiərn ^ldzeli dzoin ^ldzə:rni danda dzamp kik kis nolida land langwidz la:f loz led llə:rnin lleðar letor llevl lift. lait llimit llinin likwid list luk las lav məl(i:n man manidzer mazrk markit mas mizl |meʒər mixt |mi:tin |meməri |metl midl

milk maind main Iminit mist. mani mann |mo:rnin m v ger |mou(ən mauntin muzv mjuzik neim |nei(ən nizd nju:z nait noiz nout Inamber obzər|vei(ən lofar oil opəlrei(ən əlpinjən birdər orgənai|zei(ən ornement ounər peidz pein . peint

peiper pairt peist peimənt pirs pərrsn pleis plaint plei plegor point nzical lileq poirter pəlzi(ən paudər pauər prais print prouses prodius |profit ^lproperti prouz proutest pul Ipani(ment pərrpəs pu∫ |kwəliti |kwest(ən rein reindz

reit	sə:rvənt
7.7.7	seks
rei	(eid
rilak (ən	(eik rizdin
rizn	∫eim
rekorrd	∫ok
rilgret	said
rilleiSən	sain
ri ^l lidʒən	silk
repri [[] zentətiv	silvər
rikwest	sistər
ri spekt	saiz
rest	skai
ri ^l wo:rd	sli:p
lriðm	slip
rais	sloup
rivər	sma \
roud	smel
roul	smail
ru:m rum	smouk
rab	sniz
ruzl	snou
ran	soup
sorlt	sə ^l saiiti
sand	san
skeil	son
laiens	sorrt
siz	saund
sixt	surp
lsekritəri	speis
si ^l lek∫ən	steidz
self	starrt
sens	steitment
00110	1 3000000000000000000000000000000000000

stirm stirl step stit(stoun stop storri stret(straktfor sabstans \(\ugar səldzest(ən samer səlpəzrt sər'praiz swim sistim tark teist taks ti:t(in tendənsi test |Oiəri θ in Oozt |Oander taim tin top tats Itreid transpoirt

trik !trabl tə:rn twist lju:nit Ivaliu: vərrs |vesl vjuz vois work worr lcw weist weiv waks wei lweðər wizk weit wind wain lwintər |wumən

(pl.) wimin

wud wul weird weirk wuind raitin jier

THINGS (PICTURABLE) (200)

angl ant lapl airt(arrm lazrmi beibi bag boxl hand beisn barskit ba:0 hed bi: hel beri harrd bleid borrd bout boun buk bust lbatl boks boi brein breik

bra:nt[brik brid3 bras bakit. balb batn keik kamərə kard karrt |karida kat t(ein t(i:z t(est t(in tfə:rtf lsə:rkl klak kland kout |kələr koum korrd kau kap kə:rtn lku[ən dog dorr drein drozr dres drop iər eg endzin ai feis farrm lfeðar. lfingər fi۲ flag flarr flai fut forrk faul freim gazrdn gərrl glav gout gan heər hamer hand hat hed hazrt huk harrn horrs hospitl haus lailand dzuəl lketl ki: ni: naif not lizf leg Haibiəri lam lip lok map mat(manki mu:n mauθ masl neil nek nizdl nə:rv net nouz nat lofis orind3 skin lavn skərrt pairsl sneik pen sokpensl speid |pikt∫ər spandz pig spurn pin sprin paip skwear plein pleit stamp plau sta:r lstei(ən pokit pot stem stik pəlteitou ^lstokin prizn stamak рлтр storr reil strixt rat risixt san teibl rin teil rod θ red ruzf Arout rust θ_{Λ} m seil ltikit skurl sizərz tou skru: tan tu:0 sizd \i:p taun Self trein trei ſip fairt trauzerz (u: 193 (4342)

Ambrela
worl wotf hwirl hwip

hwisl windou win waier weirm

QUALITIES (100)

eibl. asid langri orte matik biu:tiful blak boilin brait broukn braun tsirp kemikl t(i:f klizn kliar lkomen kompleks kon(əs kat dirp dilpendant əzrli illastik

illektrik lizkwal fat |fə:rtail fə:rst fikst flat fri: frizkwent. ful dzenərəl gud greit grei hanin hapi hazrd helθi hai holou im portent, kaind laik

livin
lon
meil marid mə ^l tiəriəl medikl militəri natsərəl nesisəri njuz norrməl oupn parəlel paist fizikl pəˈlitikl puər posibl preznt praivit probabl kwik kwaiət redi red regjulər ri sponsibl

rait raund seim sekend separat siəriəs Sarrp smu:ð stiki stif streit stron Isadn swit to:l θ ik tait taiərd tru: |vaiələnt weitin worm wet

OPPOSITES

(50)

əlweik bad | bent |bitər

195

bluz səzrtn kould kəm[|]plizt kruəl dazrk ded diər delikət difərənt dərrti drai forls fi:bl fi:meil fu:li(fju:tsər gri:n il laist leit left luis

laud lou mikst narou ould lopezit pablik rAf sad seif lsi:krat Spirt ſΛt simpl slou smorl soft Isolid |spe[ə] streindz θ in hwait

rəŋ

THE FIRST 50 INTERNATIONAL WORDS

alcohol aluminium automobile hank har beef beer calendar chemist cheque chocolate chorus cigarette club coffee colony dance engineer gas hotel ¹influenza lava. madam nickel opera

alkəhəl alju: minjem brtamoubirl bank barr hi:f hiar kalindər kemist tſek lt(okəlit Ikarras sigəlret klab lkəfi lkələni darns endzi[|]niər gas houltel influ^lenzə larva madəm nikl lopərə

paraffin park passport patent phonograph piano police post programme propaganda radio restaurant sir sport taxi tea telegram telephone terrace theatre tobacco university whisky zinc orchestra

brkistra parəfin pairk parsport patnt |founəgraf pjanou pəllizs poust prougram propelgande reidiou restərən sər sarr sport taksi tiz teligram telifoun Iteras Hieter təlbakon iu:ni|və:rsiti hwiski zink

INTERNATIONAL WORDS

NAMES OF SCIENCES

Algebra	^l aldzibrə	Geometry	dzi ^l əmətri
Arithmetic	ə ^l ri0mətik	Mathematics	maθəlmatiks
Biology	bai ^l ələdzi	Physics	fiziks
Chemistry	kemistri	Physiology	fizi ^l ələdzı
Geography	dzi ^l ogrəfi	Psychology	sai ^l kələd z i
Geology	dzi ^j ələdzı	Zoology	zo ^l ələdzi

SPECIAL NAMES

College	lkəlid z	Museum	mju: ziəm
Dominion	do ^l minjən	President	prezidənt
Embassy	lembəsi	Prince	prins
Empire	lempaiər	Princess	prin ^l ses
Imperial	im piəriəl	Queen	kwi:n
King	kiŋ	Royal	rəiəl

PRINTED IN GREAT BRITAIN AT THE PRESS OF THE PUBLISHERS